The Building of Homes

THERE IS no other requirement for a family so important as a good home, and every family should have one.

We ought to have a movement among the mechanics, wage-earners and citizens generally to build and own their own homes.

The Victoria Loan and Savings Company offer a mode of payment for homes in monthly instalments by which a man can own his home by paying no more than rent.

stance: six dollars a month will pay a $500 loan principal and interest in nine and one half years.

Thus in order to own a house a man needs a very little start and his rent does the rest.

The company is making a strong effort to assist in the building up of Lindsay in the same manner as Sarnia, Chatham, Guelph, Stratford and Brantford have been so greatly assisted in their development by similar institutions.

Private parties are unwilling to advance money except on straight loans and they will usually advance only about one half of the cost while the Company will advance 75 per cent of the cost to a good man on the monthly system, and a monthly-payment loan is nearly always paid, while a straight loan is merely a mode of procrastination and postponement of payment.

The difference between a man who makes a competence and a man whose old age is spent in penury, is not in the amount of work that is done or the amount of money that is made, but rather in the amount of common sense that is applied to the expenditure of the earnings.

Let one mechanic build a home and pay for it by monthly payments and in seven years he will own it. He will then pay his rent into the bank and in a few years he will have capital enough to build a shop or start a business on his own account, and may become a large manufacturer.

Another earning similar wages will go on paying rent and never be a dollar better off and in his old age have nothing to show for his lifetime's labor.

Mr. Evans reports his handsome Clydesdale Prince Edward to be in great form. He is greater than ever, and will tip the beam at least a hundred better than last season.

HYMENEAL

RICH-DUNN

The residence of Mrs. Dunn of Little Britain was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, April 12th, when her daughter, Emma, was married to Mr. John Rich of Mariposa Station.

KLAHN-AUSTIN

The residence of Mr. John Austin was on Wednesday, the 12th inst., the scene of one of the prettiest drawing-room weddings ever witnessed in Fenelon Falls.

Mr. James Goslin has just returned from a visit to Quebec province, where he purchased the handsome Canadian French stallion Castor No. 65.

EQUINE JOTTINGS

—Mr. Geo. W. Curtis has demonstrated his faith in the grey gelding Newsboy by entering him in the 2.50 stake at the Perth meeting in August.

—Mr. Wm. Thorndike of Oakwood informs us that he has purchased the high-class standard bred three year old colt Haltoneer 29419, by Altoneer 17493.

—The old time favorite Starlight, now the property of Mr. John Aldous of Fenelon Falls, comes forth in renewed form after a winter's run in a large and roomy box Stallright never looked better, and the increasing reputation of his progeny is making him sought after by intending breeders.

—The popular veterinary, Dr. Broad, is busy these days trimming and fitting his great pair of Clydesdales, Granite Lad and Knight of St. Andrew's.

—The Fenelon pacer, Little Hector, 2.12 1/2, by Lapidist Chief, has fully recovered from the ill-effects of his painful accident received at the winter races.

—Mr. W. H. Simpson reports his two great sires, Sando and Manager, in great fettle. They have wintered well and are now rounding to in great form.

—The Fenelon Falls Horse Company is the title of a company formed to advance the equine interests of Victoria county by the introduction of high-class sires.

—Mr. Tolbert Evans of Yelverton returned home from Carmon, Man., last week, where he sold the old time favorite Clydesdale sire Crachmore Darnley together with another promising Clydesdale to the Carmon Horse Company.

—It would be hard to find in Lindsay a more conservative admirer of the harness horse than our good friend Mr. John Mallett of Wellington-st.

—Among the new sires to be placed within reach of Victoria county farmers this season is a magnificent son of General Stanton, known as Earl Stanton.

—Mr. James Goslin has just returned from a visit to Quebec province, where he purchased the handsome Canadian French stallion Castor No. 65.
