SUNDAY READING. ALCOHOL'S ALPHABET.

Dr. Cyrus Edson contributed a paper to the September number of the North American Review on the question, "Is Drunkenness Curable?"

- A is for alcohol, death-like its grip; B for beginner, who takes just a sip; C for companion, who urges him on; D for the demon of drink that is born; E for endeavor he makes to resist; F stands for friends who so loudly insist; G for the guilt that he afterwards feels; H for the horrors that hung at his heels; I his intention to drink not at all; J stands for jeering, that follows his fall; K for his knowledge that he is a slave; L for the liquors his appetite craves; M for convivial meetings so gay; N stands for no that he tries hard to say; O for the orgies that come to pass; P for the pride that he drowns in his glass; Q for the quarrels that nightly abound; R stands for ruin that hovers around; S stands for sights that his vision bedim; T stands for trembling that seizes his limbs; U for his usefulness sunk in the slums; V for vagrant he quickly becomes; W for wanting of life that's soon done; X for his exit regretted by none; YOUTH of his nation, such weakness is crime; Zealously turn from the tempter in time.

LEADERSHIP.

Everything depends on leadership. Napoleon well understood this when he said he would rather have an army of asses with a lion for a leader, than an army of lions with an ass for a leader.

- Get a good leader than obey the following: Study him and his methods. Be absolutely loyal to both. Have faith in him and wait. Don't wait for his word, but watch for his glance and obey. Study what you can do for him, and then do it. This would revolutionize half the churches in the land.

What I Should Like To Be.

While on the cars, with a thousand miles between me and home, surrounded with passengers of every caste—statesmen, lawyers, salesmen, women and children, I asked myself, "What should I like to be?" First, I should like to be a man, every inch of me, inside and out; a real, true man. Then I should like to be a good man, that is, a genuine christian man, with never an act or word or thought inconsistent with christian character.

Too Busy. The people who seldom miss a church fair or social, when put to a pinch, are strong supporters of sound doctrine, and can talk religion right smart in argument, in fact don't hesitate to say they belong to Dr. So and So's church.

Christ and Heathen Philosophers. The heathen philosophers gave directions. Christ gave life. Aristotle expounded diametrical conjunction. Christ said, "As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them."

Don't walk up a long aisle with squeaking shoes when the preacher is preaching or a solo being sung. Don't let a door squeak night after night for the want of your putting a little oil on the hinge.

Don't give a woman with a small babe, apt to cry, a middle-aisle front seat. Don't rattle a collection together and count it in the service. Don't take collections. Ask the people to make offerings. Let it be part of the worship.

Don't leave your brains home when you go to church; take them with you for use. Don't accommodate one and disturb a thousand thereby.

Get your problem of ventilation fixed, and fixed right before preaching. Don't wait for some one else to do what is needed. You do it, and without noise. Mr. Always-to-be-Depended-Upon.

Living for Long Service. Not happiness, but service, is a worthy object of human endeavor. Not what will give us delight, but what will advantage others, ought to be the aim of our strivings.

NO USE FOR INFERIORS. Dr. McEachran Talks About the European Market for Horses.

In reference to the hints thrown out by Prof. D. McEachran at the farmers' meeting on Monday as to the demand for good horses in England and the prospects of further extending our markets to European countries, a reporter called on the doctor and learned from him that from information acquired on the spot and subsequent correspondence, there is an almost unlimited demand for horses in Great Britain. Liverpool and Manchester alone would take 6,000 to 8,000 a year, and London 10,000, not to mention Glasgow, Edinburgh and other cities.

It should be clearly understood that any thing in the shape of a horse will not sell in England, but almost any really good, well selected, sound and good-actioned horse will pay well, owing to present depressed prices in this country.

The Government Prosecuting. OTTAWA, April 10.—Those critics of the Government who have been finding fault because more vigorous action was not taken in prosecution of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., in connection with the Esquimaux Graving dock and other contracts, and those Grit editors and orators who have been writing and speaking that the prosecutions against Mr. McGreevy, the Connollys and others would be abandoned, will find their prognostications rather deranged by the fact that suit has been entered in the Exchequer Court of Canada against Patrick Larkin, Nicholas K. Connolly, Michael Connolly, Owen E. Murphy and Robert McGreevy for the recovery of $570,064.51 for moneys improperly obtained in connection with contracts. There are eight distinct charges. An answer to the suit is required to be filed in the Exchequer court within two months from date of service.

A Mysterious Death.

SEAFORTH, Ont., April 8.—The hostler at the Queen's hotel found on entering the barn yesterday morning the body of a man lying dead upon the floor with marks of blood on the face and on the floor. Several recognized the body as that of a man who had been seen about town the previous day. He gave his name as Hoggbin, and said he was a carpenter. An inquest was held last evening and, from the medical evidence given as the result of a careful post mortem examination, the following verdict was rendered at an early hour this morning:—That the deceased came to his death from concussion of the brain caused by violent contact with a hard, smooth, slightly rounded surface; but whether such injury was inflicted by a weapon in the hands of some person or by a fall, the jury cannot decide from the evidence so far obtained. The post mortem examination revealed a severe fracture of the skull, with an indentation as if made by some small weapon. There were several fractured ribs and a dislocation of the spinal column.

THE MARCH OF IMPROVEMENT.

Art in the household and beauty in the ordinary surroundings in life was the gospel propounded by the late Professor Ruskin and other elevators of the human mind, and to realize what progress has been made in this direction it is well worth while paying a visit to the magnificent show rooms of the old established furniture house of Messrs.

OWEN MCGARVEY & Son. 1849-1853 Notre Dame Street. MONTREAL.

A walk through those spacious show rooms is a revelation; in fact they really amount in themselves to a Montreal Industrial exhibition in their line. Such must necessarily be the reflections of anyone who pays a visit to this firm's prominent establishment and makes a tour of inspection through their attractive warehouses.

Everything in the furniture line is to be found there, from a twenty-five cent chair to a fifteen hundred dollar bedroom set, and prices to suit everyone. No one need despair; the millionaire can furnish his house from top to bottom with the finest and most costly, and his junior clerk can fill his little tenement with useful and pretty articles at prices to suit his more limited means.

On entering the well-known and extensive warehouses on Notre Dame street, the visitor is struck by the excellent display of Sideboards, Dining Tables, Hall Stands, Bookcases, Wardrobes, Library Tables, Writing Desks, and Easy and Combination Chairs of all descriptions.

meets the eye, such as 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 piece parlor suites. Odd piece suites, gilt chairs, corner chairs, ottomans, divans, tete-a-tetes, piano and foot-stools in plushes, brocades and silk damasks of all the newest and latest shades; also a full line of fancy centre, card and work-tables, statuette-stands, ladies writing desks, music stands and easels.

On the third floor a fine selection of Rocking, Easy and Reclining Chairs claims particular attention. The celebrated bent wood furniture imported from Vienna, Austria, and of which the Messrs. McGarvey make a specialty, also occupies a prominent position on this floor.

On the fourth floor bedroom sets in profusion are to be found from the cheap ash wood to the elegantly carved set valued at fifteen hundred dollars. Brass and iron furniture, of which they have just received a very large consignment from Birmingham, England, is an especially noticeable feature; handsome solid brass bedsteads and pretty cots for children from $30 up to $125—these are of the newest designs; neat iron bedsteads as low as $5, and rising to much higher figures, can also be found here. A great advantage in this house is that the price of every piece of furniture and article is marked in plain figures, but owing to the widening of Notre Dame street west, which will necessitate their removal next spring, they are now offering special inducements in the way of Discounts off the marked prices. The entire establishment is a model one, neatness and order prevailing everywhere; all available space is taken up to accommodate the enormous stock which they carry, and from which purchasers can select at their liberty. Their new passenger elevator will be found not only a great convenience, but also a luxury in its way to carry their customers to any of their six sets of show rooms.

The firmly established reputation of this well-known house is a sufficient guarantee that outside show is only the last thing aimed at, and that stability and good value for money are to be found in the old established firm of Messrs.

Owen McGarvey & Son. 1849 and 1853 Notre Dame Street, corner of McGill street.
