SUNDAY READING.

O LORD, THINE EYE IS OVER ALL.

Lord, thou dost tend with loving care The lilies in the field; The birds within the forests share The joy thy presence yields;

The clouds which float the mountains o'er, And winds which sweep the plain, Thou bid'st them go, they own thy pow'r And come—they come again.

As oak upon the mountain side The lightning rends in twain, As leaflets scatter far and wide Before the hurricane,

A Thief's Strange Conversion.

"Many years ago," says a writer in the Golden Censer, "a minister who had been preaching in a village was returning home, when he was stopped by a highwayman, who presented a pistol and demanded his money."

Confessing Our Mistakes.

It is difficult to account for the almost universal dislike manifested to acknowledge mistakes. In a general way, every one knows that he makes them, and freely admits the fact.

A Novel Funeral

A Los Angeles, California, despatch describes the singular ceremonies which were there on April 29, at the obsequies of a Buddhist. The deceased man was one of the high officers among the Theosophists whose doctrines are those of Buddhism.

parted what was done with his body. The momentous question for him at that time was as to how he stood before God: whether as the godly who, when 'the house of this tabernacle is dissolved, have a building of God eternal in the heavens.'

A Magnetic Bowlder.

An interesting natural curiosity was discovered a few days ago in Missouri. A correspondent of the New York Herald at Ironton, Mo., reports that while hunting with a party of friends on the mountains about five miles away from that city, they sat down under the shadow of a large bowlder to eat lunch.

THE HOMESTEAD FIGHT.

DETAILS OF THE TERRIBLE BATTLE

Eleven Strikers and Nine Pinkerton Men Meet Death—Many Injured Some Fataally—The Detectives Surrender.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 7.—The riot yesterday was the culmination of the troubles which have been brewing at Homestead for the past month. Yesterday the Carnegie Company announced their intention to proceed to get ready to make repairs and the officials asked the sheriff to appoint deputies to protect their property.

HAD BEEN PREPARED FOR THEM.

The barges were of the best build and were used in shipping iron rails down the river from the Carnegie mill at Braddock. The holds were filled up with bunk, cook arrangements and other accommodations, and as an extra precaution, as if in preparation for the siege to which they were subjected yesterday, were lined with heavy steel plates on the inside, while the whole back deck was protected in a similar manner.

DRIVEN BACK TO THE SHORE.

by the steady fire from the shore. The noise of the battle spread about the borough like wildfire, and thousands of men, women and children thronged to the river bank to witness the fight in progress.

whom were striken down by the bullets, some of them being fatally injured and others killed outright. As the battle progressed, the strikers took up a position behind breastworks hastily constructed of steel rails and billets, and from this place of safe refuge were able to pick off the detectives as soon as they appeared on the decks of the boats.

THOUSANDS OF MILL-WORKERS,

all of whom are now idle pending the conference on the scale, congregated in the streets, while hundreds of others, armed with guns and revolvers and well supplied with ammunition, took up the tide of march to reinforce the strikers. As soon as day broke the strikers secured a small brass ten-pound cannon, and planted it within a steel billet embrasure so as to command the barges which were moored at the bank of the river.

BEING BURNED ALIVE.

Hose was procured and oil was spotted on the decks and sides of the barges. While this was being done barrel after barrel of oil was emptied into the river above the mooring place, the object being to allow it to float against the barges and then ignite it. This terrible deed was attempted several times, but the boats did not burn, and then the mob became infuriated and hurled dynamite bombs at the vessels with great effect.

THE DETECTIVES TO SURRENDER, but this was not secured without the greatest objection on the part of the men, many of whom have lost friends and acquaintances during the day. Besides, as in all outbreaks, there are thousands of turbulent characters attracted to the place, and as they owned no allegiance to any organization, they could not be controlled.

BESMEARED WITH BLOOD

while all of them showed signs of exhaustion from the long confinement in the close quarters between decks. The most shocking and dastardly deeds, however, were committed while the prisoners were being escorted through the streets with the escort of guards appointed by the strikers. An angry mob lined the streets on both sides. As the men passed by, each in charge of two deputies, the mill men and their friends kicked them and threw some of them down.

too weak to walk when they were started for the Town hall. The mill men used the stocks of their rifles and struck the detectives over the heads and shoulders, inflicting serious and in some cases, perhaps, fatal injuries. As the procession reached the Amalgamated association building, the detectives had to remove their hats and salute them. When they removed their hats men and women hit them with umbrellas and sticks and abused them in every way imaginable.

TO KILL THE PRISONERS

and it was with the greatest difficulty that the demon-like crowd could be restrained. The men were finally lodged in the Opera House, where they are kept for the night. After the prisoners had been removed from the barges the rioters had their revenge. They carried oil into the holds, and poured it over the bedding and furniture and then set it on fire, first securing the barges so that they could not float down the river and cause damage to parts below.

NEWSPAPER LAW.

The following condensation is based upon decisions rendered at various times by Division Court Judges:—

- 1. Subscribers who do not give definite notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers order a paper to be discontinued, the publisher may continue to send it until all arrears of subscriptions are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect to take periodicals from the post office, they are likewise responsible till all arrears for subscriptions are settled.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the old address, they are held liable.
5. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the post office, or removing to another town and leaving them un-called for, prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of their time if they do not wish to continue taking the paper, otherwise the publisher may send until such time as a definite order to discontinue, accompanied by payment of all arrears, is sent him.
7. The man who allows his subscription to run for some time unpaid and then orders the paper discontinued or asks the post-master to mark it "Refused" leaves himself liable to punishment.

THE MARCH OF IMPROVEMENT.

Art in the household and beauty in the ordinary surroundings of life was the gospel propounded by the late Professor Ruskin and elevators of the human mind, and to realize what progress has been made in this direction it is well worth while paying a visit to the magnificent show rooms of the old established furniture house of Messrs.

OWEN McGARVEY & Son

1849-1853 Notre Dame Street

MONTREAL.

A walk through those spacious show rooms is a revelation; in fact they really amount in themselves to a Montreal Industrial exhibition of their line. Such must necessarily be the reflections of anyone who pays a visit to this firm's prominent establishment and makes a tour of inspection through their attractive warehouses.

Everything in the furniture line is to be found there, from a five cent chair to a fifteen hundred dollar bedroom set, and priced suit every one.

No one need despair; the millionaire can furnish his house top to bottom with the finest and most costly, and his junior clerk fill his little tenement with useful and pretty articles at prices to his more limited means.

On entering the well-known and extensive warehouses on Notre Dame street, the visitor is struck by the excellent display of

Sideboards, Dining Tables, Hall Stands, Bookcases, Wardrobes

Library Tables, Writing Desks, and Easy and Combination Chairs, all descriptions.

On reaching the second floor a beautiful assortment of meets the eye, such as 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 piece parlor suites. Odd gaiters, gilt chairs, corner chairs, ottomans, divans, tete-a-tetes, pianos, foot-stools in pushes, brocatelles and silk damasks of all the latest shades; also a full line of fancy centre, card and work-table statuettes-stands, ladies writing desks, music stands and easels.

On the third floor a fine selection of Rocking, Easy and Reclining Chairs claims particular attention. The celebrated bent wood furniture imported from Vienna, Austria, and of which the Messrs. McGarvey make a specialty, also occupies a prominent position on this floor.

On the fourth floor bedroom sets in profusion are to be found in the cheap ash wood to the elegantly carved set valued at fifteen hundred dollars. Brass and iron furniture, of which they have just received a very large consignment from Birmingham, England, is an especially noticeable feature; handsome solid brass bedsteads and pretty for children from $30 up to $125—there they are of the newest design, neat iron bedsteads as low as $5, and rising to much higher figures also be found here. A great advantage in this house is that the price of every piece of furniture and article is marked in plain figures, owing to the widening of Notre Dame street west, which will necessitate their removal next spring, they are now offering special inducements in the way of Discounts off the marked prices. The entire establishment is a model one, neatness and order prevailing everywhere. All available space is taken up to accommodate the enormous stock which they carry, and from which purchasers can select at their leisure. Their new passenger elevator will be found not only a great convenience but also a luxury in its way to carry their customers to any of their flats of show rooms.

The firmly established reputation of this well-known house is a sufficient guarantee that outside show is only the last thing aimed at, and that stability and good value for money are to be found in the established firm of Messrs.
