The Youths' Advisory Board.

An organization known as the Youth's Employment and Advisory Board has been formed at Manchester, England, for the purpose of looking after boys during the time between leaving school and securing employment. The design of the promoters is, says the Globe, "to rescue from the ranks of the idle as large a portion as possible of those able and willing to work but unable to obtain an opportunity. The unemployed have been such a perplexing and costly problem that it is not surprising some way out of the difficulty they create should be sought. It is well known that those who do not want work are hopeless, but there is a very resolute feeling that every effort should be made to prevent boys from joining their ranks and increasing the crowd of out-of-work men in the cities. The Board will point out to the parents how imperative it is that their lads should not be permitted to loiter about on quitting school, and how necessary it is for them to learn some trade that will yield them a livelihood. They propose to gather information as to occupations and industries, to give advice, and act as guides to the boys in their careers, and not to lose sight of them till they have got employment and seem in a fair way to keep it. The Board also hope to arouse the interest of manufacturers and business men in their scheme, so that wherever possible they will find work for the boys. The project is in the highest degree praiseworthy, and if it were adopted in every great centre of industry would no doubt in time do much towards freeing communities from the incubus of unemployment. The supply of labor need not always be greater than the demand."

The men who have taken up this work are without doubt actuated by good motives, but unless they can manufacture openings for boys their efforts will be largely in vain. As long as there are more boys than there are jobs there will be trouble. Getting one boy a place only closes that place to some other boy, who could have had it if by number one had not been there first. It is admitted that there are among the unemployed those who are "able and willing to work but unable to obtain an opportunity." The Youth's Advisory Board, instead of joining in the futile hunt for opportunities that are not there, should find out why opportunities do not exist. They would at the same time discover the only remedy for unemployment.

Room for Suspicion.

Harry Orchard, who was a prominent figure in the Moyer-Haywood trial at Boise City, Idaho, a few years ago, and who is now in gaol there as a result of his confessions, has turned out a model prisoner. He has, the despatches say, become very religious, is conducting prayer meetings among the other convicts, and says he feels that he ought to pay some penalty or furnish some evidence to prove his repentance. If Harry's record counts for anything, he is a pretty uncertain customer, and a suspicion that his piety is not unmixed with guile is not entirely unpardonable. Certain eminently respectable gentlemen might be willing to do quite a bit to stop him telling all he knows about the Moyer-Haywood affair, if he should consider such a confession necessary in order to prove the completeness and sincerity of his repentance.

Oddfellows' Banquet.

Following the regular meeting of Corona Lodge No. 398, I. O. O. F., on Friday evening last, a banquet was tendered Grand Lodge Delegate Staples of Lindsay, and a number of Lindsay brethren who accompanied him to the Falls; the occasion being the Grand Lodge Report. The visitors, of whom there were eleven, came up on Bro. Terry's gasoline launch. Owing to a blockade of logs in the river, they were considerably delayed, and had to make a landing about a mile below the Falls and take to the fields for the remainder of the journey. They arrived in good spirits however, about 9.30. The banquet, which was held in the dining-room of the Masonic lodge, was, needless to say, greatly enjoyed by all the partakers, being of the usual excellent quality and style always provided by the local fraternity. It was followed by toasts to the King, Canada, Canada's ideals, the learned professions, the visiting brethren and the ladies, responses being made by Bros. W. A. Bishop, Rev. C. S. Lord, Dr. Graham, W. H. Robson, Anderson, McGillivray, and Staples, of Lindsay, and A. A. Cameron. The proceedings ended with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the gathering dispersed at about 12.30.

Tourist Season Closing

The good old summer time has taken its departure, and the tourists are disappearing, save a few who are staying for the duck shooting. Taken all through the season has been a good one, there being a considerable increase in numbers this year over previous years, owing to the growing popularity of the locality as a resort, and to the ease of access and excellent accommodations at the Falls and vicinity. The good fishing is a decided attraction, though this season it has been below the mark. However, a number of fine fish have been caught both by tourists, cottagers and residents. Mr. and Mrs. Wagar caught a sixteen and a half pound lunge last week, and a Kawartha Hotel guest a fourteen pounder. Mr. Fred. Henley, of Winnipeg, Man., who is spending his vacation at his home in Lindsay, and Mr. C. G. Henley, of Lindsay, who were visiting their sister, Mrs. Harry Webster, this week, while out fishing on Tuesday last caught two fine lunge, 8 1/2 and 9 1/2 pounds respectively. One of the fish caught by Mr. Fred. Henley being exceptionally gamey, the young men enjoyed considerable sport while landing it. These are the latest large fish on record for the season. Mr. Archie Clark, of Oklahoma, who has bought a piece of land near "Sandy Bottom," for a cottage, has had some splendid sport, and thinks the fishing here is good enough to satisfy anybody. The local merchants report a very satisfactory trade during the summer.

Mr. W. Heidelbach, of New York, who was accompanied by Messrs. Geo. Calder and Dave Merriam, of Fenelon Falls, returned last week from a trout fishing expedition to the northern lakes. The party had splendid luck, and landed a number of lake trout of exceptionally fine size, one weighing 18 lbs., and another, which took half an hour to land, weighed 13 lbs. The brook trout caught were also fine specimens. Mr. Heidelbach, who landed several of the speckled beauties which weighed 3 lbs., shipped them to New York to be mounted, as a brook trout over one pound is considered a rarity in Uncle Sam's domain. On Mr. Heidelbach's return from the north he was joined at the Falls by Messrs. Wallace Freeland and Maurice Pollock, of Cincinnati, who together with him enjoyed a couple of days' good fishing in Cameron and Balsam lakes. Mr. Heidelbach left for New York on Thursday, while Messrs. Freeland and Pollock remained till Saturday morning.
