Presentation.

A large gathering of the ladies of the Methodist church met at the parsonage on Tuesday evening, and after partaking of supper Mrs. Briden was presented with a handsome plush satchel, containing a sum of money and other articles accompanied by the following address:

MRS. BRIDEN:
DEAR FRIEND.—It devolves upon us to offer you in the name of the ladies of the Methodist church, a slight token of our esteem and regard. To us it is a source of pleasure to be made their mouthpieces on this occasion, since our pleasure may make some amends for our shortcomings. We are now addressing you as a dear and much tried friend, and will ever keep your image enshrined in our hearts. We shall look back to the time which you spent in our midst with sincere pleasure. The little gift we offer you is of no intrinsic value, but is rich in love, gratitude and respect. Please accept it, and wish it our united hopes that your life will ever be as happy as you have made ours.
Signed { MRS. W. LEIGH,
 { MRS. J. BROWN.
