

THIS IS SAID TO HELP MANY.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:
Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority, who writes in a New York daily paper, as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home when asked stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

1907 A RED LETTER YEAR.

Right to Vote Won by Women in Four Countries of Europe.

Women all over the world are beginning to look upon 1907 as a red letter year for their sex. Their first notable step ahead this year was the granting of parliamentary suffrage to the women of Norway. Then Swedish women were made eligible for municipal office; next came the granting to the women of Denmark of the right to vote for and serve as members of boards of public charities, and now the British Parliament has just passed the bill making women eligible as town and county councillors and aldermen.

In 1888 when the county councils were instituted in England it was thought that women were eligible, and three—Lady Margaret Sandhurst, Miss Jane Cokden and Miss Cons—were elected by the voters of London. Beresford Hope, who had been defeated by Lady Sandhurst, contested the election on the ground that women were not eligible. The litigation was prolonged and meanwhile the women were allowed to serve. One of the duties assigned to Lady Sandhurst was the supervision of twenty-three infant asylums. When Mr. Hope finally succeeded in ousting her one of the leading London dailies sarcastically remarked:

"It is to be hoped that the gentleman will find himself equal to mothering all those babies."

ORGANIST'S TRIBUTE TO ZAM-BUK.

H. E. Jenner, organist of Carman (Man.), writes—"Some little time ago I burned my thumb severely. I had some Zam-Buk handy and applied it. The Zam-Buk took the fire out of the wound almost instantly and eased the pain. It penetrated to the very seat of the injury and gave quick relief. I was very glad of this, because I had an engagement to play at an organ recital a few days later. Thanks to Zam-Buk I was able to keep the appointment. Zam-Buk heals quickly all skin injuries and diseases. Of all stores and druggists at 50 cents, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 3 boxes for $1.25.

LONDON IS STEREOTYPED.

Builder Thinks Sameness of Small Houses Means Sameness of Life.

A colonial visitor to England writes in the Builder his impressions of England and London from a builder's point of view. He notes that the most remarkable feature in the vast growth of little two-storey houses in the last twenty-five years is the uniformity of their plan of arrangement.

In Continental centres which are developing suburbs there is a certain individuality in the small houses. Speculative houses built by the dozen are very exceptional on the Continent. But in England a house built to suit the taste of an individual is so rare as to pass unnoticed among the tens of thousands of villas and cottages erected by speculative builders. He continues:

"As London is approached on the southern side the remarkable character of the modern English mode of living in suburban cottages is apparent. London seems to a foreigner like some monstrous overgrown village or collection of villages with interminable rows of little two storey cottages, interspersed with fields, commons and parks.

"All that constituted a town or city in the old times and in the olden sense has of course long since been swallowed up in this gigantic labyrinth and the country thus transmogrified is inhabited by a people who, to judge by the singularly stereotyped appearance of their homes, are content with as remarkable stereotyping of their domestic arrangements."

And the man in the moon is doubtless forced to practise economy because everything up there is so high.

"Yes, Germany has turned out a great many musicians, and is still turning them out. 'Well, can you blame her?'"

SOME DESPERATE RIOTS

WHEN CITIZEN AND SOLDIER COME TO GRIPS.

Belfast Has Been the Scene of Many Fierce Battles Between Rioters and the Law.

So lately as 1899, Belfast, Ireland, was the scene of a desperate battle between rioters and the forces of the law. The trouble began with a United Irish League demonstration. The procession was promptly attacked by a strong force of Orangemen, and on the evening of June 5th troops were called out and the Riot Act read. On this occasion there were no lives lost, but no fewer than forty arrests were made. Seven police were badly hurt by stones.

In 1886 and 1887 Belfast streets saw heavy fighting. On January 5th, 1887, the police were ordered to fire, and several of the mob were wounded. But the worst of all Belfast riots was that of 1874.

Early in June of that year two mobs, one of Roman Catholic, the other of Protestant workmen, gathered and engaged in a furious battle. Matters went from bad to worse, and riots became of almost daily occurrence. The climax came on July 21st, when more than two thousand men met and fought with sticks, stones, glass bottles, and iron bars. Two houses were set afire, and the streets were one medley of roaring, struggling crowds.

THE POLICE WERE POWERLESS; troops were called out, and the Riot Act read. The rioters paid no attention whatever, except to battle more desperately. With great reluctance the officers gave orders to fire.

A heavy volley crashed into the seething mob, and men fell in every direction. They rallied and attacked the soldiers, who were forced in self-defence to fire again. This time the rioters broke and ran. The streets were like shambles. Eleven men were picked up stone dead, and more than sixty were badly wounded.

It is not always that the representatives of law and order are able to control a mob. The dreadful business of December 14th, 1831, will long be remembered in County Kilkenny. On that day a political riot broke out in the small town of Castlehook. A body of a dozen police under a Mr. Gibbins marched down to stop the fighting. The whole mob turned upon the little force of constabulary, surrounded them, and in mad fury

BEAT THEM ALL TO DEATH.

About two and a half miles from the mining city of Ballarat is a hill crowned with a curious monument. This consists of a stone platform surmounted by an obelisk, at each of the angles of which stand obsolete sixty-pound muzzle-loading guns. The whole is surrounded by a picket fence, and marks the scene of one of the most terrible riots ever recorded in any British colony. The story of the various causes which led up to this riot is too long to tell; it is sufficient to say that the great grievances were the heavy gold license, $10 a month for each digger, and the horrible crudity of the prison arrangements.

Men arrested for any offence were chained out in the open to heavy logs. In 1854, the Ballarat diggers, after vainly petitioning for a change, began to organize. Under the leadership of Peter Lalor, they collected arms and ammunition, and began to drill. Soldiers were sent to Ballarat. The miners attacked them, but were driven back. In revenge, the authorities redoubled the strictness of the license law.

THE MINERS THEN GATHERED, and on the top of Bakery Hill where the monument now stands, constructed the famous "Eureka Stockade." It was garrisoned by 300 men. Captain Thomas of the 40th Foot made a surprise attack early one morning with a force of 276 soldiers. The miners rushed out and heavy volleys were exchanged. The troops charged, and a desperate hand to hand fight followed. Thirty diggers were killed outright, scores were wounded, and 135 were captured. Lalor himself lost an arm. Yet a few years later Lalor was elected to the New South Wales Parliament, where he sat for many years. Probably under no flag but ours would this forgiving spirit be shown.—London Answers.

IN THE DAYS WORK.

Young Fresh—"How did you manage to escape each time?"

Old Salt—"Easy enough; they were submarine boats."

"FREE INFORMATION."

This is what one of the most prominent physicians of to-day says:

"That one ounce of sweet spirits of nitre, one ounce of compound vinosa, and four ounces of syrup of rhubarb mixed together and taken in dessert-spoonful doses after meals and at bedtime in water will effect a permanent cure for the most severe cases of kidney, liver, bladder, and urinary troubles. He claims that a few doses will positively cure the worst cases of backache and rheumatism arising from disordered kidneys and impure blood.

These drugs are of purely vegetable nature and inexpensive, and can be obtained at any drug store and mixed together at home.

A SHORT HISTORY

A Serious Case of Chronic Catarrh Gradually Overcome By Per-ru-na.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Mr. Arthur Tremblay

M. R. ARTHUR TREMBLAY, 8 St. James street, Mont Pleasant, Que., Can., writes:

"About three years ago catarrh in its most serious form assailed me.

"I consulted a specialist who prescribed medicines as constitutional treatment and a liquid to use locally.

"This gave me relief for a time, but soon afterwards the disease returned. "I was then suffering very much, my appetite had left me and I was growing weaker.

"I had frequently read pamphlets regarding the cures made by Peruna, and although somewhat dubious as to its doing me any good, I decided to try a few bottles.

"I had not taken Peruna for more than two weeks before a marked improvement was perceptible.

"As I continued taking the remedy, the disease gradually disappeared and in a few months I was entirely rid of the nauseous malady."

UNLUCKY.

"George, I know you will forgive me," said the beautiful girl, bowing her head, "when you know the true reason of my breaking our engagement so soon. But when I became engaged to you I forgot—"

"What is it, Gladys?" he murmured, sadly. "Be not afraid. Is it that you love another?"

"No, indeed," responded the girl, indignantly, her eyes flashing at him through a veil of tears. "But—you know how superstitious I am—I forgot that you would be exactly the thirteenth I've been engaged to."

One trial of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will convince you that it has no equal as a worm medicine. Buy a bottle and see if it does not please you.

The automobile isn't in it with the gossip when it comes to running people down.

When a woman is unhappily married she would gladly recall her mis-spent life.

Hard and soft corns cannot withstand Halloway's Corn Cure; it is effectual every time. Get a bottle at once and be happy.

In a written examination on astronomy one of the questions was, "What happens when there is an eclipse of the moon?" A student with rather a good knack of getting out of a difficulty wrote:—"A great many people come out to look at it."

Cholera morbus, cramps and kindred complaints annually make their appearance at the same time as the hot weather, green fruit, cucumbers, melons, etc., and many persons are debarrated from eating these tempting things, but they need not abstain if they have Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and take a few drops in water. It cures the cramps and cholera in a remarkable manner and is sure to check every disturbance of the bowels.

SNAGS AND JAGS.

It's easy to live on love alone—between meals.

Luck consists of having what some other fellow wants.

It is never very hard to convince a man of the justice of something he is taking money at.

A woman never wants anything quite as much as when it is something she has no real use for.

Contentment is the result of wanting your own job a little more than you go the other fellow's.

It is astonishingly easier to explain why you stayed out late to a man friend than it is to your wife.

If a girl really respects a man, it has something to do with the way his neckties match his complexion.

PRETTY CLOSE.

"Tom," said the young wife, "I'm afraid you smoke too much. Do you buy your cigars by the hundredweight?"

"Something like that, my dear," replied the masculine end of the combine.

"I buy them by the hundred and the man weights for his money."

SHOWING A BAD EXAMPLE.

A grocer who was noted for his carefulness had an advertisement inserted in a local newspaper for a message boy, and a young fellow who understood the kind of a gentleman who was advertising came to apply for the situation, and while the grocer was telling him how careful he must be a fly settled on a bag of sugar and the grocer caught it and threw it away. The boy then said:—

"If you want me to be careful you are showing me a bad example."

"Why?" replied the former.

"Because," said the boy, "you have thrown that fly away without brushing the sugar off his feet."

"AIN'T IT?"

Diplomatic Bachelor (who has forgotten whether the baby is a boy or girl): "Well, well, but he's a fine little fellow, isn't she? How old is it now? Do her teeth bother him much? I hope he gets through his second summer without getting sick. She looks like you, doesn't she? Every one says it does."

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomach troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parke's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Haven: "I tell you what, Young; I have the sharpest wife you ever saw in your life. Why, the other day I gave her just barely enough money to go out and buy one dress, and if you'll believe it she came home with two." Young: "That is sharp. How did she manage it?" Haven: "Why, she bought one, and the other she had on when she went out."

Tiny tubercles on the skin of scrofulous people produce the hideous disease called lupus. Weaver's Cerate, used in time, will save the skin from destruction. Apply to all affected parts. Cleanse the blood with Weaver's Syrup.

BE CHEERFUL!

What's the use of worrying? Of our troubles people tire. Let's make believe we're happy. The world loves a cheerful liar.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parke's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

"Man is Filled With Misery."—This is not true of all men. The well, sound of lung, clear of eye, alert and buoyant with health, are not miserable, whatever be the social condition. To be well is to be happy, and we can all be well by getting and keeping our bodies in a healthful state. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will help all to do this.

ACCORDING TO SCRIPTURE.
"Young man," said the clerical-looking customer to the clerk at the book counter, "that purchase of mine amounted to $1.50, I believe."
"Yes, sir."
"Well, I gave you a $2 bill at least twenty minutes ago and I haven't received my 50 cents back yet."
"Very sorry, sir," replied the clerk, "but you know what the Good Book says on this point." And politely handing the customer a Bible, he pointed to Job, fourteenth chapter, fourteenth verse: "All the days of my life will I wait till my change come."
