A SURE WAY.

"Since I've come back I find I'm forgotten by all my friends."
"Why didn't you borrow money of them before you went away?"

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complications, always painful and often serious. A common form of disorder is dysentery, to which many are prone in the spring and summer. The very best medicine to use in subduing this painful ailment is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy, sold everywhere.

"More than five thousand elephants a year go to make our piano-keys," remarked the student boarder, who had been reading the scientific notes in a patent medicine almanac. "My word!" exclaimed the landlady. "Ain't it wonderful what some animals can be trained to do. Ain't it now?"

The Best Liver Pill.—The action of the liver is easily disarranged. A sudden chill, undue exposure to the elements, over-indulgence in some favorite food, excess in drinking, are a few of the causes. But whatever may be the cause, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills can be relied upon as the best corrective that can be taken. They are the leading liver pills and they have no superiors among such preparations.

WITCHCRAFT PREVALENT.

Somerset Folk Said to Entertain Strange Beliefs.

Remarkable stories of the prevalence of witchcraft in Somerset, England, and of strange medical beliefs common in the county were told the other day at a meeting of teachers in Bury, near Dulverton. Dr. Sydenham said that herbalists and white witches were still living among them, to say nothing of "The Doctor," or seventh son. The belief was widely held that whooping-cough could be cured by placing the sufferer on the ground in a sheepfold; epilepsy by procuring silver coins from friends and having them made into a necklace or bracelet to be worn by the sufferer; and hemorrhage and burns by the chanting of a strange prayer. A seventh son, especially if he were the seventh son of a seventh son, was as much sought after in some parishes as if he were a Harley street specialist. His patients were attended on Sunday mornings, after fasting, the cure being by touch and prayer.

"You have used the word 'donkey' several times in the last ten minutes. Am I to understand that you mean anything of a personal nature?" asked a man angrily of an acquaintance. "Certainly not," was the reply; "there are lots of donkeys in the world besides you."

Practically all Canadian druggists, grocers and general dealers sell Wilson's Fly Pads. If your storekeeper does not, ask him why.

FASHIONS KINGS KILL.

Render Them Unsaleable if They Do Not Like Them.

That Royalty can kill fashions, as well as make them, was proved in Berlin, Germany, where tens of thousands of the beehive hats for ladies have been rendered suddenly unsaleable owing to the bitter denunciation of the Princess Pauline of Thurn and Taxis, who recently wound up a furious tirade against the new types of headgear by likening them to "wastepaper baskets turned upside down." In the same way, the Directoire style of gown, lately revived, was made unfashionable for fifty years by the Empress Eugenie, who chose instead the wide-flowing skirt, which later developed into the crinoline. Similarly, Queen Alexandra, when Princess of Wales, decreed that the hat should supersede the bonnet for all fashionable women, whether married or unmarried, and it was so.

Some ten or twelve years ago men adopted a silly little fashion of going about with the bottoms of their trousers turned up always, even in fine weather. This idiotic idea was killed by King Edward, who appeared on the lawn at Ascot with his nether garments ostentatiously strapped tightly down over a pair of snow-white spats. A season or two later he put in an appearance without the spats, and forthwith every man who aspired to be considered even moderately well-groomed did likewise.

The old-fashioned "fob" watch ribbon of watered silk, with seals attached, that used to be worn by our grandfathers, was distasteful to Prince Albert, Queen Victoria's husband, who introduced a plain chain of gold in its stead. We call them "alberts" to this day. Queen Victoria disliked Garibaldi, the Italian liberator, and would not wear, nor allow any of those about her to wear, the sleeveless garment called after him. As a result, the new fashion, which captured Europe, never really caught on in England, but popularity amongst what used then to be contemptuously designated the "lower middle class."

THAT HELPED SOME.

Visitor—"I don't see how you can reconcile yourself to being a farmer."
Si Seeder—"I couldn't if I didn't see one of you city men once in a while."

THE HARD PART.

It's hard to live within one's salary, but there's one consolation—it's harder to live without it.

Travers—"I am in a most extraordinary fix, old man. I'm engaged to a girl, but haven't got money enough to buy her an engagement ring."
Dashaway—"Can't you borrow it?"
Travers—"That's just what I wanted to see you about."

MONTREAL AND QUEBEC.

A veritable edition de luxe among railroad pamphlets has been issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System to proclaim amongst tourists the glories of the cities of Montreal and Quebec. The brochure is beautifully printed and generally arranged in the artistic style of earlier days, when the ornamentation of a volume was regarded as an important incident to its presentation of reading matter. It is also very well written, and gives an interesting description of the two most interesting cities in Canada, with many illustrations from photographs. Sent free to any address. Apply to Mr. J. D. McDonald.

AS ANCIENT AS THE HILLS.

Perfumes have been used from the earliest times. The burning of perfumed incense was one of the rites of the Hebrew and Pagan religions, and perfumes of various sorts were used by nearly all the nations of antiquity. Both the Romans and the Greeks were skilled in making perfumery. It was from the Arabs, who possessed the art of preparing perfumed waters, that the use of perfumes was introduced into medieval Europe.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. Children like it.

Disraeli was a past-master in the art of flattery, but his audacity carried him out of danger. Soon after his elevation to the House of Lords he was asked by a brother peer how he felt in his new surroundings. "Oh, don't ask me," he groaned; "dead and buried." Then, remembering that his questioner was of the company which he was contemning, he added, "And in the realms of the blest!"

If every housekeeper would use Wilson's Fly Pads freely during the Summer months the house fly peril would soon be a thing of the past.

THERE'S A REASON.

In a Sheffield school the children were asked to come prepared with the meaning of the word "bachelor" for the next lesson.

This was one little girl's confident definition: "A bachelor is a very happy man."
The teacher wanted to know more. How did the little girl know that?
"Father told me so."

NOTHING LACKING.

A Highland minister, who was rather a pompous gentleman, came to a shepherd's house to baptize a child.

"Are you prepared?" he asked the fond parent.
"O' ay, munnister; I have got a grand ham for tea."
"I mean spiritually prepared," thundered the cleric.
"Af coorse I am; oh, yes, I got two bottles o' first-class whiskey from the inn," replied the imperatible Celt.

RED TAPE IN CARVING.

Man Who Carved at 16th Century Banquet Bound by Precedent.

At the formal banquet of the sixteenth century the man who carved the meat was bound with the red tape of precedent. When carving for distinguished guests he had to remember that certain parts of the birds or meat must be set aside. In carving for his lord and lady he was expected to exercise great discretion in the size of the pieces he sent round, "for ladies will be soon angry and their thoughts soon changed, and some lords are soon pleased and some not, as they be of complexion." He was expected to have the rules both of the kitchen and the peerage at his knife's end. A pike, for instance, must be dished up whole for a lord and in slices for commoner folk. The rank of his diners, too, determined whether a pig was to be served up whole, sliced, plain or with good leaf, or whether new bread or bread three days old should be eaten.

And somewhere they're sleeping under blankets.

HOW SHOES SHOULD FIT.

A shoe, or evening stocking, that is too short may so seriously deform a child's foot as to cause trouble through life. Indeed, foot-gear of all sorts should have, above everything, length, breadth, and thickness. The shoe ought to be at least half an inch longer than the foot, with a double sole broad enough to save the upper from touching the ground. Given these essentials, the closer it sits to the foot the better.

Comfort for the Dyspeptic—There is no ailment so harassing and exhausting as dyspepsia, which arises from defective action of the stomach and liver, and the victim of it is to be pitied. Yet he can find ready relief in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, a preparation that has established itself by years of effective use. There are pills that are widely advertised as the greatest ever compounded, but not one of them can rank in value with Parmelee's.

HOW PAPA ENCOURAGED.

"What did papa, say, George?"
"He said it was too hot to talk nonsense."
"But did he know you wanted to marry me?"
"I—I think he did."
"And didn't he encourage you to proceed?"
"Yes, he held the door open for me."

It is an undisputed fact that one packet of Wilson's Fly Pads has actually killed a bushel of house flies. Fortunately no such quantity can ever be found in a well kept house, but whether they be few or many Wilson's Fly Pads will kill them all.

MARVELOUS.

"More than five thousand elephants a year go to make our piano keys," remarked the student hoarder who had been reading the scientific notes in a patent-medicine almanac. "For the land's sake!" exclaimed the landlady. "Ain't it wonderful what some animals can be trained to do?"

Pain is a Punishment.—Pain is a protest of nature against neglect of the bodily health, against carelessness regarding the physical condition. It steals in at the first opportunity and takes up its abode in a man and it is sometimes difficult to eject it. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will drive it out in short order. Pain cannot stay where it is used, but immediately flies away.

OF NO USE.

"I hear you have another baby at your house."
"Yep! But I can't understand what in the world Ma wants him for. We've got kids enough now to do all the chores around the house."

When all other corn preparations fail, try Holloway's Corn Cure. No pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it.

DISTINCTION.

Some one asked Max Nordau to define the difference between genius and insanity. "Well," said the author of "Degeneration," "the lunatic is, at least, sure of his board and clothes."

SUCCESS FOR SIXTY YEARS. This is the record of Perry Davis' Painkiller. A sure cure for diarrhoea, dysentery, and all bowel complaints. Avoid substitutes, there is but one "Painkiller"—Perry Davis'—25c. and 50c.

"The lady whose name you gave as a reference, my girl," said a lady to an applicant for a situation, "tells me you were not always truthful and obedient."
"No, ma'am," was the reply; "I couldn't be with her tellin' me all the time to say she wasn't at home!"
