CORRESPONDENCE.

To The Editor of The Fenelon Falls Gazette

Dear Sir:—The article in last week's "Gazette" headed "Church Extravagance" directs attention to the prevailing opinion as to what is the essential thing in religion: Is it right living or is it a matter of holding certain opinions upon problems which are metaphysical, legendary, or theological?

The church has insisted that the moral life is not enough, that to meet the favor of God there must be "belief" also, when it would seem that the best way to judge a man's belief is from his practice, his way of living. And as there are a thousand "beliefs" distracting the religious world, who can tell which is right? The mass of people solve the problem by ignoring them all and leaving the wranglers to decide for themselves. So the Christian world is split up into hundreds of sects, small villages and towns have five churches where they can support but one, and rivalry, pride of opinion, controversy, and all manner of irreligious conduct are encouraged. Very often it happens that measures for the help and uplifting of the people cannot be discussed because the poor have no hall or place to meet and talk them over, yet in that community are several church buildings whose echoes are seldom destroyed by full numbers, and are idle six days in the week. Yes, there is a vast extravagance and waste in churchianity, religion of belief merely, dissent, pride of opinion. By their fruits are men known, not by their toots; by their deeds, not their creeds, and that was the ideal of Jesus, who, in spite of our verbalists, never founded a sect or built a church.

Delicious Doughnuts

Good doughnuts are good food.

Made from the right flour they are not only a delicious treat but the combination of right flour with fat is distinctly nourishing.

You see I put special emphasis on right flour. For it is very important. It means the difference between light, flaky, crumbly doughnuts that melt in your mouth and are easy to digest, and tough, rubbery greasy wads of dough, heavy, soggy, indigestible.

Try making doughnuts from

"Royal Household" Flour

Notice how rich, soft, and flaky they are.

And the reason is that "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" being richer in high quality gluten than ordinary flour resists the absorption of too much fat in cooking. It doesn't get rubbery, makes a lighter dough, absorbs just enough of the fat for nourishment, but not enough for indigestion. The absolute uniformity of "Royal Household" enables you to get the same splendid results every time both in Bread and Pastry.

Try "Royal Household". Find out for yourself. All grocers sell it or can get it on short notice.

NEWSPAPER LAW.

1. A post-master is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law), when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.

2. If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it, until payment is made and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.

3. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the payment.

4. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it from the post-office. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

5. Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them unclaimed for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
