A settlement has just been effected of the long-standing dispute between the Canadian Government and the Niagara White Grape Company of Lockport, New York, which arose through the seizure of a large number of grape vines the company had distributed throughout Ontario. From 1882 to 1886 the Company sold the farmers and others in this province vines to the value of $10,000. They were planted and were to be paid for in ten annual installments. Two years ago the Canadian Government notified the company that they had been fraudulently passing their grape vines at an undervaluation. The vines sold at $1.50, and were entered for duty at the rate of 15 cents each. The Government on making the discovery immediately seized all the vines the company had distributed throughout Ontario and notified the purchasers that they must pay no more installments until the claim for customs duties had been settled. The Customs Department claimed $18,000 and refused to release the vines until that amount was paid. The Government now accept $1,500 in full settlement of their claim and other expenses incurred. The memorandum of agreement states that this is done in consideration of the proclamation whereby grape vines have been placed on the free list.

"Brutal and Grinding Tyranny of Jobbers."

LONDON, April 23.—The Earl of Dunraven is doing good work. He is chairman of the Committee of the House of Lords, of which Lords Derby and Rothschild are members, charged with an investigation of the condition of the slaves of the sweating system. It was a strange sight to see in one of the palatial committee rooms gathered some score of ragged, half-starved foolish Jews, summoned from the purlieus of the East End to give testimony. This wretched swarm of paupers, colonized in Whitechapel and Spitalfields, toil under the most brutal and grinding tyranny of jobbers, getting nothing but bread to eat and working from six in the morning to midnight for wages ranging from $2 to $7 per week, on which they must keep whole families and pay exorbitant rents. The trade is chiefly in slop boots, but there are some clothes and hats. All are sent to distant and half-civilized colonies. One feature of the boot business is what is technically known as "Houndsditch sides," the same being made by a compress of paper pulp and ground-up leather scraps. Boots of these are sold to the Kafirs and other barbarous peoples, who, however, know enough never to buy twice of the same firm.

A SAMPLE CASE. A great deal of evidence is being taken. One case will serve as a sample. Samuel Wildman, a boot finisher, said that he came from Hungary ten years ago, as he could not get a living there.

"What were you engaged at there?" asked Lord Dunraven.

"I was a teacher."

"Then what made you think you could do better here?"

From what friends in Hungary told him he came to England, went to the East End and was there told by a man that he could learn the boot finishing business in four weeks. He worked for the man for four weeks for nothing, beginning at five o'clock in the morning and leaving off at midnight. He worked every day except Saturday. For those four weeks he was not paid anything. He subsequently obtained employment in another workshop. He had laboured for the past ten years at sweating work from six in the morning until midnight each day in the week but Saturday, and now earned fifteen shillings weekly. He had a wife and six children and paid four shillings a week rent. He was required to work so hard that he could not drink his coffee or tea until it was cool, as he could not spare the time to drink it warm. The workshop was about four and a half yards square and two or three yards high. It had two windows, two gaslights and one heating light, and four workmen, besides master, were employed in it. No inspector had ever visited it. The witness spoke in broken English, but was at last questioned by Lord Rothschild in German, and in reply answered as above.

PROPOSED REMEDY. No Englishmen are engaged in this traffic, which is confined mainly to German jobbers and Russian Jew sweaters, and the Lords' report is expected to recommend a law forbidding the further entrance of these paupers into the Kingdom. There may also be a clause sharply criticizing Russia's policy of oppressing and crowding out these miserable wretches to become a burden on other nations.

Look and Live. My lady reader, don't pass me by with the unkind remark, "Only an advertisement." I may do you good. I may do you good. I may unfold to your view the "pearl of great price." I may be the means of restoring to you health and happiness. I surely will if you are suffering from any form of nervousness or female weakness, and will act upon my suggestion. I bring to your notice, with every confidence in its merits, a remedy especially compounded to meet just the requirements of your case—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, bidding you look and live! Ladies everywhere, who have used it, speak volumes in its praise!

A Millionaire in a Minute. Instances are on record where toilers in gold mines and diamond fields who, by one turn of a spade, a single movement of the hand, have been transformed from penniless laborers to millionaires. But they were not so lucky as is the consumptive who finds a means of restoration to health, who learns that the dread disease from which he suffers is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure consumption (which is lung scrofula), and nothing else will. For all the diseases of the blood, such as blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous sores and swellings, it is unequalled.

"The good die young," and weeds should. An Epigrammatic Statement. Is there anything in this world so vile as the pestilent presence of potent bile? We have it, we hate it, we all revile the noxious nausea, as did Carlyle. But why bewail what soon is needed? Take P. P. P. and have it ended. All praise the power of "Pierce's Pellet." Wise people buy and druggists sell it.

Work done out of season is ill done. Consumption Surely Cured. To the Editor:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy free to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, Dr. T. A.
