

Celluloid Starch

Saves time, because it makes ironing easier. Saves linen, because it gives a better gloss with half the iron-rubbing. Saves bother, because it needs no cooking... just cold water. And it CAN'T stick. Buy it by name.

THEY KNOW NO SUMMER THIRST.

There is a little creature that lives in the parched wastes of the Sahara which is gifted in a manner that most of us at this moment will envy. It is called the pocket-mouse, and it never suffers from thirst. One of them has been kept in a cage for three years, and fed on nothing more succulent than bird-seed. Never during all that period did it receive a drop of water, and it did not appear to suffer in any way either in spirits or health. It receives its name from the fact that in its cheek it has a little pocket, in which it stores food. When it feels the pangs of hunger, it takes some of the food from this receptacle and eats it, just as a man on a summer excursion into the country might take a sandwich from his pocket. In Tibet there is a breed of sheep which often go for a couple of months without water.

BIASED.

Judge—"Have you formed any previous opinion of the case?"
Henpeck—"No your honor, but Maria has."

If attacked with cholera or summer complaint of any kind send at once for a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and use it according to directions. It acts with wonderful rapidity in subduing that dreadful disease that weakens the strongest man and that destroys the young and delicate. Those who have used this cholera medicine say it acts promptly and never fails to effect a thorough cure.

INNUMERABLE.

One shouldn't get discouraged because one is unable to answer a child's questions. There are others.

The healthy glow disappearing from the cheek and moaning and restlessness at night are sure symptoms of worms in children. Do not fail to get a bottle of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; it is an effectual medicine.

A BELATED APOLOGY.

Mrs. Talkwords—"Henry, you were talking in your sleep last night."
Henry—"Pardon me for interrupting you."

Are your corns harder to remove than those that others have had? Have they not had the same kind? Have they not been cured by using Holloway's Corn Cure? Try a bottle.

STUNG!

"No," said Kadey, "I never associate with my inferiors, do you?"
"Really, I can't say," replied Miss Sharpe. "I don't think I ever met any of your inferiors."

Tommy—"Does your ma hit your foot under the table when you've had enough?" Johnny—"No; that's when I haven't had enough. When I have she sends for the doctor!"

SWIMMERS IN TAHITI.

Small Children Perfectly at Home in Water.

A visitor to Tahitian waters describes a picture he saw there one morning. It was the dawn of a day of one of those beautiful mornings which more commonly inspire poets than sailors. A waft of wind from shore brought a delicious perfume and made the surface of the water wrinkle. The mountains, covered with forests, reared their gigantic heads, upon which was already visible the faint beams of the rising sun. Nearer to the shore was a line of gently sloping hills and wooded like the mountains, and the plain below was adorned with bread fruit trees and palms. Half a mile from the shore the billows sounded against a reef of rocks, but within it was all calm and still as death.

Soon, however, the daylight began to creep over the sky, and one by one the islanders began to come out. At the sight of the vessel in the bay they quickly launched their boats and in a jiffy were circling about the ship.

It was not with the intention of inducing them to show off their powers as swimmers that in the first instance the ornaments were flung to them. One of the officers in handing some trifling articles to a child about six years of age happened to let them fall into the sea, when the youngster at once, leaping out of the canoe, dived for them and reappeared with them in a few seconds. Observing these feats with astonishment and wishing to see further proofs of the expertness of the natives more ornaments were thrown into the water. Not only did the men and women easily catch the objects thrown in but big nails were brought up, although they must have sunk a considerable depth before being caught by the divers.

Its Power Grows With Age.—How many medicines loudly blazoned as panaceas for all human ills have come and gone since Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was first put upon the market? Yet it remains, doing more good to humanity than many a preparation more highly vaunted and extending its virtues wider and wider and in a larger circle every year. It is the medicine of the masses.

Husband—"I wish I had some of those good, old-fashioned biscuits like mother used to make for me." Wife—"And I wish I had some of those nice, new-fashioned clothes like father used to buy for me."

ITCH. Mange, Prairie Scratches and every form of contagious Itch on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Wolford's Sanitary Lotion. It never fails. Sold by all druggists.

Grandmamma: "What are you doing in the pantry, Tommy?" Tommy: "Oh, I'm just putting a few things away, gran'ma!"

Spots and blotches on the face and neck are often merely signs of foul blood. Apply Weaver's Cerate to obtain immediate relief and take Weaver's Syrup to rid the blood of pollution.

Myrtle: "Look what a lovely engagement diamond ring George has given me." Estelle: "Yes; it's lovely. It nearly broke my heart when I sent it back to him."

Suffer no More.—There are thousands who live miserable lives because dyspepsia dulls the faculties and shadows existence with the cloud of depression. One way to dispel the vapors that beset the victims of this disorder is to order them a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are among the best vegetable pills known, being easy to take and are most efficacious in their action. A trial of them will prove this.

"Willie," said his mother, "are you making the baby cry?" "No'm," replied the boy. "I'm holding my hand over her mouth to make her stop!"

Chemists Have Trouble in getting iron into such a state that the system will absorb, and benefit by it. In "Ferrovin," the best tonic, perfection has been achieved. It builds and strengthens.

Dentist: "I've filled all of your teeth that have cavities, sir." Mahoney: "Well, thin, fill th' rist av thim, too; thin whin th' cavities come they'll be already filled, b'gobs!"

A Recognized Regulator.—To bring the digestive organs into symmetrical working is the aim of physicians when they find a patient suffering from stomachic irregularities, and for this purpose they can prescribe nothing better than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which will be found a pleasant medicine of surprising virtue in bringing the refractory organs into subjection and restoring them to normal action, in which condition only can they perform their duties properly.

"OUT, SORROW!"

Sorrow wants to come along,
Tolling solemn knells;
Don't you listen to her song—
Hear the happy bells!

Frighten ugly Care away—
In the dark she dwells;
Get out in the light of day—
Hear the happy bells!

So shall Sorrow mean "Good-bye!"
While an anthem swells,
And the fair fields of the sky
Hear the happy bells!

Young Wife—"To-day is the anniversary of our wedding. I shall have one of the chickens killed in honor of the occasion." Her Husband—"Oh, leave it alone; it wasn't the chicken's fault!"

STEALING THINGS FOR LUCK.

An extraordinary example of the survival of foolish superstition was disclosed in the case of a Hampshire, England, farmer who was recently convicted of stealing turnips from a neighbor. He explained to the magistrate that he could easily afford to pay for them, and that, moreover, he had plenty of turnips of his own, but he wanted stolen ones to make a concoction for a cow which had fallen sick, for he firmly believed that no other could be so efficacious. A similar belief holds in many parts of Germany, where practically everyone buys a ticket for one or other of the State lotteries. Many of the uneducated peasants will tell you that they are sure of winning if the ticket they have bought with stolen money. In Turkey, again, copper rings are worn on the fingers to prevent erysipelas. If the ring has been stolen from someone else, it is supposed to answer its purpose twice as well. Examples might be multiplied from every quarter of the earth. Most probably the superstition arose from the natural desire of the criminal to find some excuse for his delinquencies.

"I have given Tommy a drum for his birthday present," said Mrs. Brown to her husband. "What are you going to give him?" "A drum?" repeated her husband. "I see; then I'll give him a knife."
