Editorial Notes.

THE sad and tragic death of a young man at Orillia a few days ago, an account of which will be found in our news columns, should stir up the authorities in the various towns and villages throughout the land to look sharply after gambling practices and resorts of all sorts. These evils are not confined by any means to the large cities, but unfortunately exist to a considerable extent in the smaller towns and villages, where owing to the lack of healthful amusements they effect more harm in proportion to the population than in the larger places. The matter is one that should be looked closely after by the authorities, and promptly dealt with.

THE industrial development of the city of Toronto during the past ten years will bear comparison with the progress made by those cities in the South of late years, about which so much has been said. In Nashville, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga., two of the most prosperous cities in the Southern states in the last ten years, the increase in population has been seventy-five per cent., whilst the population within the territory now included in the city of Toronto has increased over eighty-eight per cent. in the same period. As a manufacturing centre Toronto has surpassed the record of the two cities named, one-seventh of the population being factory operatives, as against one-ninth in the case of Atlanta, and one-eleventh in that of Nashville.

THE idea that some form of tariff arrangement within the Empire for the benefit of all parts is becoming a necessity, is gaining ground in England. The British artisan is being brought face to face with the fact that all the world is building an insurmountable tariff wall against English produce. The tin-plate workers of South Wales, the linen operatives of Belfast, the artisans of Saltaire, and the thousands at Sheffield and other industrial centres are having their bread taken away or threatened by McKinleyism. The choice is made to appear between their losing their bread altogether, or adopting some measure by which their vast colonial markets may be preserved. Lord Masham, who believes with Sir Charles Tupper that the United Kingdom could be supplied with food products from within the Empire under a system of inter-imperial trade, in an article in the Forum says:—

"The resources of the British Empire are sufficient, if prudently developed, to supply the food requirements of the Mother Country, and at the same time to replace the lost or diminishing markets for her manufacturing exports. The British trader has his weapon of retaliation in his hands to oppose to a policy, through which a great manufacturing concern like Saltaire is crushed and thousands of men in the Welsh tin-plate industry are dismissed. And though the day has not come when the young populations of the outlying parts of the British Empire can afford to make inter-imperial trade one of absolute free exchange, the principal British possessions have already spoken out and declared that, if the Mother Country grants her own Empire a preferential market at home, they would in their turn create a preferential tariff for British goods."

THE court of Manitoba decided in a recent election case that in the matter of the election deposit Canadian bank notes are not "current money of Canada." The election law requires the deposit of a candidate to be made "in current money of Canada," and the decision of the Manitoba judges has been severely criticized, as the notes issued by our banks have been created a currency by act of parliament. It is pointed out that had the wording of the election law been that deposits must be made "in money," or in "lawful money" there would be an opening for the courts to declare Dominion notes alone to be legal tender; and that the Government itself acknowledges bank notes to be "current money" by receiving them in millions every year in their offices, in payment of custom duties, Inland Revenue imposts, and other sources of revenue. The fact, however, that the decision of the courts has been given on the question sets the matter at rest, as the candidates in the future can simply govern themselves accordingly by making their deposits in what is beyond question "current money of Canada."

THE extent to which money is used in elections across the line may be judged from the fact that half-a-dozen iron and steel manufacturers of the city of Pittsburgh, have contributed amongst them over quarter of a million dollars to the Republican fund, which is said to be the largest election fund ever subscribed. The Carnegie works alone, subscribed a hundred thousand dollars, and another large manufactory the same amount. If the contributions of one city be so much, what must be the size of the whole fund contributed by all the manufacturers of all the great cities and towns and others throughout the whole republic. It is announced that Matthew Quay, the world renowned briber and corruptionist, who was exposed in Pennsylvania in the last campaign, has arrived in New York to take charge of the Republican forces in that doubtful state. This would appear to indicate that matters are getting too serious for the Republicans for them to ignore Quay and his workers, as it was the intention at the outset of the contest to keep the convicted corruptionists of the last campaign out of sight on this occasion.

Death in the Penitentiary.

L. H. Mineau, a convict in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, died suddenly in his cell on Tuesday night. Mineau was at one time mayor of Louisville, secretary of the Fabrique, warden of Maskinonge County, and agent of the Ville Marie Bank. He was also one of the best known business men of the Three Rivers district. In 1890, when in financial difficulties, he committed forgeries to the extent of $18,000, and fled to the United States. He was brought back to Montreal two years in the penitentiary. This sentence would have expired on March 18, 1893. It is, however, stated that he was to have been released by an order of the Minister of Justice at Christmas.

Up to the time of his death Mineau was apparently in the best of health, but was taken suddenly ill a few minutes after eating his dinner, and expired in half an hour. Coroner Jones held an inquest at the penitentiary yesterday, and a verdict of "Death from heart disease" was rendered. The deceased was 54 years of age.

Wanted to Marry a Priest.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 27.—Dressed in cream-colored satin, wearing a long white bridal veil, and carrying a beautiful bouquet, Miss Anna Griffin appeared at St. Joseph's Church yesterday, at which the Rev. Father Gaviski officiated, and announced that she had come in obedience to divine command to be united in marriage to the reverend father. She had notified some of her friends that she was to be married and asked them to be present, and quite a number of ladies and gentlemen were present, but had not been informed who the bridegroom was. Her announcement created a sensation in the company, part of which had assembled for a funeral, and father Gaviski was so dumfounded he could scarcely utter a word. It soon became apparent that Miss Griffin was deranged, and a telephone message brought an officer quickly to the scene. When he arrived the young lady readily agreed to accompany him, saying that the holy spirit placed her in charge of father Gaviski four years ago and granted him a special dispensation to marry her and that if he chose to disobey the command the sin was his, not hers.

LAI'D TO REST.

Simple Were the Services at the Funeral of the President's Wife.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., October 28.—President Harrison and the grief stricken members of his personal and official family arrived here this morning for the sad purpose of placing the remains of Mrs. Harrison to eternal rest in the place she lovingly called her home. They were greeted by thousands of sympathetic friends and admirers. It was a quiet throng and manifested its appreciation of the sadness of the occasion by a grave and respectful demeanor.

The church was a thing of beauty in its sombre and graceful decoration. When the procession arrived at the church 5,000 people thronged the sidewalks and pushed into the streets, not boisterously but with the utmost interest. The church services were characterized by great sympathy. Rev. M. L. Haines preached the sermon on the text, "Wherefore comfort one another."

At the conclusion of the sermon the Venerable Dr. Hyde gave utterance to an earnest prayer for the bereaved family and the sorrowing nation. The services came to an end with the singing of the hymn, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and the benediction. The procession then reformed, proceeded to Crown Hill cemetery, where the interment took place. The cemetery was not reached until half-past one o'clock. Here a crowd of 5,000 people had assembled to witness the close of the ceremonies, which here as elsewhere were characterized by the utmost simplicity. The services were exceedingly brief. Dr. Hyde read the funeral service of the Presbyterian church, Dr. Haines offered prayer and Dr. Hyde pronounced benediction.

The special train bearing the Presidential party left here at 5.30 o'clock on its return to Washington. A large crowd assembled at the station to pay a parting tribute to the President, but made no demonstration. Just before his departure the President gave the press a note to the public of which the following is a copy:—

MY DEAR OLD FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS,—I cannot leave you without saying that the tender and gracious sympathy which you have to-day shown for me and my children, and much more the touching evidence you have given for the dear wife and mother, have deeply moved our hearts. We yearn to tarry with you and to rest near the hallowed spot where your loving hands have laid our dear, but the little grandchildren watch in wondering silence for our return, and need our care, and some public business will not longer wait upon my sorrow.

May a gracious God keep and bless you all.
Most gratefully yours,
BENJAMIN HARRISON.

The Lost Britannia.

HALIFAX, Oct. 26.—The loss of the steamer Britannia is said to have been caused by striking a sunken wreck on the Horse Shoe shoals off Cape Island. The steamer was from Boston for Halifax. She was built on the Clyde for service between Glasgow and Norway at a cost of $325,000. Last summer she was chartered by the Boston, Halifax and P.E.I. Steamship Company. She was one of the fastest and best boats on the Atlantic seaboard, and was commanded by Capt. Harvey Doane, who was born within sight of where his ship was lost, and who knows every inch of the coast. Cape Sable is the most dangerous spot on the coast, swept by treacherous currents, dreaded by all skippers, and the scene of innumerable disastrous wrecks. No man is better acquainted with these facts than Capt. Doane. When the news was first made public it was feared that the disaster was due to the system of racing which has characterized the boats running to Boston from provincial ports this season, and that the Britannia was caught in the fog and carried ashore by the tremendous current but this fear is dispelled by the report that the ship struck on one of the many sunken wrecks which add to the terrors of Cape Sable. A big hole was knocked in the Britannia's bottom. It was a question of an hour or two when she would founder, so Capt. Doane headed her for West Head, at the north-east point of Cable Sable island, where he beached her in 20 feet of water. She stands upright, but is fully exposed to easterly storms, and to the full fury of the wavy surf which beats in there. Assistance was to arrive from Boston to-night, and, if the weather continues fine, it is hoped the wreck will be floated; but the approach of a south-easterly storm to-night causes those to fear that the ship will go to pieces.

The North Atlantic line has been very unfortunate this season. The Britannia was ashore some weeks ago in Charlotte-town harbor; the steamer Worcester ran on the rocks off Canso, and the Carrol broke her shaft a few weeks ago and was towed into Booth bay by a schooner; and now their splendid steamer Britannia is probably a total loss.

A Story from the Far North.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27.—The Rev. E. R. Young, a Methodist missionary in the far North for many years, states that he was sent for by an old, dying Indian, some time ago, who confessed before the vital spark had fled that he had accompanied one of Sir John Franklin's relief expeditions to the northern seas. Supplies became very low and there was danger of starvation. Before deciding to return the commander sent this Indian and another over an island to look on the other side. They crossed and discovered in the distance three masts rising out of the frozen ice. They were nearly exhausted and knowing that if they told the commander of their discovery he would go to the place, they decided that it would be better not to tell him, for they feared the starvation of the entire party in the event of delay. Accordingly they returned and reported having found nothing. Next day the expedition started to return. The Indians were certain the masts belonged to one of Franklin's vessels.

Insane Duel With Knives.

GOLD HILL, Idaho, Oct. 28.—Geo. Barker and Henry Paxton fought a duel with knives fifteen miles from here a few days ago. Both will die, and Maggie Brandt, over whom they quarrelled, will be disqualified for life. She betrothed herself to both of her lovers, and for two months neither of them suspected that anything was wrong. The two men met at the Meserve's house and both drew long knives. They were in a room fifteen feet square. As the half crazed men circled around the room they upset and broke furniture, and at every blow blood flowed. Mrs. Brandt stood outside the door and witnessed the affray. She did not call upon anyone to interfere, and enjoyed the scene. After ten minutes of desperate fighting Barker fell from a terrible wound in the throat. Paxton was also badly hurt, a blow from Barker's knife had nearly scalped him. Mrs. Brandt rushed in and attempted to embrace him, when he cut her nose off and put out her eye with a slash.
