

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Kinmount.

Correspondence of the Gazette.
At three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, May 6th, at the home of Rev. Ed. Soward, Peterboro, Miss M. J. (Polly) Smith, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Smith, of Kinmount, was married to Mr. Roy Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Hopkins, also of Kinmount. The bride, who was unattended, wore a very handsome suit of golden brown chiffon velvet with lace waist over champagne silk and hat to match. She wore also the groom's gift, a ring set in pearls and amethysts, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins will spend a week at the Snowden House, Peterboro, after which they will return to Kinmount where a pretty home is being prepared for them on Cluxton st.

From Another Correspondent.

Rev. J. Macdonald, B. A., of Latchford, paid a visit to his many friends, at Rosedale. He was on our mission field as a student two years ago. On Sunday, May 3rd, he supplied the Presbyterian pulpit here, and preached an excellent sermon taken from 1 Cor. 9: and last clause of the 24th verse. All who listened to it, which were not a few, were deeply interested. Mr. Macdonald graduated from Queen's University this spring, and received Testamur, also scholarship in New Testament. We all join in wishing him every success on his new field of labor, and hope he will soon be back with us again.

Powles' Corners.

Correspondence of the Gazette.
We find ourselves at the middle of May and not a great amount of seeding done yet compared with the advancement of the season. The clerk of the weather is not doing justice to the farmers, and a very reasonable allowance should be made the latter part of the summer and fall.
There is very little political talk as yet and not very much is to be expected in rural communities nor is there any talk of a telephone—something the farmers need so badly.
A large number of cattle have gone to the different ranches for the season.
The boys are having some sport catching suckers in Robe's Creek. Some fine specimens have been captured. One objectionable point about them is the great number of bones.

SHE DESERVES IT.

If any one does, it is she, for when the strong hand of the bread winner dropped silent forever she became a real heroine. A more genuine one than the painted and feathered one in the popular novel. Day by day in the silent drama of life she played her part more nobly than the conquering hero, only she has been unnoticed. Her name has illumined every page of the public press, but she belongs to her class just the same. The mother has been helped at every turn and cheered on to face life courageously, the younger brother and sister have been kept at school.

Every community has a faithful girl that the above sentences describe. She would enjoy a few days of rest and recreation. Perhaps you have not thought of her. Think now, and, if you are not interested for yourself, why not give this deserving one a splendid trip? It cost you nothing except a wee bit of human interest.

Then there is your landlady who cooks your food and makes a home for you. The times you were not feeling well she was almost as good as your mother, wasn't she? She, in the goodness of woman's heart, tried to take the place of that one who stands first in the whole world—mother. Well, now, would it not be a generous, manly thing on your part to help give the old lady a real fine trip that she would appreciate to the full? Can't you create a boom in her behalf? We think you can.

Come to think it all over, there are a good many you could work for in the contest and feel good over it. Else Tom Moore had in mind a better creature than you when he wrote: "Oh who would inhabit this bleak world alone?"

A WARNING.

This Free Trip Plan is not for those who see no sunshine, who behold life as one ceaseless turmoil and all men as self seekers, who cannot see good in the motives of others, who are afraid to laugh. You need to catch the spirit of the free trip plan. We intend to have it a pleasant thing from first to last. It costs us more than you by a great deal. So we expect you to smile and be happy and do your level best, that is all.

Use Your Watch Right

What would you think of an engineer who ran his engine two or three years, night and day, without cleaning or oiling?

What would you give him for his machine after a few years of such use.

And yet you subject your watch—a far more delicate piece of machinery, to just this treatment.

Don't you think it would pay you to have it cleaned and oiled up once a year.
