From Collier's Weekly

It seems that with Senator Hoke Smith and Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, among the notables comprising the National Child Labor Committee, Georgia would provide reasonable safeguards for the children of the poor—but Georgia does not. Apparently Georgians are more concerned with seeing their factories make money than with giving boys and girls a chance to make good citizens of themselves. During its recent session the State's law-making body turned down two exceedingly mild child-welfare measures. One bill provided that children should be at school at least four years, from the age of eight to twelve. The other forbade the employment of small children in factories, setting the age limit at twelve after 1913, at thirteen after 1914, and at fourteen after 1915. Both bills contained exceptions which afforded ample opportunities for evasion, as is usually the case when such laws are framed in southern States. The Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' Association did not openly oppose the bills, but still there were not votes enough to put them on the statute books. A Senator named Spinks, the President of a small cotton mill, declared that he was not a member of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' Association, that the manufacturers did not really want any legislation, and that it was necessary for ten-year old children to work in cotton mills to support widowed mothers and invalid fathers. The attitude of Senator Spinks seems to be that of a large element of Georgia's voting population, else the people would elect a Legislature that would pass laws to keep little boys and girls out of cotton mills and in school until they have reached the average stage of physical and mental development.

Local Option Notes.

Renfrew Mercury: It is only six months since Local Option was repealed in the village of Acton—repealed through a large influx of old country people to the tanneries and glove works of that village, and there have been more convictions of "blind pigs" in those six months than in the preceding three or four years under local option. Within the past month fines of over $1,900 have been imposed on blind piggers.

In the town of Orillia some opponents of Local Option presented to the council a petition praying for a submission of a repeal by-law. It was proposed that if repeal should succeed, applications would be made only for wine and beer licenses and it was argued that such a licensing plan would be in the interest of "true temperance." After a strenuous effort, however, the repealers succeeded in securing only thirty-two signatures to the petition and some of those who signed were aliens and not entitled to vote. The movement was so manifestly insignificant and unpopular that the council properly refused to take any action concerning it.

Vicars—McDougall.

Early on Wednesday morning, at St. James' Church, the marriage quietly took place of Mr. G. F. Vicars and Kathleen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McDougall of Fenelon Falls. The Rev. W. H. A. French, Rector of the parish, performed the ceremony.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a travelling costume of navy blue whipcord, with satin blouse, and blue hat with purple satin facing and persian band. She wore the bridegroom's gift, a dainty wrist watch in gold. Marabou muff and stole were also worn, and a corsage bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley completed the costume. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. G. G. Beall, of Lindsay, as matron of honor, in a dress of tomato satin with hat of black velvet and marabou stole. She carried chrysanthemums. Her gift from the groom was a necklace of pearls. Dr. Gillilan of Uxbridge acted as groomsmen. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Vicars left on a short trip to Detroit. On their return they will reside in Fenelon Falls. On Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. H. J. Townley, a "shower" was given for Miss McDougall by the Parish Workers of St. James' Church, with a few girl friends of the bride elect. A most enjoyable evening was spent. She was presented also with a dozen sterling silver coffee spoons by the church choir, of which she has been a member for some time.

A Successful Hunt.

The Otter Lake Hunting Club have returned from their annual outing and report a very successful hunt under the direction of Captain H. Jackson of Lindsay. The party was composed of Capt. Jackson, Messrs. Neil Gray and John Turner of Lindsay; H. John and Wm. Armstrong and Geo. Shehee of Bury's Green; Ed. Brooks, Bobcaygeon; Jas. Armstrong of Burnt River; Robt. Wilkinson and Angus Campbell of Verulam; Geo. Armstrong and A. Tiers of Fenelon Falls. They succeeded in getting their thirteen deer the first week, and out of that number they have eight bucks that weigh between fifteen and sixteen hundred pounds. The party would like very much to hear from any party that can beat this record.

Farmers' and Women's Institute Meetings Nov. 27.

The regular annual meetings of the East Victoria Farmers' and Women's Institutes will be held in Dickson's hall, Fenelon Falls, on Thursday, Nov. 27th. The lady representative who will be present is Miss M. V. Powell, who will speak on "A Present Day Need," and Mr. J. M. Paget of Canboro and Mr. H. K. Denyes of Halloway will also give addresses on interesting subjects. A good programme of vocal and instrumental music, etc., is being arranged for the evening meeting.

Pleasant Valley Women's Institute.

The Pleasant Valley Women's Institute met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. J. Lee. The chair was ably filled by Mrs. Frank Smitheram, the president being absent. The meeting opened with the singing of "The Maple Leaf," after which the minutes were read and adopted. The quartette "Juanita" was then sung by the Misses E. Brokenshire, S. Knight, Flora Moynes and Gertrude Moynes. A very instructive paper on "Systematic Housekeeping" was read by Mrs. L. Moynes, and Miss McKendry contributed a short and very amusing reading entitled "Entertaining the Missionary visitor for Mother."

Mrs. Dr. Gould of Fenelon Falls was present and conducted the spelling match, and also gave an instructive address on "The Woman's Work of the Institute." The meeting closed with prayer.

Terrible Storm on Great Lakes.

Two hundred lives have been lost and twenty boats wrecked in a terrific storm that swept the great lakes on Sunday and Monday. The damage is estimated at $3,500,000.

The Largest Chrysanthemum

There seems to be almost no limit to the size of fruit and flowers that plant-breeders can produce. They have doubled or trebled the size of some of the common vegetables, and many of the flowers that fill the florists' shops, but in no case, perhaps, have they accomplished more remarkable results than in that of the chrysanthemum. By removing all the flower-buds except the terminal they have produced the large globular heads with which we are all familiar. A French amateur succeeded in winning a prize for the largest chrysanthemum, with a flower that measured more than 64 inches in circumference. That is many times the size of the original flowerhead. What will happen when the same methods are applied to tomatoes, cherries and other fruits and vegetables?—Horticulture.

Reading to Workmen

In a Toronto cigar factory where nearly all of the thirty-five cigar makers are Cubans, a curious custom is observed—that of having a man read aloud all day long to the workers. He reads the daily newspapers in the mornings and usually a novel in the afternoon. The firm pays his salary and is glad to do it for it makes the men contented and does not interfere with their work which goes on quite as well when their thoughts are miles away from it. In Cuba nearly all the cigar factories employ readers.

The "Prison of Silence"

Republican Portugal still tolerates a prison whose carefully-planned, diabolical torture is enough to make prison reformers turn in their graves.

In this prison, called the "Prison of Silence," in a grim castle on the outskirts of Lisbon, nearly everything that human ingenuity can suggest to terrify the prisoners is done. The corridors, piled tier on tier five storeys high, extend from a common centre like the spokes of a huge wheel.

The cells are narrow and tomb-like, and within each stands a coffin. The attendants creep about in felt slippers. No one is allowed to utter a word. The silence is that of the grave. Once a day the cell doors are unlocked, and the half a thousand wretches march out clothed in shrouds and with faces covered by masks, for it is part of this hideous punishment that none may look upon the countenance of his fellow-prisoners. Few of them endure this torture for more than ten years.

Ordeal to Regain Caste

It is astonishing the belief natives of southern India have in their "caste," and what they will do to regain it if lost. A certain day in the year is set aside for the ceremony of regaining "caste." An enclosure about twenty feet square is fenced off, and in this logs of wood are burned, the ashes of which are kept redhot by continual fanning.

Those going through the ceremony have to wash themselves in the river about a mile away; then, with strings of flowers hanging round their necks, they run to the enclosure. By the time they reach it the redhot ashes have been raked all over the floor and the idol of whatever caste they belong to has been placed on a platform at one end. In rush the "casteless" barefooted, without the slightest hesitation, and dance round and round on the redhot ashes until they drop from exhaustion and are dragged out by their friends. Before going through this painful ceremony of regaining "caste" a man is first supposed to fast for at least three days.

The Miner's Inch

On the Pacific coast, the unit for measuring water in mining is known as the miner's inch. This varies greatly in different localities, and is now generally defined by legislative enactment. In British Columbia, under the Water Clauses Consolidation Act, a miner's inch is declared to be a flow of water equal to 1.68 cubic feet per minute. Therefore, a miner's inch is equal to .028 cubic feet per second, and 1 cubic foot per second is equal to 35.71 miner's inches, approximately.

Volcano Growing Smaller

Professor Ricco states that the crest of Mt. Etna has lowered sixty-five feet on the south since 1868, and almost twice as much on the north. It is supposed that the top has been slowly blown away by the wind.

Girl barbers are growing in popularity in London and there is an increasing demand for them.

Teachers in Ontario receive a subsidy of $30 per year if they maintain a school garden.
