Toronto Markets.

April 6.— Cable quotations showed red winter 1 1/2 white wheat and corn a halfpenny, and peas a penny lower to-day, with cargoes declining and flour weak. In the States the change was small, but the feeling seemed steady. The local market remained dull all over.

FLOUR—Inactive and nominally unchanged. WHEAT—There seemed to be little change in values, but the movement was very small; that of Ontario growth was apparently confined to the sale of a few cars of white and red, lying westward, at 84c, but this price we should think likely to have been repeated. Spring dull, with sellers at 85c on the Midland, but no sale reported.

OATS—No movement on the spot reported, but mixed on track probably worth 31c; white lying westward sold at 29c.

BARLEY—Inactive and offering slowly; we understand that extra No. 3 has been wanted for export, but at prices below those last quoted and not suiting holders.

PEAS—Inactive, and in view of the further fall in cable quotations, may be called unsettled. Some sales have been quoted at 60c late last week, and this we believe has been paid, but we understand also that it was for cars to complete shipping lots.

BUCKWHEAT—Quiet, but steady, and would have found buyers at about 50c for lots lying eastward.

BUTTER—Quiet, with choice scarce and steady at 19 to 20c for selected tubs, and 17 to 18c for really good to choice rolls; but average tubs sufficient and quiet.

EGGS—Offered sparingly, and the few fresh cases obtainable generally sold at 12 1/2c, with dealers bidding 11 1/2c, for trade lots.

—We intend publishing the opening chapters of an intensely interesting story in our issue of the 14th of April next. The story is one of the best that has been published in this district, and is well worth the entire amount of the subscription to THE WATCHMAN. Now is the time to subscribe.

Paget v Sadler.

—This action was brought by George Paget, of Huntsville, against Sadler, Dundas & Co., for the recovery of $30,000, commission and damages alleged to be due to the plaintiff upon the sale of timber berths 75 and 83 on the North shore of the Georgian Bay. The action was tried at Osgoode hall, Toronto, before Mr. Justice Ferguson on the 16th, 17th and 18th days of February last and judgment was reserved. After the trial, a particular account of the case appeared in this paper. Judgment was delivered on the 31st March. The learned judge, after giving a lengthy examination of the facts, held that it could not be said that the plaintiff procured the purchaser for the defendants; that the plaintiffs conduct is inexplicable upon the assumption that he acted as an agent; that the plaintiff was not acting as an agent at all but rather as a speculator on his own account, and his efforts apparently were rather to keep Sadler, Dundas & Co., and C. K. Eddy & Son apart than to bring them together, and that the defendants acted honestly in the dealings with C. K. Eddy & Son, and with the plaintiff. The action is therefore dismissed with costs to be paid by the plaintiff to the defendants forthwith. Lount, Hewson & Creswicks, of Barrie, for plaintiff; McIntyre & Stewart for defendants.

Dr. Carmen's Lecture.

Rev. Dr. Carman, the venerable superintendent of the Methodist church, preached two eminently interesting and edifying sermons last Sabbath in the Queen street Methodist church. The congregations were large morning and evening; hundreds could not get inside the church. On Monday evening the rev. gentleman gave a profitable lecture on "Trade and get Rich." The doctor was in good form and handled his subject from the stand-point of political economy. It was logical, instructive and so spiced with the Doctor's native wit that the audience were not only kept in good humor for two hours, but frequently convulsed with roars of laughter. Even His Honor Judge Dean, who acted as chairman, joined in the general manifestations of approval at the sudden scintillations of wit and humor from his old schoolmate. It was argued that it was intended that man should trade and barter, the disposition is an inherent principle in his nature. He is the only animal that drives trade. But every man should trade honestly and give a "quid pro quo." The air and sea, the land and forest are full of wealth placed there by the Creator, and it is the privilege of every man, by labor and intelligent action to make himself rich from the treasures stored up there. The mechanic, the laborer and farmer, gave the equivalent for what they received. The preacher, the teacher and doctor gave an equivalent in developing the mind, improving the morals, and prolonging human life. The idler and loafer had no claim to existence. The liquor traffic gave no equivalent for what it received, but the reverse, and it has no legitimate claim to a place among the trades. Every legitimate trade should do some good and benefit the community. The doctor let in a ray of light on his political views, and gave no quarters to those persons who would sell themselves or their votes to either party for money. A woman had as good a right to sell her virtue for money as a man had to sell his vote. The boodling and corruption among politicians met with a scorching rebuke. Money is not necessarily wealth. The banks may fail, and a roll of bills be no more than a piece of dirty paper. The better inheritance of a young man is education and good habits, than wealth without them. We should all strive for a wealth of intellect, of morals and spiritual worth. Coffee and cake were served before and after the lecture, and a bazaar held in connection with the service.
