

Death of Mr. John C. Craig.

Mr. John C. Craig, of Kinmount, died at the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, on Monday night, of typhoid fever. He had been brought down from Kinmount only that morning and taken to the hospital. Mr. Craig had been feeling unwell for several days, but not thinking anything serious was the matter, had neglected to consult a doctor until his case became too far advanced for successful treatment.

Deceased was for many years a resident of the Falls, but removed some fifteen or twenty years ago to Kinmount, where he conducted a furniture and undertaking business. He was possessed of considerable inventive genius, and at various times had taken out patents on his ideas, from some of which he received very satisfactory returns. He was a brother of Mr. W. T. Craig, of the lumber firm of Craig & Austin, Kinmount, a nephew of Mrs. John Austin and a brother-in-law of Mr. F. J. Kerr, of the Falls. He was about 55 years old, and unmarried.

Tennis.

The first match between the locals and Bobcaygeon was commenced at the latter place on Tuesday of this week, but, owing to the unfavorable weather, the game had to be called off at 4 p. m., being then half finished. By all appearances it would have been a close one, as 'Caygeon had their best team on. Following were the teams:

FENELON FALLS.	BOBCAYGEON.
Gould	Boyd
Wiggins	Comber
Graham	Pratt
McEachern	Boyd
Macadam	Bingham
Keats	Bottum

At 4 p. m. the ladies served very dainty tea at the club house, Mrs. Comber and Miss Bottum being the hostesses, after which a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the Bobcaygeon people by Mr. M. T. McEachern, on behalf of the Fenelon Falls club, for their genuine kindness in giving the locals such a splendid day. Dr. Boyd then replied on behalf of the Bobcaygeon club, expressing their pleasure at having the visitors, and extending to them an invitation to come back at as early a date as possible.

WILD TIMES IN TOWN

Two Stabbing Affrays in a Week

WHITE MEN AND ITALIANS BOTH TAKE A HAND.

Shortly after nine o'clock on Monday night, Mr. Sam. Nichols, about 18 years old, son of Mr. Hart Nichols, of Murray street, south of the river, was the victim of a serious assault at the hands of Percy Nettleton, of the United States, who is a couple of years younger than Nichols. Nettleton, who lived at the Falls a couple of years ago, came here a few days ago on a visit, accompanied by a friend, and the two were staying at Mrs. Inkpin's, on Lindsay street. According to Nettleton's story, he and his friend were out walking on the street on which they were lodging when Nichols and Jack Barry commenced annoying them by trying to shove them off the sidewalk when they met. Nettleton evidently resented this very much, and, deciding that it must stop, but that he was not big enough to stop it in the natural way, adopted Italian tactics.

The last time the young men come together there was a short scuffle in which Nettleton, finding himself getting the worst of it, pulled an open jack knife out of his pocket and proceeded in no uncertain way to use it. Before Nichols could get away, after realizing what was happening to him, he had received several severe slashes and stabs in his left shoulder, arm and body, as well as the left side of his face and neck. Barry, who was tussling in a harmless sort of way with Nettleton's companion, was next attacked by the young desperado, but he escaped with a slight cut or two. Nettleton and his friend, probably satisfied that they would not be further annoyed, then took a walk around by the railway bridge and returned to their lodging house, and were busily engaged packing up their belongings, preparatory to leaving town, when Constable Jones rounded them up, about twenty minutes after the assault.

Nichols and Barry had their injuries attended to by Drs. Wilson and Graham respectively. The former has two or three rather severe cuts and some smaller ones, but the latter's injuries are less.

A preliminary trial of the prisoners was held in Twomey's hall on Tuesday afternoon by Police Magistrate Moore, of Lindsay. After taking the evidence of the doctors, adjournment was made for a week, so that the victims may be able to attend. The prisoners, who are being defended by Mr. F. A. McDiarmid, were remanded to Lindsay jail.

On Tuesday morning a party of about a dozen Italians came down from Rosedale, where they had been employed on the canal works, and spent the day in town, waiting for the evening train to take them south. In the course of the afternoon some of them partook of more liquid refreshment than was discreet at one of the local hotels, and about four o'clock a row started in the bar room. As was to be expected in such a case, the disturbance had just commenced when one of the dusky chaps, Vito Spino, who had by this time moved out to the sidewalk, pulled a big jack-knife out of his pocket and plunged the blade of it into the abdomen of one of his compatriots, Patsi Arroz. Three or four villagers, who had been trying to suppress the row, abandoned the attempt when they saw the knife, but a couple of them narrowly escaped contact with it. Several of the Italians at once seized Spino and attempted to duck him in the town water tank, probably to cool him off, but Constable Jones arrived on the scene and took charge of the assassin, placing him in the lock-up. He is having his preliminary trial this, (Thursday) afternoon, in Twomey's Hall, before Police Magistrate Moore, of Lindsay.

The victim of the murderous thrust was taken into the hotel and laid on a table, where Drs. Graham and Gould, who were at once summoned, found a gash about three inches long in the left side of the abdomen. After replacing about eighteen inches of the intestine which protruded from the opening made by the knife, the doctors stitched it up, and the wounded man was taken away on the train by his companions. His injury, while of course serious, is not necessarily dangerous unless complications occur.

A Midland Chinaman stole electric current from the light wires entering a laundry, and it cost him over $100 to settle with the commissioners. Probably anyone, to look at that Chinaman, would not believe that he knew any more about electricity than he looked as if he did.

Three Great Features of the "Hecla" Furnace

Fused Joints make the "Hecla" permanently airtight and sanitary. The heated air is fresh and pure, because no gas, dust or smoke can get into the airchamber.

Steel-Ribbed Firepot has steel instead of cast iron flanges. 97 of these steel flanges are fused to the outside of the firepot giving it three times as much radiating surface as any other style. In a three years' test the steel ribbed pot showed a saving of fuel of over 11%.

Triangular Bar Grate enables you to clear any part of the fire of ashes. There are four grates. Each can be shaken separately. It gets all the ashes out—saves coal—and means a clean fire.

Made by the makers of famous "Peerless Peninsular" Ranges.

Stop in and let us show you all the new features of the 1908 "Hecla."
