It is not beauty alone, "Beauty hath charms," but price from a commercial standpoint has greater ones. Our prices stand on the pedestal of their own individuality and shout defiance in the face of competition. It is said "Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn at no other." Simply because people do not yet trade with us is no excuse for branding them foolish. Many people don't know (even yet) that we sell Millinery, and those who do scarcely realize the values we offer. It has been said and affirmed by many customers, that our prices are "mere remnants to those of some." Empty exaggeration is not our method in advertising.
