A well-known physician says that the progress of a boil should be stopped at the outset, if possible. That may be true, but it isn't every man who happens to see a boil coming down the street that would care to get in front of it and stop its progress, at least, so says one of our citizens who now meanders about with his neck in mourning. Perhaps, however, this might be included in the by-law, as a part of the duties devolving on our Chief of Police.

The rapidity with which Mr. J. K. Campbell's business is increasing, has necessitated his securing the services of Mr. Wm. Hawkins, one of the most practical and thorough "Bench" hands in America. "Billy" as usual is the leading favorite in our village, and as an athlete will be quite an acquisition to our sporting fraternity and cordially welcomed.

Local Horses at Fenelon Falls.

At the annual winter races held at Fenelon Falls recently, Mr. A. G. Maybee's mare secured 1st place in the green race, winning easily in three straight heats. In the named race Mr. A. McKinnon's mare took third place. It is considered she did very well, considering her light training and the race being trotted almost as fast as "the free for all." "Louis D." was by no means up to his standard in trotting and only secured third place in the open trot. Perseverance and proper training will, no doubt, bring him to his invincible trotting qualities and we predict great success for him at the coming event at Lindsay.

Personal.

Miss Mary Campbell, of Toronto, spent a few days in our village, visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Cameron and friends in general.

The Carnival.

The Carnival on the Rink on Wednesday evening was a grand success, in point of numbers present. The number of skaters in costume were few but well sustained the characters represented. About thirty were present.

An Experience.

A number of our villagers interested in horseflesh visited Fenelon Falls last week to witness the keenly contested races there. Among them were two of our young sports, who upon returning home rather late Friday, or early Saturday so far forgot their own noble quadruped in the discussion of the day's sports that he was left entirely to the freedom of his own will, which freedom he expressed to the discomfort of his over-indulgent drivers. Being fully satisfied that he could elicit no complimentary remarks from the above mentioned parties he conceived the idea that his only plan of moving would be to deposit his unworthy freight in a snow drift and complete the remainder of the journey, ten miles, alone. The successful accomplishment of this idea will be a fact long to be remembered by our worthy friends who suddenly awoke to the realities of life by finding themselves entangled in robes, halters, snow, and profanity. The difficulties of the situation dawned upon them shortly before the dawn of day; to be left ten miles from home in a snow drift is no enviable situation but when the usual quantity of cutter furnishings had to be shouldered and carried those weary miles, we can easily pardon the boys for indulging in language unparliamentary, and can join with them in denouncing the treacherous roan. A few of the early rising settlers seeing such an unusual sight at such a time supposed that the pedestrians had come by the property unlawfully, others imagined that they were an improved species of tramp, who carried their beds with them and it was not until next day when the true circumstances of the case came to light that all were convinced that it was only the misdemeanor of a horse that was the cause of such an unusual spectacle.

On the 31st of December last there were 11,221 miles of railway in operation in Canada and 12,400 miles of track. The total number of miles placed under traffic between the 30th of June, 1886, and the 30th of December last was 523.
