LINDSAY MARKETS

Receipts at the local market are somewhat dull these days, and the downward tendency of cereals do not promise much in the way of improvement. Spring and fall wheat has been gradually going down until the highest quote is 65c per bushel. This wheat is all purchased by test and if the grain falls below 60 lbs per bush, one cent per pound is deducted on each bushel; on the other hand one cent per pound is added for each pound over the 60 lbs. Alsike clover is also running low in price. The increased acreage has resulted in a heavy yield and now the fears of an over production is having a distressing effect upon the market values, and the price has gradually receded from $5.25 to $4.25 for the best. Red clover and timothy has not commenced to move, and consequently there are no prices quoted. Hay stands firm at from $8 to $10 per ton. Produce and poultry are coming in fair supply with fairly active sales at current prices.

Board of Health.

A meeting of the board of health was held Tuesday evening in the council chamber, and by 8.15 the following members were present: Thos. Walters, chairman; and Messrs. H. Walters, Burns, McIntosh, Maunier and Touchburn, and also the medical health officer and the sanitary inspector. The business before the board was light, and the meeting adjourned in three quarters of an hour. A report of analysis of water taken from Mr. J. C. Armstrong's well on lot 9, north of Russell-st., was presented. The analysis was made by Mr. E. Gregory, and showed the water to be in a very dangerous condition. The medical health officer was of opinion that sewerage or drainage from cesspool was getting into the well. The inspector was instructed to notify Mr. Armstrong that he must supply his tenants with good wholesome drinking water, and six days were given him in which to comply with his order. In justice to Mr. Armstrong it is but fair to say that he claims the well was not intended for domestic use, but only for lawn sprinkling purposes. The report of the sanitary inspector showed the town to be in a very healthy condition at present. On motion Capt. Crandell was heard regarding outlet of sewer at the upper wharf, the captain claimed, arising therefrom, the captain claimed, was not only disagreeable but a menace to public health, and a great annoyance to patrons of his steamer. Some three years ago the council had passed a resolution to put in pipe to carry off the sewerage, but this had never been done. Something should be done, and at once. Dep. Reeve Robson had taken objections that this was a dangerous place for a hand stand, hence it must be a dangerous place for patrons of his boat, and it nuisance should be abated at once. It could be remedied easily and cheaply. Chairman Walters agreed with the Captain that these improvements should be made, and the sewerage carried out into centre of river, but as the board had no money the only way in which it could be accomplished would be by money voted by town council. Finally Mr. Mills moved that a deputation from board of health go before the town council at next meeting and ask for necessary funds to make the improvements asked for by Capt. Crandell, and which were in the interest of public health. As there was no other business on hand, the board adjourned.

A Popular Pastor.

On the 8th inst., on the eve of his departure for Lindsay to assume charge of the congregation of St. Andrew's, a large number of the friends of the Rev. J. W. MacMillan, B.A., of Vancouver, B.C., gathered to bid him farewell, and to wish him happiness and success in his new home. The following is taken from the Vancouver World, a copy of which has been handed us, shows the high esteem in which Rev. Mr. MacMillan is held on the Pacific slope, and the great work he accomplished while there. His departure causes our mind to revert to a period, which viewed by a Vancouverite, seems a long time, nearly four years ago, when a stranger arrived in this city. He was young, tall, robust, and energetic, he had almost exhaustless store of anecdotes through which his witticisms sparkled, he was benevolent, charitable, and full of faith, a man of strong convictions, an earnest Christian, spoke with impressive eloquence, and was withal pleasantly and congenial to all. He went to Mount Pleasant. A feeble mission was struggling in embryonic infancy and those who were watching it feared its existence would soon cease. The stranger imbued with a rapidity marvellous even to a Vancouverite, Mount Pleasant Presbyterian mission became a self-supporting church. This place of worship was erected. An ad-building was soon inadequate. This A debt with a membership roll of nearly 200, a Sunday school second to none in Vancouver, an enthusiastic prayer meeting, and six or more societies working in conjunction with the church. It is not needful to name that stranger. His more than ordinary ability, his companionable disposition, and his many character have made him friends wherever he went. Whether hunting in the interior, climbing the peaks of the coast range, or breaking records by throwing the shoulder weight in Alberni, whether delivering a lecture for some order, or preaching in a neighboring pulpit, he was admired and respected, while at home in his own church on Mount Pleasant he was loved. This was shown by the crowds who flocked to hear him preach, by the whole heartedness with which all his congregation worked with him during these four years harmoniously by their private conversations, and by their earnest pleadings before the presbytery to persuade him to remain when the question of his call to Lindsay was discussed. It is not to be wondered that Mr. MacMillan hesitated, hoping to see it his duty to remain with friends to whom he admired the character that could say he would because it was his duty, despite the fact that he was leaving friends for critical strangers, and loving looks for critical stares. We wish him the success he deserves and, though Vancouver loses for a time whom one she's proud to have benefited by, she hopes that he may some day return in the by no means distant future and remain. Success and happiness to him in the meantime and forever!
