terations or improvements are necessary, there should be vested in some such body power and authority, and who should also be zealously disposed to use that power to carry these measures into effect. I respectfully submit that this is the essence of this question of better roads. The reduction of the size of County councils is, no doubt, a great improvement, but of other parts of the act I could not give an opinion, not having seen it, but I hope it contains a clause constituting the council a court of appeal for all cases where a grievance exists, or injustice is suffered or inflicted at the hands of the authorities of a township, where jealousies, antipathies and prejudices are so apt to prevail and abound.

When the president of a great road like the Grand Trunk Railway travels he does it in style. Sir Charles Rivers Wilson and party have a special train of four cars, including a baggage car. Sir Charles' own private car is a magnificent one. It is seventy-five feet long, painted on the outside a very dark green, called invisible green, the new color of the Grand Trunk, with a gold relief. The name of the car, "Violet," is in gold letters on the side, the letters having a violet relief. The car is named after the wife of Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, inside the car is a veritable palace on wheels. The parlor, which one first enters, is done in reddish mahogany hand carved. The furniture is of the same, upholstered in velvet. Lady Rivers Wilson's bedroom is also in mahogany, with satin brocade salmon colored curtains and hangings, and rich upholstery of the same material. Hand carved red cherry comprises the sleeping department of Sir Charles, and a bedroom is fitted up in the same manner. All the bedrooms have all the toilet conveniences and handsome curtains to match the wood. The dining room in the centre of the car is done in oak, with substantial oak furniture. A handsome sideboard contains a service of sterling silver. There is also a sleeping room for the cook and waiter and a well-appointed kitchen. All the apartments are laid with Wilton carpets and hangings to match. The car is heated with steam, and lighted with both gas and electric light. When travelling Sir Charles Rivers Wilson and Lady Wilson take meals on the "Violet," and there is a steward, M. Richot, a cook and a waiter to look after the department. General Manager Hays also has his own private car, the Mansfield, a Central Vermont car. Mr. Hays occupies this car himself. The other officials have another car, the old "118," which has been in use the past twenty-five years, the private car of Sir Joseph Hickson, Mr. L. J. Seargent and lastly of General Manager Hays himself. Local and General. —Mr. F. H. Newton, of Toronto, formerly proprietor of the Lindsay Warder, while defending his property at his residence on Park road early on Sunday morning from a burglar, was shot through the foot by the intruder. The scoundrel had gained an entrance into the cellar and Mr. Newton, aiming himself with a base ball bat, proceeded to drive the thief out. The burglar pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired, the ball entering the foot, going almost through. The scoundrel then made his escape. The bullet was extracted and unless blood-poisoning sets in Mr. Newton will soon be around again. —Canada has reason to congratulate herself that if she is not in the banar a bolt, she is not in the route of the deadly cyclone. The awful story of devastation and death which comes from St. Louis, Mo., is but a repetition on a large scale of similar terrible experiences in various parts of the United States. Many times every year we hear of whole districts being swept by wind and sections of cities and towns being destroyed. It is comforting to think that we can better afford to be ice-bound and snowed up occasionally than to run risks in a milder climate of being blown away or buried in the wreckage of a city. DRAIN TILE. I have now a complete stock of Drain Tile in the following sizes: 2 1/2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 8 inches. Write me if you want car-load lots. BRICK Both Red and White, ready to go out now. FLOORING TILE Made specially for cellar floors. This is something new in this section. It makes a clean, hard and durable flooring, and only needs to be seen to be appreciated. S. J.
