Strange Ain't It.

Each Company of the 34th Battalion according to the newspapers of their respective localities was the best in camp and succeeded in making the best shooting. Most of the reports are now in and we will add Beaverton to the list. It is an indisputed fact that No. 4 Company has among its men the crack shots of the Battalion and we believe made the largest score of any Company in the regiment. This is a solid truth and the pride of Company 4.

Strawberry Festival.

A strawberry festival was held in the Methodist church grounds on Wednesday evening last. A good number of the citizens were present with the congregation of the church. The affair was somewhat of an appreciative testimonial to the esteemed pastor of the church. Rev. Mr. McKee, whom conference has re-stationed here for another year, and at the close of the evening's proceedings an address and presentation of a purse of money took place to which the Rev. gentleman gave a very suitable reply. We would add our pleasure to that of the Rev. gentleman's flock, Mr. McKee in his vigorous efforts in the temperance cause in this place has proved himself a fearless and consistent advocate of the right. Recognizing the evil this great curse is doing throughout the land, as a true Christian he does not believe in shutting his eyes to its course as he passes along, but rather prepares to battle with it so far as opportunity offers. We are pleased to see his work has been appreciated by so many of the community and it will no doubt prove a pleasure to him. The band was present during the evening and helped to enliven the proceedings.

Finding It Out.

The brief ascendancy in Toronto of compulsory early closing promises to have permanent results. It is learned that very many dealers who have resisted early closing for years found when driven into it that the income from their business was not adversely affected, while the comforts and enjoyments of life were considerably multiplied. The short supremacy of the law has shown in fact, just what is the effect of early closing and has convinced many that there is no real advantage in the practice of keeping open until ten or eleven o'clock at night.—The same experience is said to be the result of the law in Beaverton.

A New Drink.

People are not bothered much as yet about summer drinks, but if you want to know what is the latest palatable decoction it is the milk-shade. It is easy to make. Milk-shade can be made at home, and with but little expense. Buy a dime's worth of lemon syrup from druggist, put it in some milk, add some crushed or shaved ice, get an egg beater and set it going. In a minute you will have as fine a milk-shade as can be made.
