

THROW AWAY ALL YOUR FEARS

BACKACHE, GRAVEL AND RHEUMATISM VANISH BEFORE DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Proved Once Again in the Case of Mrs. Fred Krieger, Who Suffered From the Worst Forms of Kidney Disease.

Palmer Rapids, Ont., Nov. 1. — (Special).—The thousands of Canadians who live in daily terror of those terrible forms of Kidney Disease known as Backache, Gravel and Rheumatism, will be deeply interested in the story of Mrs. Fred Krieger, of this place.

"I was for years a great sufferer from Kidney Disease, Gravel, Rheumatism and Backache," Mrs. Krieger states. "It all started through a cold, but I got so my head ached, I was nervous, my limbs were heavy, I had a dragging sensation across my loins, and I was totally unfit to do anything. Reading about wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills led me to buy some. After using a few I found they were doing me good and this encouraged me to continue their use. Eight boxes made me well."

"I have been able to do my own work ever since and to-day I am completely cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills gave me health and I feel like a new woman."

If you keep your kidneys strong and healthy you can never have Backache, Rheumatism or Gravel. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to make the kidneys strong and well.

She—"You here again?" Tramp—"Yes, kind lady." She—"Well, I won't help you again. I don't believe you have done a thing all the year." Tramp—"Indeed I have, mum; I've just done thirty days."

A Pill that Proves Its Value.—Those of weak stomach will find strength in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they serve to maintain the healthful action of the stomach and the liver, irregularities in which are most distressing. Dyspeptics are well acquainted with them and value them at their proper worth. They have afforded relief when other preparations have failed, and have effected cures in ailments of long standing where other medicines were found unavailing.

"You look bad, Jim. Have you been laid up?" "Well, rather. To-day's the first time I've been out of doors for three months." "What was the matter, old chap?" "Nothing"; but the judge wouldn't believe it."

"Oh, Mr. Slowman," exclaimed a worthy old lady to a minister, "I do like the Sundays when you preach?" "You gratify me very much, my good woman," answered the latter, who knew he was not popular. "There are few who think as you do. But tell me what is the reason of this preference?" "Why, sir, I always get such a comfortable seat," was the ingenious reply.

Fuss—"Did you ever hear Gaddy say anything particular about me?" Russ—"No; he never was very particular what he said about you."

PURSUIT OF THE CARIBOU.

May be Called by Experts Same as the Moose.

In caribou hunting as a rule the open countries are travelled on fine warm days and the greenwoods during stormy spells. It is the unanimous opinion of those who have followed the sport for many years that a lengthy trip should be planned to insure satisfaction, says Fry's Magazine.

In the country at the head waters of the Tobique and Nepisiguit Rivers, New Brunswick, several weeks or a month are desirable if you want a record head. Should however, one be hampered for time, a steady hunt regardless of weather conditions is kept up. This is not only the hardest kind of work, but is not satisfactory. Many a time have hunters stalked a herd in the greenwoods. Finally they picked out the apparently best head and brought it down.

As the report echoed throughout the wood the balance of the herd scattered only to reveal as they passed an opening that more than one larger head could have been procured. This after hours of wet, drenching work rather rankles the most sublime temper. For this reason, if for no other, is the late fall preferred by experienced men to any other time. It may take longer, but there on the hillsides in the clearings is the game in full view, and though requiring hours to stalk few mistakes are apt to be consciously made.

Each year adds some knowledge to the pursuit of caribou. They are generally found in herds of from three to twenty, and some experts can tell them the same as moose. This, however, is for short distances such as a hundred yards or so—the call is very high and hard to imitate—when they will leave the herd under their charge to investigate.

The color of the antler is governed more or less by the nature of the bush on which they clean them of the velvet. The big bulls do not lose one antler as early as the larger specimens of the Newfoundland caribou, though many will drop one antler about the first of November.

Like all creatures bearing antlers, their growth of such blood vessels is regulated by the temperature of the winter and the fall of snow—all of which affects the food supply. If the winter is open, the summer warm, you may look for record heads. They differ from the Newfoundland caribou in that the big bulls here always keep the lead and do not follow in the rear.

THANKING THE TEMPLE.

Quaint Chinese Imperial Decree Recently Issued.

The following Chinese quaint imperial decree was recently issued from the palace in Peking: "Owing to the scarcity of rain Prince Kung and others have been detailed to pray at the Takoatien on our behalf of dedicating incense and also Prince Tsai Hsun and others to the shih yin-kung and other temples to pray by dedicating incense and now plenty of rain has come for which we feel thankful. Therefore we have to show our thanks to said temples. We thus dedicate incense and we detail Puhung to the Shao-chengmiao, Tsai Fu to the Yihomiao on the same day to dedicate incense and to perform ritual service to return thanks for the rain with desires for further rainfall to console the peasants."—Shanghai Mercury.

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is agreeable to the taste, and is a certain relief for irritation of the throat that causes hacking coughs. If used according to directions it will break the most persistent cold, and restore the air passages to their normal healthy condition. There is no need to recommend it to those familiar with it, but to those who seek a sure remedy and are in doubt what to use, the advice is—try Bickle's Syrup.

ROUGH ON THE MEN.

A major in a certain English regiment has a great contempt for incapacity of any kind, and is also somewhat impatient. A writer in Tit-Bits declares that a sergeant once complained to him that he could get no man to undertake the duty of barber to the company.

"Is there no gardener in the company?" asked the major, testily. "See if you can find one, and send him to me."

The men were duly sent, but on receiving orders to act as barber, ventured to expostulate. "Why!" cried the major. "If you can cut grass you can cut hair! Go and do it!"

A HEROIC WOMAN.

Rescued a Little Girl Who Had Fallen Into a Deep Well.

One of the most interesting exhibitions belonging to England's jubilee year was the Women's Roll of Honor, containing five hundred and eighteen names of heroines belonging to the Victorian era. These were women who had performed some act of self-sacrifice or devotion, and the brief record of their deeds furnishes reading calculated to stir the mind from its everyday calm.

The most commonplace among such actions must have taken the greatest of courage and self-forgetfulness.

Take the case of Mrs. Pumphrey, a delicate, shy little woman, whom no one would suspect of latent heroism. A little girl of five had fallen into a deep well, and the mother, with two neighbors, rushed hurriedly to the brink. Mrs. Pumphrey, one of the two neighbors, offered at once to go down after the child, and resolutely stepping into the crazy bucket, she was lowered into the abyss. At a distance of between thirty and forty feet she touched water, and leaned over to grasp the little girl, already half-drowned.

No sooner had she done so than the bucket overturned, and left her hanging from the chain, clutching her precious burden.

At length a boy of fifteen was let down by a rope, and he succeeded in carrying up the child. Mrs. Pumphrey then placed one foot in the bucket and signaled that she was ready to ascend. But the noxious gases below had been too much for her, and midway in her course toward the surface she suddenly fainted.

The bucket crashed heavily to one side, her foot caught in the chain, and she fell backward into the water, head first.

The shock of immersion revived her, and once more she was able to clamber into the treacherous bucket. Safely above ground again, she gave way to exhaustion, but only after her task was done.

CURED IN ONE MONTH.

If every woman, who has Kidney or Bladder Trouble, could go to Davisville, Ont., and talk to Mrs. A. Simpson, they would do just as she did—take Gin Pills and cure themselves.

"For 14 or 15 years, I had Kidney and Bladder Trouble, suffering at times intense pain. I doctored continually but nothing gave me permanent relief until I was persuaded to try Gin Pills. Within a couple of days, I received great relief, and after taking one box, I was completely cured."

HELPS HIS MEMORY.

Little Willie—"Say, pa, what is a forget-me-not?"

Pa—"It is a knot in the string a woman ties around her husband's finger, my son."

A lady writes: "I was enabled to remove the corns, root and branch, by the use of Holloway's Corn Cure." Others who have tried it have the same experience.

She—"Fred, do you believe that the pen is mightier than the sword?" Fred—"Yes, I do. You never saw anybody sign a cheque with a sword, did you?"

A MODERN SOLOMON.

There was once a young man who met two girls who were constantly together. Now, he was an ascetic young man, and he desired to say something nice and agreeable to the ladies, but he knew that if he paid a compliment to one of them, no matter which one, the other would instantly be hurt.

So he thought rapidly for a moment, and then said:

"And, I know why you two girls are together."

"And why?" asked the two girls together.

"Because everybody says that a handsome girl always chooses a homely one as a companion, so that her beauty may be enhanced by the contrast."

Either both girls would be angry with him, or delighted, after such a remark.

And what do you think happened? The two girls blushed and said he was a flatterer, and went their way together, each happy for herself and sorry for the other.

LA GRIPPE

Arrested, and Consumption Cured

Mr. C. D. Colwell, of Walkerville, Ont., was stricken down with La Grippe in 1906 and it left him in very bad condition. He says: "I was all run down and bordering on Consumption. I could not sleep at night, had awful sweats, and coughed nearly the whole time. This is how I was when I began to take Psychine, in a low nervous state; but from the first bottle I began to improve. It did marvels for me and brought me back to health in no time, making a new man of me. It fortifies the body against the attacks of La Grippe and is a sure preventive. I always take Psychine if I feel a cold coming on and it puts me right in no time."
