The Scott Act.

Of the working of the Scott Act in North Ontario, the "Mail's" correspondent says :- "It is said the Inspector does no detective work, and the temperance people are not very ready to give him practical assistance. In the meantime they are at a standstill on account of Judge Armour's decision invalidating the appointment of the police magistrate for their Riding. It is believed a rigorous prosecution would be effective, and as soon as sufficient machinery is provided the association will lend efficient | complaint is of course a prevalent one; support. A determined effort has been continued from the beginning in Cannington, and in ten prosecutions only rivers, in the hemlock swamps of the one failed. The Vigilance Committee | South, and in all low and damp locations, there has done splendidly and the tav- few persons reach the age of forty witherns are keenly watched. It is clear, keeper boldly defied the law and was | therefore, that a preparation which will convicted seven times, all for first afford immediato relief, and effect evenoffences, as he appealed from the first | tually a thorough cure of the complaint, conviction and the other six came on before the first was disposed of. Good of all countries. We cannot reasonably results are seen at Sunderland, where | doubt, in view of the well-attested statedrunkards have become habitually ments which have been laid before us, sober and work for the support of their | sustained as they are by circumstances families. From the back villages and within our own knowledge, that the townships there are good reports. In these places as gener- least important. Many an industrious ally, there is a decided advance on li- tiller of the soil, whose services are cense times, and although circumstances have been adverse to the Scott Act, temperance people plant their foot on it as a good foundation in taking their next step in restrictive legislation. In answer to all my inquiries, I found the feeling strong—in some cases impatient -for total prohibition.-Where did the "Mail" correspondent get his information? It certainly could not have been from actual contact with the places he describes. The people of the places mentioned save Cannington know better than to believe the fact that things are improved. That no complaints have been made from Beaverton, Brechin and Atherley is no indication that all is going right, as he will find on personal examination.

A Farnier Candidate Wanted.

Since the recent election in West Victoria and its very surprising result, much has been said as to the advisability of bring ing out farmer candidates for the House of Commons and day by day the feeling is growing stronger that such should be done. North Victoria for a long time has been represented, or rather misrepresented, by a lawyer and a stranger to the people of the constituency. It is now felt that the time has come when the county, north and south should break down the old lines and return men who are more in sympathy with the interests of the people. With this end in view we learn the intention is to bring out farmor candidate; if the party conventions fail to do so. In such a case there can be no question as to the result,-they study well this feeling before finally selecting their candidates. The result of the recent contest should prove a warning voice and one not to be slighted as without moment.

The announcement of the British authorities that twelve eighty ton Woolwich guns will be ready in April for transportation across the continent to British Columbia is causing anxiety to some of our Yankee friends. Those eighty ton guns throw a projectile weighing 1,700 pounds. The New York "Times" remarks that the action of the British Government contrasts broadly with the utmost that the Washington authorities could announce for the projected seaboard defence on the Pacific, and that, even if a law was passed by Congress at once for the manufacture of guns they could not be made ready for use before 1890.

"Don't talk to me about your political ' isms,' " said a facetious old valetudinarian, "I tell you there's no ism on earth so bad as Rheumatism." The venerable sufferer was right. St. Lawrence's gridiron or Quatimozin's pallet of fire was not more emphatically a bed of terment than the couch of the martyr to rheumatism. It is generally considered by the faculty one of the most obstinate as well as one of the most painful of maladies, and it certainly does resist all ordinary remedies with extraordinary pertinacity. Skill and science, however, in this age of progress, seem to master all opposition; and even this painful disease, entrenched among the muscles, and interknit, as it were, with the smews and tendons of our frames, is compelled to yield to the curatives they have provid-

We have it on unquestionable authority-the testimony of patients themselves-that rheumatism, however deeply seated, may be cured by the regular and persistent application of Holloway's Ointment. This, we feel assured, will be welcome intelligence to thousands of sufferers, bed-ridden by the disease, or limping with stiffened joints along the pathway to the tomb. In a climate where the quicksilver sometimes makes a leap of thirty degrees up or down, the and in our new settlements at the West, along the alluvial borders of our great must be of especial value to the people needed in the field, is at this moment languishing on a bed of sickness; the hands that should guide the plough or grasp the spade rendered powerless by Rheumatism. Many a toiler in every branch of productive labour is similarly situated; and we can imagine with what joy these sufferers would hail the means of immediate cure. To all such we feel justified in recommending this balsamic remedy, the application of which, with the aid of a few deses of Holloway's Pills to regulate the internal organs, would, we feel assured, restorethem to health and usefulness .-- [Daily

Holloway's Ointment and Pills .-Travellers and Emigrants.-Those who cross the seas change the climate, but they do not change the constitution. The altered conditions of life, the exigencies of travel and other causes render the traveller and emigrant peculiarly liable to diseases and accidents when far from efficient medical aid. With these associated remedies at hand they may be said to have a physician always at their call and they may be certain that situations will be constantly arising in which they will require a ready resource in time of need. The directions for use which accompany each box and pot of Holloway's Pills and Cintment are written in plain and simple language, and are applicable in all cases.
