FLEETWOOD.

Special to the WATCHMAN.

The revival meetings that have been conducted by Rev. Mr. Bell in the white brick church closed on Friday night. There was over forty professed to have found their Saviour's redeeming grace. We sincerely hope it may be so, and that they may continue to grow in grace and lead better lives for the future.

The snow that came on Friday has made a little sleighing to enable people to do some work, getting wood and other small chores.

BURN RIVER.

Mr. Lack has bought out Mr. A. Rettie's house and lot.

The Salvation Army visited here on Tuesday last 25th ult. Although the weather was unfavorable there was a good turn out.

Mr. J. J. Nichols will have his mill in running order this spring. Parties having logs will do well to have them at the mill as early as possible.

Five members of the L. O. L. went to Fenelon Falls on the 21st of March, and received the Royal Scarlet degree. Nothing like advancing.

All kinds of garden seeds in large and small packages at E. Woods.

A social evening was spent last Friday at Ralph Reed's by a number of our young people, and had a very pleasant time.

It is Mr. Jos. Martin, instead of Jas. Master, as mentioned in last issue, that is preparing for building.

WEDDING BELLS.—One of those interesting events occurred here on Wednesday, 25th February, when Mr. Wm. Tamblin of Ops, and Emily, youngest daughter of Thomas Thompson, were married at the residence of the bride's father. Rev. Dr. Williams performed the ceremony, and in addition baptized four children belonging to three of the families present. The guests numbered fifty; there were none present except members of the two families of Tamblin and Thompson, with the exception of Miss Daniels, who was bridesmaid. The following is a partial list of the presents received by the bride:—

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tamblin, Sr., large illustrated family Bible; Thos. H. Thompson and Miss Phoebe Daniel, beautiful china tea set; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Western, silver casket stand; Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Thompson, glass fruit dish; Mr. and Mrs. N. Rodman, parlor lamp; Mr. Wm. and Miss Nellie King, silver pickle crock; Mr. Wesley Tamblin, lemonade set; Mr. and Mrs. R. Best, glass fruit dish; Mr. and Mrs. T. Tamblin, silver clock, set in plush; Mr. and Mrs. Foster Thompson, parlor lamp; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompkins, half dozen glass goblets; Mr. and Mrs. Doble King, glass cheese dish; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Evely, parlor lamp; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Oldfield, cake stand and set of glass-ware; Miss Phoebe Daniel, silver breakfast crock; Mr. and Mrs. J. Weldon, white bed spread; Miss Clara Thompson, bedroom set; Miss Eva B. On Tuesday evening last Mr. Richard A. Rook was presented in the office of the Pulp Mill with a heavy gold chain and locket and also with a well filled purse on his leaving the employment of the Napanee Paper Co. The address was read by Mr. A. Q. StGeorge, and the presentation was made by Mr. Wm. Burgoyne. Mr. Rook after receiving the presents made an appropriate reply, thanking the men for their thoughtfulness. The address ran thus:—

To Richard A. Rook,
DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It is with the deepest regret that we learn that you are now about to sever your connection with the Napanee Paper Co. for whom you have so faithfully laboured in the past 16 years. We feel that we cannot let you go without tendering you some small recognition of our appreciation for your many excellent qualities, we therefore beg your acceptance of this gold chain, locket and purse, not for any intrinsic value they have, or the amount the latter contains, but as a slight remembrance of the many happy years we have worked together, trusting that though we are parting now for a season, the affection that has always existed amongst us may not be blighted by the hand of time. We can assure you that you go from amongst us taking the good will of all your brother employees. Your generous and amiable manner has endeared you to us all, that to part with you is to us a sad event. We wish you in the future in no matter what sphere of life you may be called, all the health, wealth, and happiness which this world can give, and should we never see your face, or clasp your hand again as we do here to-night, we trust we shall all meet upon that day, around that throne, where Angels sing their great Redeemer's praise, and where parting is no more.

Signed by the employees of the Napanee Paper Co.

Mr. Rook leaves on Wednesday for Belleville to remain a few days previous to his taking his position in Stanstead College below Montreal. Mr. Rook was well liked and is greatly missed by the Paper Co. We wish him success.

Mr. John Woods, step-son of Mr. John Pitalley of this village, met with rather a bad shaking up on Friday last. Mr. Woods was on the elevator where the ice is drawn up and in the act of shoving a block of ice he slipped falling a distance of 25 ft. or more upon the blocks that are being stored, he was at once taken home upon Mr. Ellis' sleigh and on examination we are glad to say no bones were broken. The young man is recovering.

There are upwards of 200 men now engaged in stowing away this cooling beverage, there is no ice like that which is taken out of Cameron Lake, I have heard it said that the longer you leave a block of it in the sun the harder it gets, and we might add that if you leave it long enough it will get that hard that you cannot remove it.

The heavy fall of snow on Friday made our village once more assume its usual active appearance, storekeepers were busy, and men paced our streets with as business an air as though they were the proprietors of Wall St. New York. The hot sun however is having its effect, and the streets will soon be once more clear of winter shroud.

The gold chain and locket that was presented to Mr. Rook was bought at Mr. Petty's jewellery store Lindsay. Mr. Petty's reputation for the genuine article and the lowest price as advertised in these columns led the purchaser there to buy. So much for advertising in the WATCHMAN.

IRELAND.

Belfast stands third on the list of ports in the United Kingdom.

Parishes in Donegal have contributed £1,017 to the Irish Tenants' Defence fund. Rev. Wm. Park, of Belfast, will be the next Moderator of the Irish Presbyterian Church.

The Second Gordon Highlanders, from Belfast, are to be sent to the Curragh during the present year.

There died at the Gardens, Bangor Castle, Belfast, on the 6th inst., Mr. Robert Fisher, aged 78 years.

A comprehensive temperance movement is being organized by the Roman Catholic authorities in Ireland.

A servant girl has been accidentally shot dead at Cahircoulish, Limerick, by her employer, who was shooting crows.

A controversy has been engaging attention amongst the Irish Church ministers as to the wearing of the gown in the pulpit.

It has been decided at the War Office that the Scots Greys, now serving in Ireland, shall go to Aldershot for the manoeuvres in the summer.

A number of English Members of Parliament intend to go to Ireland in the Easter recess for the purpose of being present at the founding of New Tipperary.

A shipping clerk named George Arthur on the 12th inst. murdered his sweetheart, Nora Tattersall, at Cave Hill, Belfast, and afterwards committed suicide.

The Lord-Lieutenant has conferred knighthood upon Dr. John Nugent, who has just retired from the chief inspectorship of lunatic asylums in Ireland after 43 years' service.

John Markham, an Irish land bailiff, who had been boycotted for ten years, and was constantly guarded by the police while he lived, died a few days ago, and, the guard being relaxed a little, some persons unknown stole his body and made away with it so effectually that it has not since been found.

At Balbybay, on the 6th inst., a farmer named Edward Redmond committed suicide by tying his legs and throwing himself into a bog hole, where he was found drowned. He put his cap in his pocket to prevent it floating on the water and thus lead to the finding of his body. He had left home to meet his wife when returning from shopping.

Bismarck Leaves Berlin.

BERLIN, March 30.—Prince Bismarck left Berlin for Friedrichsruhe, his country seat, yesterday. On Friday he visited the Mausoleum at Charlottenburg, in which the remains of Emperor William I. are interred, and placed a wreath upon the coffin of his old master. Prior to his departure from Berlin he paid farewell visits to the Royal Princesses. Later thousands of persons gathered in the Wilhelmstrasse and along the route to the railway station to witness the final scene in the Bismarck drama. Wearing the uniform of the cuirassiers, Prince Bismarck left the palace of the chancellor at 5 o'clock p. m., and entered an open carriage. He was greeted with stormy enthusiasm. The entire route was a sea of waving handkerchiefs. Following the Prince's carriage came another carriage occupied by Princess Bismarck. A number of other carriages filled with friends and admirers closed the procession. When the party arrived at the station a squadron of cuirassiers and a band formed a guard of honor. All the ministers, the diplomatic corps and the court and state officials were waiting to bid farewell to the Prince, and there was a great mass of people outside the station. Mountains of bouquets for the Prince and Princess were piled in the waiting rooms, which were decorated. Prince Bismarck in a hearty voice bid all farewell. Many tears were shed, and it was altogether an affecting scene.

LONDON, March 31.—The Times' Berlin correspondent describing the grand ovation to Bismarck on the occasion of his departure from Berlin, says: "This is not the language of exaggeration, but a sober record of incidents seen by an eye-witness. I have never seen so respectable a crowd in Berlin. It contained none of the constituents of a mob, but was comprised of the best circles, especially from the official world. I could never have believed that so severe and sombre a class could have betrayed such downright emotion."

A Thief Run Down.

MONTREAL, March 30.—The thousands of people who hurry along Great St. James street in this city at noon hour are generally a lot of busy men and women, but notwithstanding their pressing duties they all had to stop yesterday and see a sneak thief of good standing in his profession run to earth. The facts are as follows: Mr. Lanoix, of the firm of Dupuis, Lanoix & Co., entered the Banque Ville Marie, just west of the St. Lawrence Hall, to make a deposit, and with this end in view placed his pass book, together with bills to the amount of $320, in the wicket, expecting that the receiving teller would soon take possession of the same. All at once a stranger presented himself and saluting the merchant in military style said: "Excuse me, sir, is that the Molsons Bank opposite?"

Mr. Lanoix turned an instant only to give the desired information, but what was his surprise in again looking towards the bills to see the latter rapidly disappearing beneath a second stranger's overcoat, the wearer of which was making towards the door. A general alarm being sounded every one made after the thief, who took to his heels and bolted directly into the arms of Pete Murphy, the well-known news agent, whose office is on the outside of Medical hall. Murphy held on for dear life, notwithstanding serious opposition from the robber, and finally a policeman came up and showed the unknown the way to the central station. When confronted by the chief the prisoner gave his name as Willie Brown, and said he had just arrived from Detroit. He was immediately recognized, however, as a notorious bank sneak thief by the name of Horace Horan, alias "Little Horace," aged 39, and one of the most distinguished members of his particular fraternity on the continent. Horan's accomplice disappeared while the pursuit of his pal was being indulged in, but his arrest may be looked for at any moment. After the policeman had started for the station with his prisoner the entire amount of money stolen was found on the window ledge near where Murphy had brought his man to a halt, and no doubt the bills had been thrown there by the robber.

Those Mysterious Disappearances.

In regard to the statements credited to a Mr. T. B. Alderson, of New York, which have reference to the mysterious disappearance of two young Englishmen named Begbie and Rawlings, Mr. Fred White, comptroller of the N. W. M. P., to-day gave some information from the departmental records in reference to the former. "Francis K. Begbie joined at Toronto April 24 1885. His attestation sheet shows the following: Height, 6 feet 2 inches; age, 22 years and 5 months; chest measurement, 36 1/2 inches; hair and complexion dark; eyes blue; marks, none; previous occupation, farming and volunteers; last residence, Lindsay, Ont.; former service, 45th Battalion volunteers; religion, church of England; nearest relative, his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Begbie, Stoke Villa, Limerick, Bath, England." He left the 45th to join the N. W. M. P. and was strongly recommended by Capt. Greyband as a young man of excellent character and a good soldier, whom he did not doubt the officers of the mounted police would speedily promote. His police papers also showed that he had been plucked in his military examinations in England.

"Apparently he did not like the police," said Mr. White, "for he only stayed 125 days. On August 26, 1885, he deserted whilst on escort duty at Winnipeg. You see he had been out west on service, and when he got down to Winnipeg probably did as they so often do, started to paint the town red. Then he was ashamed to go back to his barracks for punishment. For drunkenness that is very severe. We hold it might be somewhat excusable in a soldier, but drunkenness in a policeman is inexcusable. Probably he went to the States, but, at any rate, as a deserter he would not want to make his whereabouts known." This statement rather disposes of the alleged mystery in Begbie's case.

Judge Barrett has denied the motion for a new trial in the Flack conspiracy case in New York.

Letters from St. Petersburg declare that the original cause of the student outbreaks in Russia was indignation over the Siberian outrages.

Edward Happy, the son of a prominent Louisville, Ky., merchant, has been lost in the mountains of Wyoming for three weeks, and is believed to have perished in the storm.

The man who was arrested as McDuff, the supposed murderer of Holton in Tilbury, was taken to Harrow, where he lived a number of years, for identification. No one recognized him as McDuff.
