

There is no Death.

There is no death! The stars go down To rise upon some fairer shore...

Fishing.

May be this is fun, sitting in the sun, With a book and parasol, as my angler wishes...

On the Sunny Side.

Hi and whoop-hoory boys! Sing a song of cheer, Here's a holiday, boys...

Outfit Style.

"There's a lovely young woman next door I see," I remarked, as my sisters were sipping their tea...

There's a formal kiss of fashion.

There's a formal kiss of fashion, And a burning kiss of passion, A father's kiss...

CURRENT TOPICS.

AMATEUR photography is a new and favorite amusement with youths and maidens at watering places.

The French, in addition to the many advantages acquired by the conquest of Anam, have also through the Tonquin war been enabled to add a new word to their vocabulary.

Is M. PASTEUR a plagiarist? According to Dr. Flasschoen, who has just addressed a communication on the subject to the French Academy of Sciences, M. Pasteur's so-called "discovery" of a remedy for rabies, is no discovery at all.

An alphabetical list of the personages in the thirty-two novels and novelettes of Sir Water Scott has just been compiled, from which it appears that they comprise 662 distinct characters.

SIR SPENCER WELLS has written to a medical journal concerning the important matter of operating upon, or removing diseased lungs or portions of them.

The situation of the Portuguese in Guinea is very critical. The revolution of the blacks, which had attained considerable importance some months back, has not been put down.

A NEW novel of Boston make has a heroine who loses her beauty by disease and spends years afterward in regretting and idealizing the woman she was.

ATTENTION is given to the singular theory in London that "mind reading," as of late exhibited, is based on the muscular action of the hand.

The special correspondent of the London Daily News, who accompanied Admiral Hewitt on his mission to Abyssinia, writing from Adowa, gives an interesting account of the experiences of the mission so far.

In Adowa there are no shops or hostleries of any description, the people getting their goods from a market held once a week.

SEEKING HELL.

Robert Laird Collier Takes a Peep at it in London.

One of the most distinguished men of letters said to me one night as we came from the theatre together: "Would you like to see hell?" I replied: "I wouldn't mind it not for too long a time."

A Romance of Real Life.

Nearly all the romances of real life that now get into the papers, it will be noticed, have marital infidelity for their motive.

A Word With Housekeepers.

How many times in the year the mistress of the house needs to be reminded of the admonition of a wise woman: "Drive your work, but do not let your work drive you."

An officer in the regular army laughed at a timid woman because she was alarmed at the noise of a cannon when a salute was fired.

A LIFE'S ROMANCE.

Interesting History of a Mysterious Newspaper "Personal."

Several months ago an advertisement appeared in the personal column of nearly all the leading papers of the country, says the St. Louis Call of a recent date.

M. F. and C. G., engaged 1861; separated by will of God 1862; reunited by will of God, if alive, enable M. F. to fill out the blank? Oldham Farm.

There was absolutely no clew by which the writer of the personal could be traced; the cashier of the St. Louis paper in which it was inserted only knew that it was accompanied by money to pay for its insertion.

Yesterday afternoon an elderly gentleman might have been seen sitting on the deck of the steamer Chouteau, and by his side sat a sweet-faced little woman, whose sweet face looked strangely out of keeping with her smooth brow.

"I am the happiest man to-day that ever breathed the breath of life; there isn't a creature on God's footstool that I would refuse a request; I'm nearly 50 years old, but I was married only last week. It's a strange story. Read this," continued the old gentleman, as he handed the reporter a slip of paper containing the advertisement above quoted.

At Bull Run I was shot and left for dead on the battlefield, but afterward recovered and was captured by rebels and sent to Andersonville. For eighteen months I lived in that wretched place, suffering untold mental torture.

"Well, you may believe I made quick time in reaching San Miguel, and maybe you think our meeting wasn't joyful. We were married the day of my arrival, and after a brief season for preparations, started east. My name? O, certainly—Martin Ferran and Mrs. Martin Ferran, nee Caroline Granger, Oldham Farm, near Cayuga, N. Y."

The boat had neared the landing as the old man's story was concluded, and they bade the reporter good-day and moved slowly up the wharf arm-in-arm, mingling with the crowd, a sober, sedate and happy old couple.

What Culture in New Zealand.

Mr. J. C. Frish, the proprietor of a great wheat, sheep and cattle raising farm, containing 56,000 acres, in New Zealand, has announced to his workmen that he would be compelled to stop cultivation and discharge all his hands, owing to the low price received for wool and wheat.

All the Presidents since Lincoln have worn full beards, except President Arthur, whose whiskers have the English sideboard cut.

Mr. Labouchere has discovered that the wife of Pere Hyacinthe is an extravagant woman, devoted to dress, and, worse yet, she used to be a stay-maker.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

The Art of Photo-Lithography Destined to be Revolutionized.

(Atlanta, Ga.) Telegram

A discovery that is destined to revolutionize the present method of photo-lithography has been made by Mr. Ildo Ramsdell, of this city. "The new invention," said Mr. Clark Howell, scientific editor of the Constitution, will introduce into the art of printing possibilities never yet dreamed of.

The process is so exceedingly simple that any boy of fourteen can do all the work just as well as an expert photo-lithographer could do it. Mr. Ramsdell has filed an application for letters patent, and has organized a company of wealthy Atlanta capitalists to push the introduction of the invention.

Exercise for Women.

The paper of Dr. S. E. Post, published in the Medical Record, gives valuable particulars respecting the effect of exercise upon the health of women, as exemplified by female circus riders and gymnasts.

Something New and Strange.

Attention has lately been drawn in one of our medical contemporaries to a disease met with in Siberia, known to Russians by the name of Miryachit. The person affected seems compelled to imitate anything he hears or sees, and an interesting account is given of a steward, who was reduced to a perfect state of misery by his inability to avoid imitating everything he heard and saw.

A French officer has invented a device to save life from fire. It can readily be attached to every kind of belt used in gymnastics exercises, and furnished further with a cord the person thus equipped can lower himself with any speed desired.