

FIRE! FIRE!

Beaverton Foundry Completely Destroyed By Fire.

For a long time Beaverton has escaped the ravages of the fire fiend, but on Wednesday night we received a visitation which has robbed the village of one of the most valuable of its industries. Shortly after eight o'clock the alarm of fire was given and on turning out it was found that the foundry was on fire in the neighborhood of the engine room. The flames, fanned by a light breeze, spread with great rapidity and almost before it could be reached the entire building was enveloped. Willing hands rapidly set to work to save everything possible but as it was seen to be useless to make effort in behalf of the foundry, attention was concentrated on the adjoining buildings and only by the most energetic and untiring labor they were saved, even as it was, the residence of Mr. J. J. Glover, has received a bad scorching. The fine shop is a heap of smoking ruins and we regret to say no insurance covers the loss. We understand, the proprietor Mr. Smith, when last heard from was in Ireland and expected to be home in August but where he may be now it is hard to say, as he intended visiting France. Mr. Colin Campbell also loses heavily in point of work ready for shipment and also the inconvenience of supply for contracts now in hand. A large quantity of new work belonging to the foundry was secured from damage and the books were also saved, otherwise the contents were entirely destroyed. The loss of the foundry until it is rebuilt will be a serious blow to the village, not only to those directly dependent on its work for their support but to every farmer in the country for miles around as well as the business men of the place. Mr. Smith has our sincere sympathy in his trials, which, by the way, appear to be an exemplification of the time-worn experience that "misfortunes never come singly," as it is only a few months since he lost his estimable wife. The origin of the fire is a mystery as only a few minutes previous to the alarm, Mr. Alex. Ross, the foreman, was through the premises and no signs of smoke or fire were visible. The loss is roughly placed at $15,000 and without one cent of insurance.

Fifty-two out of the one hundred and seven candidates passed the entrance examinations at Whitby with 14 recommended, and 32 out of 62 at Port Perry.

CARD OF THANKS.

The undersigned wishes to express to the citizens, who so generously and at the expense of so much labor assisted in preventing the destruction of his residence by fire during the burning of the Beaverton Foundry, his sincere thanks for their manly and timely services. "Friends in need are friends indeed" and without the timely assistance rendered by those present at the fire his home would no doubt soon have been reduced to ashes.

J. J. GLOVER.
