

DRIVES STAPLES STRAIGHT

Tool of New Design for Wire Fence Erectors and Other Workmen

In the erection of wire fence it is generally necessary to drive a large number of staples and for the security of the fence it is desirable that the staples should be driven straight and accurately. Owing to the irregularities of the wooden posts and the strain of the fence wire, which is under a heavy tension when being erected, it is not always an easy matter to put the staples just where they are wanted to be of the most service.

The tool shown in the accompanying cut is designed to accomplish this. With its aid a great many more staples may be driven in a given time and they are driven in a much superior manner. Besides being a convenience to fence erectors there are other mechanics who will find use for this tool such as electricians, box makers, coopers and the like.

LESSONS FROM FIRES

The National Fire Prevention Association in a report on fire losses, drew attention to the following points:—

Shingled roofs are a constant menace and should be abolished. Unprotected steel construction has proved itself many times to be far inferior to average timber construction. Unless well protected in suitable manner to withstand the attack of fire, this type of construction invites disaster.

In every building two or more stairways, remotely located with respect to each other and enclosed in fireproof shafts, are essential for the escape of the occupants, as well as for the work of the fire department.

Elevators should be enclosed in brick or reinforced concrete shaft, walls to pierce all floors and extend at least three feet above roof. Approved automatic fire doors to be installed on one side of wall at all doorways to building.

Properly installed hand-hose connections on sprinkler equipments in specially hazardous locations have proved very desirable, and frequently prevent an undue water loss by extinguishing the fire before the automatic sprinklers operate.

Ventilating fans should be stopped at once upon an alarm of fire.

Where Clocks Are Curiosities

Clocks are regarded as curiosities by many of the Hindus, and for this reason half-a-dozen or more timepieces are often found in the apartments of the wealthy Hindustanees. They are not used as timepieces, but simply for ornament, since the old-fashioned way of telling the hour in India, by calculating the number of bamboo lengths the sun has travelled above the horizon, is entirely satisfactory to the natives.

It is said that in the country police-stations in India, where the European division of the hours is observed, time is measured by placing in a tub of water a copper pot in which a small hole has been bored. It is supposed that it will take one hour for the water to leak into the pot so as to fill it and sink it. When the policeman sees that the pot has disappeared he strikes the hour on a bell-like gong. If he is smoking or dozing the copper pot may have disappeared several minutes before he discovers the fact, but the hour is when he strikes the gong.

Big Trees on Coast

In the forests of British Columbia, trees have been cut so huge that the smooth flat tops of the trunk furnish a platform large enough to dance a set of lancers upon. Indeed the lumberjacks put them to this use. There are a number of trees in Stanley Park, Vancouver, which are between fifty and sixty feet in circumference.

Ageing New Cheese

By treating freshly made cheese with alternating currents of electricity for 24 hours a Dutch electrician has found he can give it all the properties of age.

The King of Ranges— "BUCK'S HAPPY THOUGHT"

THE day has gone past when a wise woman will put up with an inferior cooking apparatus. She has heard of

"Happy Thought" Range,

The Corrugated Oven

and her neighbors tell her what it will do.

If by chance you do not know the merits of The "Happy Thought" you owe it to yourself to investigate. See the Range, look into the firebox and flues, weigh the covers, note the patented dampers, the ventilated, illuminated oven, the corrugated oven plates, and all the different features that make this Range so different and so superior.

You don't know true household comfort if you don't know The "Happy Thought" Range.

A. J. GOULD DRUGGIST AND OPTICIAN

Time works quick changes in the growing girl. Pigtails and short skirts are soon forgotten in the maturer charms of the debutante. Sometime, though, you will ache for a picture of her just as she romped in from school or play.

Think how she would like one, too, in the after years, to show her friends and possibly her children. Make the appointment while the thought is fresh in your mind.
