A Lesson to Farmers.

Reference has been made to the 355,000 acre farm of Charles P. Taft, brother of the president, in Texas. It has been shown that Brother Charley has received contracts for supplying the workers on the Panama canal with meat, which looks like maintaining a family graft. It has been shown that Brother Charley employs a large number of Mexican laborers, which is proved that it runs in the Taft family to encourage American labor and high wages. It has been shown that Brothen Charley has not been on his farm for nine years, which is proof that the capitalist is absolutely nonessential to production. Nevertheless, in spite of all these things, Charles P. Taft is demonstrating a very important matter on his Texas ranch, and is thus aiding the people by proving the practicality of Socialism!

This is a fulfilment of the Socialist forecast of syndicate farming. It will demonstrate the wastefulness of farming on a small scale and of selling the raw product. It will make Taft a multi-millionaire, and, under the capitalist profit system, will make him a feudal lord, dictating the lives of thousands of employees. It is real capitalist farming.

Fifty years ago manufacture was where farming is now, largely an individualistic industry. Within that time manufacture has been transformed into a thing of vast capital and innumerable small savings. As a result, manufacture has arisen from a place where its product was less than a third that of farming to a point where its product, with less than a fourth as many engaged and less capital employed, is more than twice that of all the farms of America!

It is purely a matter of method. Apply the same rules to farming that have been applied to manufacture, the same saving, the same use of improved machinery, and the farms of America may be made to produce at least ten times as much as they do now. Taft is preparing to demonstrate this fact in a way that no man has ever done before. The Appeal is sorry to see the demonstration made under capitalism, for the reason that in this case the rewards go to the few and the many receive almost nothing. But if men will not believe or be warned by the Socialists, it were better that the demonstration be made under capitalism than that it be not made at all. Jim Hill's cry that farming must be made more scientific, means that he sees the possibility, and would call the attention of capitalists to the money to be made from syndicate farming.

The inevitable result of this kind of farming will be just what it was in the line of manufacture. It will effect saving and increase production, but it will also put the proceeds into the hands of the few, and reduce the real tillers of the soil to wage workers or "hired hands," re-establishing a sort of feudal condition. Yet it will prove the possibility of co-operation in farming, and thus call attention to the soundness of the Socialistic philosophy. It will, by reducing the tillers of the soil to wage workers or hopeless "independents," destroy the fiction of small capitalism doing the world's work, and make their interests clearly those of the proletariat. In this way it will inevitably lead to a revolt and to Socialism. The Appeal would rather the people awakened to the situation before they are called on to pass through this period of distress. It would rather see the farming industry organized by the whole people and for their benefit, rather than by a few for their benefit. But if the farmers will not heed the warning, they will still learn the lesson by hard experience, and in the long run the result will be the same.—Appeal to Reason,

The Squeezing Process.

A drug trust has been formed in New York, and the Standard Oil Co. are said to be back of the combine. Henry H. Flagler, John D. Rockefeller, and other big Standard Oil men are known to be heavily interested in the large drug corporation now doing business in New York. Recently representatives of the United Drug Consumer's Company have been visiting the retail druggists in Manhattan and the Bronx, trying to buy out the little fellows. When a hundred retail stores have been acquired, the United Drug Consumers' Company will start business. The cigar stores have been combined, and the drug stores are being combined, and the general retail stores are being amalgamated. This is the beginning of the process to squeeze the retailers out of business. When the various trusts have captured the various retail stores, the various trusts will merge into one trust. Then the smaller retail stores will be shut up. That will remove the cost of duplicate clerks and rent bills and insurance charges and taxes. Then the retail stores will be closed altogether, and the goods will be sold by the sample. The process of trustification cannot be stopped. Competition is useless and has to go. There must result either Socialism or industrial despotism.—Cotton's Weekly.

In this world the black sheep often takes first prize.

Those whom men call strong are often only brutal.

Socialism is the highest incentive man has known, and will lead to higher attainments than he has ever made.
