Now, for what have I said all this? Just to prepare you for the text,"Arise ye, and depart; for this is not your rest." I am going to make you a grand offer. and this world would be a Some of you remember that when gold was discovered in California, large companies were made up and started off to get rich. Today, I want to make up a party for the Land of Gold. I hold in my hand a deed from the Proprietor of the estate, in which He offers to all who will join the company 10,000 shares of infinite value, in a city whose streets are gold, whose harps are gold, whose crowns are gold. You have read of the Crusaders-how that many thousands of them went off to conquer the Holy Sepulchre. I ask you to join a grander crusadenot for the purpose of conquering the sepulchre of a dead Christ, but for the purpose of reaching the throne of a living Jesus. When an army is to be made up, the recruiting officer examines the volunteers; he tests their eyesight; he sounds their lungs; he measures their stature, they must be just right, or they are rejected. But there shall be no partiality in making up the army of Christ. Whatever your mortal or physical stature, whatever your dissipations, whatever your crimes, whatever your weakness. I have a commission from the Lord Almighty to make up this regiment of redeemed souls, and I cry, "Arise ye, and depart ; for this is not your rest." Many of you have lately joined this company, and my desire is that you may all join lit. Why not? You know in your own hearts' experience that what I have said about this world is true-that it is no place to rest in. There are hundreds here weary-oh, how weary-weary with sin; weary with trouble; weary with bereavement. Some of you have been pierced through and through. You carry the scars of a thousand conflicts, in which you have bled at every pore; and you sigh, "Oh, that I had the wings of a dove, that I might fly away and be at rest!" You have taken the cup of this world's pleasures and drunk it to the dregs, and still the thirst claws at your tongue, and the fever strikes to your brain. You have chased Pleasure through every valley, by every stream, amid every brightness and under every shadow; but just at the moment when you were all ready to put your hand upon the rosy, laughing sylph of the wood, she turned upon you with the glare of a fiend and the eye of a satyr, her locks adders, and her breath the chill damp of a grave. Out of Jesus Christ no rest. Into that rest how many of our loved ones have gone! The little children have been gathered up into the bosom of Christ. One of them went out of the arms of a PAPER widowed mother, following its father who died a few weeks before. In its last moment it seemed to see the departed father, for it said, looking upward with brightened countenance, "Papa, take me

Others put down the work of midlife feeling they could hardly be spared from the office, or store, or shop, for a day, but are to be spareed from it forever. Your mother went. Having lived a life of Christian consistency here, ever busy with kindness for her children,her heart full of that meek and quiet spirit that is in the sight of God a great price, suddenly her countenance was disfigured, and the gate was opened and she took her place amid that great cloud of witnesses that hover about the throne!

Glorious consolation! They are not dead. You cannot make me believe they are dead. They have only moved on. With more love than that with which they greeted us on earth, they watch us from their high places and their voices cheer us in our struggle for the sky. Hail, spirits blessed, now that they have passed the flood and won the crown! With weary feet we press up the shiny way, until in everlasting reunion we shall meet again. Oh! won't it be grand when, our conflicts done and our partings over, we shall clasp hands, and cry out, "This is heaven!"

How a Child Should Sit

In sitting the child must be provided with a comfortable chair, adapted to his size and height, writes Elizabeth Robinson Scovil in a very valuable article on "The Physical Culture of Children" in the September Ladies' Home Journal. He should be made to sit well back in it, and not on the edge when he has to occupy it for any length of time. The back should, if possible, give support to the small of the back as well as to the shoulders. In working at a desk it should be of such a height that he can easily see his work when sitting erect by bending his head, instead of inclining the body at the hip joints. The upright position helps to expand the chest and keep the shoulders in their proper place. Its use soon becomes habitual if it is insist-

Dancing is a valuable accomplishment for children. The consciousness of being able to dance well gives ease and self-possession to many a young man and woman who would otherwise be bashful and awkward. Little people usually delight in the rhythmical motion, and if it is not combined with late hours it does them nothing but

The Sin of Fretting

There is one sin, said Helen Hunt, which it seem sto me is everywhere, and by everyone underestimated and quite too much overlooked in valuation of character-it is the sin of fretting. It is as common as air, as speech-so common that unless it rises above its usual monotone we do not even observe it. Watch any ordinary coming together of people, and see how many minutes it will be before somebody frets, that is, makes more or less complaining statement of something or other, which most probably nobody can help. Why say anything about it? It is rold, it is hot, it is wet, it is dry, somebody has broken an appointment, ill-cooked a meal; stupidity or bad faith has resulted in discomfort. There are plenty of things to fret about. It is simply astonishing how much annoyance and discomfort may be found in the course of every day's living, even at the simplest, if one only keeps a sharp eye on that side of things. Even Holy Writ says we are born to trouble as sparks fly upward. But even to the sparks flying upward, in the blackest of smoke, there is a blue gray above, and the less time they waste on the road the sooner they will reach it. Fretting is all time wasted on the road.-Worthington's Illustrated Maga-

Bread by the Yard.

French bread is divided into two classes -pain ordinaire and pain riche writes Maria Parloa in an article on 'Outede Domestic Aids in Paris" in the September Ladies' Home Journal. The rich bread is made into all sorts of shapes, and usually of small size. All the French bread has a great deal of crust and comparatively little crumb. What is called pain Anglaise is found at nearly all the bakeries. This bread is baked in square loaves, having a great deal of crumb in proportion to the crust. Small, round loaves of rye and of Graham bread can be purchased at nearly all the bakeries. But the bread that is consumed in the greatest quantities is the pain ordinaire. This is baked in long, round loaves, or in long, flat ones. The loaves vary in length from a yard to a yard and a half. The bread is sold by weight and costs about four cents a pound.

Very little paper is used in the bakeries. Men, women and children come in and purchase the common bread, take it in the soiled hands or tuck it under the arm and walk off. The pain riche and small rolls are, however, partially Leave your orders now, so that
