Peat to Compete.

The following from the Montreal Witness gives hope that the present high prices of fuel may at no distant date be lowered by the introduction of peat. With peat obtainable as close as Beaverton the prices in this district should be as low as anywhere. The Witness says:

At last there seems to be something more than a chance for the successful use of peat as a substitute for coal in our stoves and furnaces. For the last twenty or thirty years there has been more or less talk on this subject, and some very promising experiments have been made—notably at Welland and at Beaverton. But always the promoters failed to place their product on the market on anything like a commercial scale. Small pieces in the form of sections of a cylinder were displayed at the Toronto exhibition, and handed round to interested enquirers; but nobody appeared ready to take orders for the delivery of the fuel by the ton. The great practical difficulty has always seemed to lie in the economical elimination of the water contained in the original turf. Sometimes the turf has been spread out over a field to be sun dried. Sometimes it has had the water forced out of it by mechanical pressure. Both of these methods were expensive. And it so came to pass that the compressed peat could not be produced and shipped to any distance at prices to compete with the imported anthracite coal. Eventually, however, it came to be known at Ottawa that methods were in use in Sweden in advance of any yet devised in Canada, and likely to render the production of the finished article not only scientifically but commercially practicable. The Dominion Government sent to Sweden for the machinery, and began a series of experiments at Alfred, near Ottawa, which have been so far successful that it is understood the Canadian Pacific Railway is now contemplating taking over the plant and selling the peat all through the Ottawa valley and at Montreal. Peat will find acceptance in competition with anthracite coal even at the same price in relation to heat value, because it is as clean as compressed paper in the handling, and because it leaves little or no ash. Eastern Ontario offers an especially favourable field for its introduction, as the price of coal is higher than here. Sooner or later it will be produced on an extensive scale in central and western Ontario and, unless we are greatly mistaken, it will be able to compete with Pennsylvania coal right up to the international boundary line at Niagara.

Fenelon Fall Fair Will Be Earlier.

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting of members of the Fenelon Agricultural Society was held at the McArthur House on Saturday afternoon. The three most important items in the business transacted were the decision to enter the field-crop competition this year, the changing of the fair dates to Sept. 10th and 11th, and the negotiations to be entered into regarding the purchase or lease of the park grounds. Another matter of interest at the meeting was the retirement of Mr. John Aldous from the Presidency of the Society. Mr. Aldous has been President several years, and has filled the position very capably acceptably, and the Society has prospered during his term of office. He was tendered a hearty vote of thanks by the meeting and received many well deserved compliments. The new president is Mr. John Knox, who will without doubt prove a satisfactory officer. Other nominations for the position were Mr. Wm. Hetherington and Mr. J. H. Brandon, last years vice-president, both of whom, however, declined the honor. Mr. Wm. Hetherington was elected vice-president, and Mr. I. Naylor re-elected secretary-treasurer. The directors are: Messrs. J. Burtchall, T. Isaac, D. Folinie, John Copp, Fred Smitheram, Ben. Smith, Wm. Golden, Jas. Lamb, Geo. Goodhand, and T. Austin.

It was decided to hold a concert on fair night, under the auspices of the Society, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements. The conditions of the field crop competition specify that each competitor can make only one entry, and the Society decides what crop of grain or roots is to be grown. The Fenelon Society at the meeting decided to make oats the crop to be grown here, as being the most suitable. Fields are to be not less than five nor more than twenty acres. An entrance fee of fifty cents will be charged competitors. There are seven prizes, the lowest of which is $4.

The Department strongly urges all agricultural societies to take up the field crop competition, as it is stated to be one of the most useful features of work in connection with these institutions.

The changing of the fair dates, it is believed, will be an advantage, particularly in avoiding disagreeable weather.

For the past couple of years the fair grounds have not been in a very good condition, the fences especially being out of repair. The move to purchase or lease the grounds is a good one, and it is hoped will be brought to a successful conclusion. The fair directors could then go ahead with a progressive programme with some feeling of security, and get the grounds and the fair generally into first-class shape.

Women's Institute.

The regular meeting of the Fenelon Falls branch of the Women's Institute was held on Friday afternoon, Jan. 19th, at the home of Mrs. W. H. Welch, Colborne Street. The meeting was opened in the usual manner, Mrs. Dr. Gould presiding. The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted and other business attended to. Mrs. D. Jewell, secretary, having handed in her resignation, Mrs. M. E. Calder was elected to the vacant office, having consented to act as secretary during the remainder of the Institute year.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that a letter conveying the thanks of the members of the branch be sent to Mrs. Jewell as a slight token of appreciation of her long term in office. The visiting committee was re-appointed. The District Secretary's report of the W. I. Convention at Toronto, which was sent by Mrs. Cluxton of Bobcaygeon, was read by Miss Sabina Martin and much appreciated. An excellent paper was then read by Mrs. Dr. Gould, entitled "Character," written by Dr. Boyd of Bobcaygeon for that branch of the Institute. This paper showed the influence of heredity, environment and education on the formation of character.

A discussion then followed on the subject "How we are benefited by meeting together." Several of the members thought that the social side of the meetings was one of the greatest benefits. Two or three favored the roll call as bringing out the more timid members, besides furnishing many new ideas. Another member found most benefit from the excellent papers read at the meetings, while still another thought the broadening effect of the influence of the Institute on the life of women was a great benefit. In short, each member expressed herself decidedly in favor of the Institute meetings as beneficial in many respects.

Music was given by Mrs. Dr. Gould and Miss Martin and was much appreciated.

The meeting closed by the singing of the national anthem.
