ARTHUR MOORE. Nov. 15, 1892.

Catholic Literary Association.

On Friday evening last a very interesting debate took place in the rooms of the C.L.A. The subject was, "Resolved that the press had more influence than the pulpit." On each side there were a number of speakers. The leader of the affirmative was Mr. James Smith, and of the negative, Mr. M. J. Kenny, Mr. Allan Macdonnell occupied the chair. After a lively discussion on both sides, the chairman dismissed the chief points brought out on each side, in a very fitting manner, and finally decided in favor of the affirmative.

Messrs. Crossley and Hunter in Saginaw.

Knowing that a large number of our readers will be interested in any news bearing upon the successful meetings of the evangelists in the city of Saginaw, Mich., we gladly quote from the Globe of that city, the following:—"Blazing fires and the pleasures coincident with the gathering of friends and the re-union of families at this season of the year, are some of the things that make the home the average place in all the world where the average man delights to spend the closing hours of the Thanksgiving day. But these things did not deter an immense number of people from finding their way to the revival services at the Jefferson Avenue church last evening to listen to a Thanksgiving sermon. The large church was crowded to the doors, the galleries were filled and even the aisles were almost invisible because of the chairs placed there to accommodate late comers. From the opening song to the closing note on the organ the vast audience sat as if spell bound, while the singer and the preacher sent forth the truth, clear, simple and convincing, even to the most indifferent. Wonderful changes are apparent from time to time during the progress of one of these meetings, carelessness gave way to interest, and interest gave way to conviction; when the invitation was given for those who desired to be prayed for, more than a score of stalwart men rose from their seats. The evangelists have a method of their own, but the best recommendation of their work is its fruits, and to the unprejudiced mind the days of miracles are re-appearing; at any rate many homes will be brighter, many lives will be happier because of the new inspirations and ideals gained from the truth so forcibly taught by these earnest workers. The meetings will continue through next week, beginning at 7:30 p.m."

Fire.

On Monday morning last, about 3 o'clock, a house in the East Ward, occupied by Mr. Wm. Ballance, was discovered to be on fire, and before the firemen arrived it was too far gone to be saved. Mr. Ballance lost all his effects that were upstairs. The furniture downstairs was saved. The firemen did good service in saving the adjoining houses. The building belonged to Mr. Currin of Toronto.

Death of Dr. Jones of Rochester.

A very large circle of friends in this community will learn with deep regret, of the death of Dr. Jones, of Rochester, which event took place suddenly on Sunday last, at his home in Rochester, from heart failure. Dr. Jones was brother of Mrs. J. R. Dundas, and had made many friends in this district during his visits to Lindsay. He was one of the leading physicians of Rochester, and held the position of government medical examiner for pensions for many years, and was exceedingly popular with all classes.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

—A very successful meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held on Monday, Dec. 5th. By the large attendance and deep interest taken in the meeting, there seems to be a revival in W.C.T.U. work. While the avowed object of the W.C.T.U. is the suppression of the liquor traffic, at the same time it carries on aggressive warfare, and grapples with every existing evil. The union has not yet been able to strike a crushing blow at its formidable and powerful enemy, nor will it be able until it gets hold of the right weapon, that is the ballot. Let every woman assist in securing the enfranchisement of women.
