Miss Willard a Socialist.

Address of the late Frances E. Willard at the National Convention of the W. C. T. U., Buffalo, in 1897.

Look about you; the products of labor are on every hand; you could not maintain for a moment a well-ordered life without them; every object in your room has in it, for discerning eyes, the mark of ingenious tools and the pressure of labor's hands. But is it not the cruelest injustice for the wealthy, whose lives are surrounded and embellished by labor's work, to have a superabundance of the money which represents the aggregate of labor in any country, while the laborer himself is kept so steadily at work that he has no time to acquire the education and refinements of life that would make him and his family agreeable companions to the rich and cultured? The reason why I am a Socialist comes in just here.

I would take—not by force, but by the slow process of lawful acquisition through better legislation as the outcome of a wiser ballot in the hands of men and women—the entire plant that we call civilization, all that has been achieved on this continent in the four hundred years since Columbus wended his way hither, and make it the common property of all the people, requiring all to work enough with their hands to give them the finest physical development, but not to become burdensome in any case, and permitting all to share alike the advantages of education and refinement. I believe this to be perfectly practicable; indeed, that any other method is simply a relic of barbarism.

I believe that competition is doomed. The trusts, whose single object is to abolish competition, have proved that we are better without it than with it; and the moment corporations control the supply of any product they combine. What the Socialist desires is that the corporation of humanity shall control all production. Beloved comrades, this is the frictionless way; it is the higher way; it eliminates the motives for a selfish life; it enacts into our every-day living the ethics of Christ's gospel. Nothing else will do it; nothing else can bring the glad day of universal brotherhood.

Oh, that I were young again, and it would have my life! It is God's way out of the wilderness and into the promised land. It is the very marrow of Christ's gospel. It is Christianity applied.

Strength of Socialism.

Denmark has 93,000 Socialist voters and twenty-four representatives in the national legislature.

The cause in France has acquired a quarter of a million votes since 1907, now having more than 1,100,000 and seventy-six representatives.

The Socialists in Holland cast 88,500 votes at the last election, against 65,000 in 1907.

The German comrades cast more than 4,000,000 votes at the late election; a gain of 750,000 over 1907.

Spanish revolutionists voted 42,000 strong this year, almost twice the vote of 1907, and they have one representative.

There are almost as many Socialist votes in Stockholm this year as were cast in all Sweden three years ago. The mayor of Stockholm, Comrade Lindhagen, was elected by more than 15,000 votes. He is also one of nearly half a hundred representatives in the Swedish legislature.

Twenty-three representatives of the working-class sit in the Swiss legislature, the Socialist party having gained four seats at the last election. They have about 100,000 votes.

In Belgium the Socialists now have thirty-four Socialists in the legislature. In the recent Finnish elections the Socialists have increased their votes to about 350,000, and gained six seats in the legislature, giving them ninety.

Austria has more than a million Socialist voters, and has eighty-seven members of the legislature.

As the result of a recent election, both houses of the Australian legislature are completely dominated by Socialists.

England and Italy each has about 350,000 Socialist votes and about forty-five legislators.

New Zealand and Russia have each close to 320,000 Socialists, and each has sixty legislators from the working class party.

Eighty thousand Hungarian voters cast their ballots for Socialism in the elections of 1907.

Thirty thousand Socialist voters of Bulgaria have elected eight members of the legislature.

Luxembourg has over 5,000 Socialist voters and several members of the legislature.

The Socialist vote in the United States in 1908 was nearly half a million. At a late election Milwaukee, a city of 400,000 inhabitants, elected a Socialist mayor and council.—Appeal.

"The social question of to-day," said Disraeli, "is only a zephyr which rustles the leaves, but it will soon become a hurricane." Dizzy was not only a great Prime Minister, but a mighty good weather prophet.

Under the capitalist system you must rob and cheat your neighbor. It is only a question of how far you will go; the farther the more successful. But, at the same time, you must love your neighbor. Funny thing, this capitalism!

It's What You Save

rather than what you earn that decides your financial condition at fifty.

The greatest help in saving is a Savings Account in such a strong, reliable Bank as the Bank of British North America. The satisfaction of still further increasing a growing Bank balance is one of the strongest incentives to systematic saving. The result is independence.
