Col. Hughes Rebuked by Clergy.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The Ottawa Ministerial Association, by resolution, to-day handed a rebuke to Col. Sam. Hughes, M. P., for his recent speech on the floor of the House in which he attacked Rev. J. W. H. Milne of this city for a sermon the latter had preached in criticism of Parliamentarians, who took advantage of their privileges to denounce others. After reviewing Mr. Milne's sermon the resolution continued: "We feel humiliated that any man should pollute the atmosphere of our National Parliament with language so abusive, as seems to have been used on this occasion. No less deplorable do we think it that the representative of a Canadian constituency should unrebuked, have publicly repeated to the detriment of a fellow-citizen, assertions of some irresponsible tale bearer, which he does not pretend to have verified. We accept without reserve Mr. Milne's assurance, corroborated by the members of his congregation, that these assertions are absolutely false. With him, however, we regret that there are members of Parliament so venomous as to be ready to suggest anything that will leave a stain on the character of an opponent, and affirm that such conduct is not in harmony with the spirit of Christian civilization.

HATS FROM PARIS

Present Large Picture Creations the Most Artistic Yet Seen

A hat from Paris! Show me the woman who is not attracted by such a bait. In the French capital to-day $100 is regarded as a comparatively low price to pay for one of the popular hats of automobile-tire dimensions, and having but the slightest apology for trimming in the way of a tiny cord or band of fur or a single rose. But why so dear? may be asked. Well, it is all because of the line, the cut, if one may so term it, as a leading milliner expressed it the other day. Truly, the present large picture hats are the most artistic headgear seen here in many years. During the summer season when Paris is supposed to be dead the designers for great milliners spend many an hour in the Louvre or the Carnavalet galleries, or studying the wonderful collection of the National Library, and the result of which can be easily seen in this year's hats, many of which are copies of the Directoire and Louis XV. and Louis XVI. styles. These large hats are chiefly for afternoon wear, it may be explained.

The winter models are so varied and becoming that there will be no difficulty of selection. The poise of an aigrette or a bunch of plumes suited to the individual face, will entirely change what looks like an impossible-becoming toque into the most chic and becoming headgear.
