

CRUISING PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

Cannot be Cured by Liniments—Must be Reached through the Blood

Thousands of men and women suffer severely from rheumatism. Cruel, crippling pains in the muscles and joints make every movement a torture. Many people think rheumatism is due to cold or wet weather, and they try to cure themselves by rubbing liniments on the painful parts. This is a great mistake—the rheumatic poison is in the blood, and liniments and rubbing cannot give more than the most temporary relief. If you are a victim of rheumatism or lumbago you can only rid yourself of it by making your blood rich and pure, for only in this way can the poisons of rheumatism be driven from the system. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than any other disease except anaemia, just because they make the rich, red blood that goes right to the root and cause of rheumatism. You cannot be well when your blood is impure, therefore, begin curing your rheumatism to-day with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The following are the particulars of one of the many thousands of cures to the credit of this health-giving medicine:

Mr. Jeremie Nadou, St. Jerome, Que., says: "A few years ago I was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism. The pains in my back, arms and legs were terrible. I treated with several doctors, but they did not help me, and as time went on I was unable to work, and began to think that I would be a cripple for life. While in this trying condition a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advised me to try this remedy, and I got a supply of the Pills. I had taken the Pills for several weeks before any improvement was noticed, but once signs of relief came the improvement from that time on was rapid, and I joyfully continued taking the Pills until every vestige of the trouble disappeared. No one but a similar sufferer can imagine the gratitude I feel for this relief from pain, and because I have since enjoyed perfect health I urge other rheumatic sufferers to give this medicine a trial."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hobbies and Their Patrons.

It is said that a hobby should be chosen to provide a complete change from the regular work of life, and apparently many well-known people have borne in mind this maxim when selecting their spare-time pastime. For instance, it is difficult to imagine two more widely different things than diving and Sanserit, and the former is the favorite hobby of Professor Rockwell, the eminent Sanserit scholar. The Earl of Aberdeen finds relaxation in landscape gardening when affairs of State do not demand his attention. Lord Charles Beresford makes a hobby of carpentering, at which he is an adept, while Ysaye turns from his violin to a well-loved pipe. Another musician—Mark Hambourg—seeks change of occupation in numismatics; and Thomas Hardy turns from book-writing to dance-music as a pastime. The most famous of modern logicians, Professor Abbott, has croquet as his pet hobby.

BABIES OWN TABLETS CURE INDIGESTION

Indigestion is one of the most common ailments of childhood, and no other ailment is more dangerous. Indigestion paves the way to many other complaints. Baby's Own Tablets never fail to remove childhood indigestion. They act as a gentle laxative, sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, and make the baby healthy and happy. Concerning them Mrs. Alphonse Pellitier, St. Philippe de Neri, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for indigestion with great success. They have also proved successful in breaking up colic and simple fevers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Once in about a thousand years you'll meet a man who feels sorry for his creditors.

The World in Review

A Peep Behind the Scenes.
General Smuts has given some explanation of the events which led to the declaration of martial law and the deportation of Secretary Bain and his companions from South Africa. He stated that Secretary Bain was one of the most desperate men he had ever encountered. He had known him when he was employed as a secret agent in the employ of the Boer Government of which General Smuts was a prominent member. If this is true then it seems certain that Secretary Bain, as the leader of the Labor party, would be in communication with General Herzog as leader of the old Dutch party, both the Labor and Dutch party being desirous of great riot. Whether this eventually proves to be true or not remains to be seen, but it is more than likely that behind the drama of the strike lay the trail of a political intrigue which had as its motive the elimination of General Botha and the substitution of General Herzog. Apparently Secretary Bain was to do the work of forcing out the former minister by general strike and General Herzog would have the burghers at his back in case General Botha tried to use force. Seemingly that is just where the situation went wrong. General Botha called out the citizen army, and the burghers as well as the British responded immediately. The whole mobilization of the troops was, according to reports now circulating, most admirable. There was not a hitch anywhere. Over 100,000 men were under arms and after the onset of the strike leaders the movement collapsed. There was one of great riot at the Jagersfontein mines, where 8,000 natives tried to get out of the compound and would have succeeded but for the nerve of the manager who with forty military troops the natives at bay, having to shoot into them three times. Fortunately, troops arrived just in time to save the town.

It Pays to Advertise.
Listen to this tale of woe from an American: "Additional and startling testimony before a Senate committee shows how Canadian government money has been used to lure American farmers over the border with American rural newspapers as the go-between. A press association with headquarters in Omaha, by the admission of its president, was getting $42,000 a year from the Dominion Government to furnish to small country sheets 'boiler plate' articles setting forth the superiority of Canada over this country as a place for farmers to make money. This is one of the one of the many $500,000 Americans have been drawn to Canada within the past decade. A Canadian official owns up to an annual expenditure of $70,000 a year to attract immigration, but the American authorities put the figure as high as $250,000. The shameful thing is that hundreds of American publishers can be found willing to sell themselves to foreign governments. Everybody admits that it pays to advertise, but the best advertisement Canada has yet received are the thousands of testimonials sent back by satisfied settlers to their old homes which lure their friends to come and share their prosperity."

Radium is Being Tested.
Since the dawn of creation nature has carefully concealed the secret of radium in the innermost recesses of her womb, until at last a Polish woman, Madame Curie, discovered it. Science does not fully understand or appreciate the possibilities of radium. Scientists know that it is the most wonderful of all minerals yet discovered. They know its beneficial possibilities are probably limitless. But the cost is very great and the secrecy of radium makes experiments almost impossible. In London, Paris, and Berlin, experimental colleges have been established, supported by the government, where radium is being tested by eminent men of science. A practical study of its uses and possibilities is being made under government supervision.

There is not the remotest chance for the alchemist to find radium. It is too carefully concealed. After the pitchblende is collected it even now requires months for the extraction and purification of the radium salts. All of the skill of the most expert chemists, aided by the nearly perfect apparatus of twentieth century science, must be exerted to extract an almost infinitesimal amount of radium from a considerable mass of material. But if radium can cure that most malignant disease, cancer, and has proved itself remarkably capable in this respect, all the world will watch the sources of production with such interest and care that radium will become an international ward in the chancery court of medicine.

For Better Things.
The evolution of our industrial system is certain to work up to a square deal between capital and labor. If the universal minimum wage was $5 and the universal day's work was eight hours, we would all say "hurrah." But these achievements work by conditions, and will certainly be reached if they belong to the trend of human happiness; which, of course, they do. There are fewer five dollars to pay and fewer eight days' work to do, all of which depends upon the world's absorption of labor's products after those changes take place. If there is in the situation an unearned increment that will keep down the incidental high cost of living, we may hope for this happy change. But there is the rub. In flying high we have to throw out ballast, but if there is no ballast to throw out, then we drop. Conditions govern. We cannot do what we want to, but we can make conditions better and build upon the improvement. These conditions are largely political, social, economical and all hinge directly on the manhood of living.

Spain in America.
It is reported in Madrid that King Alfonso of Spain is to go to Argentina next June "to make the acquaintance of a country whither so many Spaniards have emigrated who remain profoundly attached to the motherland. No Spanish sovereign has yet visited that great empire that Spain discovered and conquered and held for over three centuries—the last remnant of which, in fact, she did not lose until 1898. But above and beyond her political possessions on the ruins of Spain's Indies has been built a commercial empire far more valuable as values are measured in these modern days and as regards both practical and sentimental advantages. Spain is still a name to conjure with in South and Central America. If Ferdinand's successor should sail over the seas to visit the ancient dominions that were once the envy of the world, modern Spain might well gain a new guerdon in the New World and take in peaceful trade far more treasure than her galleons bore home of old across the Spanish Main. Great Britain and Germany are fully alive to the great commercial opportunities that are to be opened up with the completion of the Panama Canal. There is no reason why Spain, the mother country of all those bountiful lands that lie south of the Rio Grande, should not also share in the profits and rewards of their peaceful exploitation. A greater Spain than Spain has ever been might well come into its own following such a voyage as Alfonso XIII. is reported to have in mind.

Bashful Barrie.

Ralph Connor once attended a reception at Free St. George's, Edinburgh. It was given by the young people of the church in honor of the rising novelist. Coming in late he met the late Henry Drummond.

"Have you seen Barrie?" Drummond asked.

"No, but I should like to," replied Connor.

"Well," advised Drummond, "you just look around until you find a hole, look down that hole and you will find Barrie."

Connor found Barrie later in a quiet corner evidently looking for a hole and somewhat distressed at not finding it.

To Give Away.
"Oh, no!" sighed the magistrate. "Time hangs heavy on my hands."

"Yes, but you can always give a fellow six months," suggested his friend.

Victim of Chronic Catarrh Cured.

I contracted a severe cold while following my occupation of furniture travelling, and eventually it developed into Catarrh. The desultory mode of life I was following gave me very little chance to attend to the Catarrh condition, and at last I became a victim of Chronic Catarrh. I bought a large package of Catarrhoxone, used it as per directions, and have never been bothered since. I will be only too glad to give any information I possess to any person suffering from the disease that was the bane of my life two years.

Wasted Energy.

A man who had never been duck hunting, shot at a duck in the air. The duck fell dead to the ground.

"Well, you got him!" exclaimed the amateur's friend.

"Yes," replied the amateur, "but I might as well have saved my ammunition—the fall would have killed him."

The clean tablecloth catches the early grease spot.

A young gentleman with a very plain face was rather annoyed because his view of the stage was obstructed by the hat of a pretty girl who was sitting in front of him in the gallery. Wishing to get a glimpse of the performance, he plucked up courage and, in a nervous voice, exclaimed: "See here, miss, I want to look as well as you."

BIGGEST INDIAN RESERVE.

W. J. Dilworth Has 1,200 Indians Under His Care at Slide Out.

W. J. Dilworth, the man appointed to control the largest Indian reserve in Canada, has entered upon his duties at the agency at Slide Out, Alberta. Mr. Dilworth will have some 1,200 Indians under his care, besides a dozen or more reserve officials who do the actual work of superintending the several activities of the band. The Bloods are a sub-band of the Blackfeet tribe, the last to be subdued and induced to take treaty and settle upon a reservation.

Mr. Dilworth is likely, in the early months of his superintendence to be called upon to deal with some very important questions. The matter of cutting the reserve up into small grazing leases is earnestly pressed now by the small ranches south and east of the tract. The actual sale of the southern portion of the tract is also a question which, undoubtedly, will be voted on.

The new agent was born at Ethel, Ontario, in 1877. He is of Irish parentage on his mother's side, and Scotch U. E. Loyalist on his father's. He is a graduate of Listowel, Ont., High School. Moving to North Dakota he completed three years of the four years Arts course in the University of North Dakota, teaching school at the same time. He then entered into the implement business at Fargo, North Dakota, as a salesman, continuing till 1904, when he became a farmer in Ward County of the same State. In the autumn of 1908, Mr. Dilworth came to Macleod, again entering the implement business, and continuing till his appointment as Indian Agent.

Mr. Dilworth has grown up with the West, has had practical experience in all Western conditions, and will no doubt make good in his new work with the red men.

INFLUENCE OF GHOSTS.

The West African Bushmen Have Strange Belief.

In the minds of most of the West African bush people no hard and fast line seems to exist between the living and the dead, writes T. A. Talbot in The Wide World Magazine. Ghosts are thought to exercise great influence over those who still dwell on earth. At all ceremonies of importance the names of the principal ancestors are invoked, and at feasts part of the food is always laid aside for them, in such words as the following:

"Listen, my family! Here is the offering (goat, sheep or cow) which we have killed for him who has died. Here is your portion. It is time for us to eat." A libation is also poured out in order that the dead may drink with the living.

By a beautiful fancy, any stranger who dies in a town is buried on the road by which he entered it, so that his spirit may easily find the way back to his home, or at least watch the road thither and listen for the coming of friends.

Among many tribes those objects most used by the dead man while in life are broken and laid around his grave, so that their spirit, set free by the breaking of their earthly forms, may be borne by their owner into the world of ghosts.
