Sentry—"You can't leave." Soldier—"But I have the captain's oral permission." Sentry (importantly)—"Let's see it!"

An elderly man from the country, intent on purchasing some furniture, proceeded to the city to put his skill for bargaining to the test. On entering a shop he found himself confronted by a Jew. After turning over the Jew's stock the old man purchased a chair. A few days later the purchaser returned to the shop again with the chair in about half-a-dozen pieces. The Jew looked at them very gravely and examined them all over, then suddenly exclaimed—"Ah, my friend, we see what is de matter; somebody has been sitting on it!"

SIMPLE PRESCRIPTION.

EASILY MIXED AT HOME AND CURES ALL RHEUMATISM.

Full Directions to Make and Take This Simple Home-Made Mixture — Makes Kidneys Filter Acids.

When an eminent authority announced that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, every-day drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. To-day nearly every newspaper in the country, even the metropolitan dailies are announcing it and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that any one can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good druggist Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as every one knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache.

During a geography lesson the master of a Scottish school noticed one of his pupils take a large orange from his pocket and begin to demolish it. He was very angry at the young rascal's behavior, and cried out to him, "I say, there, put that orange out of sight." The boy looked up from the book, and saying, "Can ye no see I'm daeing that at the time?" calmly proceeded to finish his orange.

A Carefully Prepared Pill.—Much time and attention were expended in the experimenting with the ingredients that enter into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills before they were brought to the state in which they were first offered to the public. Whatever other pills may be, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of much expert study, and all persons suffering from dyspepsia or disordered liver and kidneys may confidently accept them as being what they are represented to be.

"Blood will tell," quoted the Wise Man. "Perhaps," said the Simple Person; "but it generally forgets to speak when it passes a poor relation."

"I presume your children ask you a great many embarrassing questions?" "Yes; it is wonderful how like their mother those youngsters are!"

Higgs—"I met Swiggs last night. He seemed to have a bad case of the blues." Green—"He did, eh?" Higgs—"Yes; two policemen were supporting him."

The efficacy of Pickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup in curing coughs and colds and arresting inflammation of the lungs, can be established by hundreds of testimonials from all sorts and conditions of men. It is a standard remedy in these ailments and all affections of the throat and lungs. It is highly recommended by medicine vendors, because they know and appreciate its value as a curative. Try it.

Teacher—"Yes, Freddie, the tail of the comet is 3,000,000 miles long." Freddie—"Crikey! There wouldn't be no fun tyin' a tin can on the end of that!"

Stella—"What is gossip?" Bella—"Something that sounds as big in your business."

WELCOME AS SUNSHINE after storm is the relief when an obstinate, pitiless cough has been driven away by Allen's Lung Balm. No opium in it. The good effect lasts.

A FREAK OF MEMORY.

"Why in the world are you carrying two umbrellas?" somebody asked the forgetful man, and he looked amazed at the question.

"I should think you'd guess that easily, knowing me so well," he said. "I'm carrying two so that if I forget and leave one anywhere I shall still have the other!"

FORCE OF PRACTICE.

"That financier started out in life as a dentist." "I suppose that is why when the banks were struggling in the teeth of the financial storm, he advocated their gold filling."

Hubbard—"I estimate that advertising costs me fifty dollars a year more than I can afford." Jaye—"What are you talking about? You don't advertise." "No; but the stores do, and my wife is a confirmed bargain-hunter."

HONEST MAN BECOMES THIEF.

Then Able to Recover His Own Property, Which Had Been Stolen.

In real life the long arm of coincidence often stretches farther than any novelist would dare to make it go in fiction. Of that, amazing proof has just been furnished at Czenstochowa, the mecca of Polish pilgrims. Among them was Ivan Dimowitsky, who had come a long distance on his pious errand. While he was in the church performing his devotions some thief in the crowd stole his purse, containing all his money. He went to one of the priests and told him of his troubles, and asked him for money enough to take him back to his home.

"Alas," replied the priest, "I have no money to give you. You had better try to find the thief."

"To find among thousands a man I don't know would require a miracle and I am no miracle-worker," answered Ivan. "Perhaps, holy father, you could work the miracle for me?"

The priest protested that he had no such power.

"Then," said Ivan, "I shall go back into the church and steal the money I need from somebody, the first chance I get."

"If you do that," said the priest, "you will be a very wicked man and ought to be sent to prison for it, and the church should impose a heavy penance on you, too."

But Ivan thought he might have as much luck as the thief who had robbed him and escape detection. Back he went to the church. Seeing a man with his wallet on his back he slipped his hand into it and pulled out a purse. It was his own purse and it contained the exact sum which he had left in it.

In his delight Ivan gave no thought to turning the man over to justice. He hurried jubilantly back to the priest and told how he had recovered his stolen money. "Surely," he said, "it must have been Providence that guided me."

The perplexed priest imposed no penance on him and Ivan went his way rejoicing. Meanwhile, the thief had escaped.

What moral is to be drawn from the story is a conundrum. Certainly, it isn't "Honesty is the best policy."

A Successful Medicine.—Everyone wishes to be successful in any undertaking in which he may engage. It is therefore, extremely gratifying to the proprietors of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to know that their efforts to compound a medicine which would prove a blessing to mankind have been successful beyond expectations. The endorsement of these Pills by the public is a guarantee that a pill has been produced which will fulfill everything claimed for it.

She—"You here again?" Tramp—"Yes, kind lady." She—"Well, I won't help you again. I don't believe you've done anything all the year." Tramp—"Indeed I have, mum. I just done a month."

Once more poor woman is laughed at for her lack of banking knowledge. There is no denying it, however; she is funny when she gets tangled up in the paraphernalia of finance. This is the latest tale. A banker, not long ago, received the following letter from a lady well known in social circles:—"Dear Sir,—Please stop payment on the cheque I wrote out to-day, as I accidentally burned it up.—Yours, Mrs. Blank."

Cheapest of All Medicines.—Considering the curative qualities of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil it is the cheapest medicine now offered to the public. The dose required in any ailment is small and a bottle contains many doses. If it were valued at the benefit it confers it could not be purchased for many times the price asked for it, but increased consumption has simplified and cheapened its manufacture.

She was obese, passing fair, and—well, she admitted that she had been on earth for twenty-nine years. He was scant-haired, and old enough to know better. "Will you marry me?" he queried. "You are asking a good deal," she gurgled, in reply. "Oh, well," he replied, "I always was partial to large women."
