Farmers' Mill

Farmers of Victoria County. — Owing to the disappointment in getting a power at a reasonable rate, the Farmers' Mill at Lindsay has for the present quit chopping, but intends to continue to exchange good flour for wheat and other grain, and is in a position to do better by the farmers than is done by others. You as farmers may be ready to ask how can the Farmers' Mill do better than others, exchanging flour for wheat. The answer to that question is simply this: our expenses are lower; we pay no high rates of rent, taxes and other expenses that the larger dealers have to pay; we have no high-salaried employees such as book-keepers etc.; no office expenses for telephones or telegraphing; in fact and pay no salaries to anyone, and we put on no style, do our own work it makes the Farmers' Mill the cheapest run institution of the kind in this section of the country. We will here say to farmers and others wanting to buy flour in ton, half-ton or quarter-ton lots, we will not be undersold, and to the working man that wants to make his dollar go the farthest, come to the Farmers' Mill for your flour, and if others sell it cheaper, they will sell without a profit. We are determined to do a fair share of the flour business of this town, and not have it said as has often been said that the users of flour could go to the neighbouring towns and villages and buy flour manufactured in Lindsay after paying freight both ways and then have it cheaper than they could buy it in Lindsay. We will at all times keep good flour on hand, and after an experience of over a quarter of a century in the manufacture and handling of flour, we think we are safe in saying that we have not to go to any miller and ask him if the flour is good, but can determine on the quality of the flour by looking at and examining it, and that too without the aid of a magnifying glass, and although there has been an effort put forth to freeze us out of the flour business in this town we wish to be distinctly understood, that we are here to stay if cheaper selling counts for anything. Of course we are meeting with any amount of opposition—that is what we are here for, and to be satisfied with less profit than other dealers of the town. They may think that this is only a blow, but we can't help it. We are determined to sell and exchange flour for less profit than others, and can and will do it too, and are determined to not have it said that farmers bring wheat to Lindsay to exchange for flour and only get back one-half of what they bring. The farmers' trade is the trade we court and also the trade of the working men of the town and country. The shabby genteel trade we don't want; it's the working class we are after and that is the class of customers we want, and if we get the honest workers of the town and country we are satisfied, and in conclusion will say, farmers bring your wheat to the Farmers' Mill, working men bring your dollar to the Farmers' Mill, Lindsay, and we will guarantee to give you more flour for the money or wheat than you can get in the country or out of it. We think we hear other dealers say, "Oh, this is all very fine for a blow; we can soon run that little Farmers' Mill to the wall." Our answer to this is come and try it; it will probably be a bigger job than you made calculation on. We have nothing to say about the profits that others have, but here say we can sell for less profit than others. If we had the great expense of other dealers and slung on lots of office style, we would probably want as much profit as others. Farmers and working men, can you not call to mind when we were boys, when we went to the old grist mills where the miller, the one man about the place, did all the work. It's different now. They have their book-keepers, check and ticket books by the cart load, and dozens of other expenses to keep up, and still to sling on all this farmers have to be paid, and who pays it? It is the farmers and working men of the country. On this we invite successful contradiction. Farmers, bring your wheat to the Farmers' Mill; working men bring your dollar to the Farmers' Mill, Lindsay, and we are prepared to stand to what we say and to give more good flour for the bushel of wheat or the dollar than you can get elsewhere. If we get your patronage, we can give you full value in flour for your wheat and money, not one-half in flour and the other half in style, but full value in good family flour. Give us a trial and see what the little one-horse Farmers' Mill can do in the way of fair dealing. We are willing to stand or fall by the verdict of the honest farmers of the surrounding country.

Book Reviews

A KING'S LOVE STORY, by Maurice Hewlett, Toronto: Copp Clark Co. History, of the old-school sort, trained the minds of students to believe royal personages but bundles of form and ceremony. The man under a crown and kingly robe was scarcely supposed to have a feeling, an emotion. Of course, Love, Joy, Grief, might be his companions now and again, but only on state occasions, and just so long as they behaved themselves in dignified and proper manner. It was the kind of history that many a youngster into the doubtful path of truant, that made him heartily wish there never had been any past. What possible interest could a child, could anyone in fact, feel in those becorowned, those otherwise ornamental monarchs. If they were not like other human beings, what did it signify that their birth was such a date, their ascension another date, and their death still another? Dates, dates, eternal dates! Turn to the historical novel of today. How the old schoolmaster would have held up his horrified hands at the very idea of its existing at all! While many great educationists are now advocating its use in colleges. Mr. A. J. Balfour, member of the English Parliament, said recently in a speech which was universally quoted: "All education which does not make the person educated at home in some great imaginative literature, is an education which must leave undeveloped some of the finer sympathies, some of the more valuable qualities, which education ought to develop." And Mr. Fearnside, also a high authority in matters concerning school progress, speaking along the same line said: "The historical novel is practically the only means by which the English schoolboy is likely to get any idea of European history outside Great Britain. This being so, those placed in authority ought to see that among the books within reach of the boys are included historical novels, to see that these are suitable, and to encourage the boys to read them at times when they will fit in with the work being done in school." "Richard Yea-and-Nay," by Maurice Hewlett, is one of the revelations in history, modernly treated; a work which shows what a wonderfully fascinating thing history may after all become. Mr. Hewlett is a great master with the brush of English; and has made such warm-colored, such rich, such glowing portraits of at least two people, that a memory of them will always be a gladness to recall. This is the love story of Richard Coeur de Lion, a record of fierce and fitful passions, of desire and loathing, of love and hate, of jealousy and despair. Yea-and-Nay was a man of strange mixture, of convincing arguments, yet forever opposed—heart and brain warring with each other in one life-long struggle; perhaps too gentle where he should have been master, terrible when he might have been more kind. His love for Jehane of the exquisite soul, Jehane of the Fair Girdle, Jehane of the sea-green eyes—the singleness of that love and the way it swayed his life—is the heart of the story; and as for Jehane, the sacrifice she made for Richard, was the greatest sacrifice in the power of woman to make. Far worse than death was it, to her shrinking soul, and called for every atom of her beautiful courage, for the sternest endeavor of her lofty nature.

KIDNEY DISEASE FOR TEN YEARS.
A Glen Miller Man's Terrible Trial.
He Found a Cure at Last in Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. P. M. Burk, who is a well-known resident of Glen Miller, Hastings Co., Ont., was afflicted with kidney trouble for ten years. So pleased is he at having found in Doan's Kidney Pills a cure for his ailments, which he had begun to think were incurable, that he wrote the following statement of his case so that others similarly afflicted may profit by his experience: "I have been afflicted with kidney trouble for about ten years and have tried several remedies but never received any real benefit until I started taking Doan's Kidney Pills. My back used to constantly ache and my urine was high colored and milky looking at times. Since I have finished the third box of Doan's Kidney Pills I am happy to state that I am not bothered with backache at all and my urine is clear as crystal. I feel confident that these pills are the best kidney specific in the country."

RENEWED VIGOR

Brought About Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. MRS. PETER BEAMER TELLS HOW THESE PILLS RELEASED HER FROM YEARS OF NEURALGIC PAINS AFTER DOCTORS AND OTHER MEDICINES FAILED. Among the best known and most respected residents of the township of Gainsboro, Lincoln county, Ont., are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beamer. For a long time Mrs. Beamer was the victim of a complication of diseases, which made her life one of almost constant misery, and from which she nearly despaired of obtaining relief. To a reporter who recently interviewed her, Mrs. Beamer gave the following particulars of her illness, and ultimate cure:—"For some nine years I was troubled with a pain in the back, and neuralgia, which caused me unspeakable misery. The pains in my back was so bad that whether sitting or lying down, I suffered more or less torture. My appetite left me, and I suffered from headaches accompanied by attacks of dizziness that left me at times too weak to walk. My nervous system was badly shattered, so that the slightest noise would startle me, and my sleep at night was broken by sheer exhaustion. I was under the care of three different doctors at various times, but did not succeed in getting more than the merest temporary relief. I also used several advertised medicines, but with no better results. I was finally urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and got half a dozen boxes. In the course of a few weeks I noted considerable improvement, and as a consequence, I gladly continued the use of the pills for several months, with the result that every symptom of the malady left me, and I was able to do my housework without the least trouble. As several years have passed since I have used the pills, I feel safe in saying that the cure is permanent, and the result also verifies the claim that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail." The reporter can only add that Mrs. Beamer's present condition indicates a state of perfect health, and speaks louder than mere words can do, the benefit these pills have been to her. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored more weak and ailing women and girls to robust health than any other medicine ever discovered, which in part accounts for their popularity throughout the world. These pills are sold by all dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Chickens for Export

Mr. A. E. Silverwood, manager of the Dundas and Flavelle fowl department is conducting a series of meetings in the interests of poultry raising. He speaks in the schoolhouses and punctures his discourse with captivating selections on the gramophone. His talks are able expositions of the gospel according to the hen and are rousing great interest in poultry raising. A recent circular from the government contains this information regarding fowl for the English market. With regard to the breed of fowl to be made use of, the barred Plymouth rock has fattened very satisfactorily at the Dominion government poultry fattening stations. At the Bonville, Que. station, Mr. Hillhouse fatted a number of barred rock cockerels that when dressed and ready to pack into the cases, weighed eight pounds each. Some of these chickens were exhibited at the fat stock show in Guelph, Ont. last December, and were greatly admired. Whilst they all had bright yellow legs, the skin of each chicken was perfectly white. The color of the skin is due to the feeding. Not one of the several thousand chickens shipped to England last year from the poultry fattening stations had a yellow-colored skin. Legs must not be dark or black in color. All other qualities being equal, a yellow legged chicken brings the same price in England as one having white legs. In breeding rocks for table quality, select a male bird with short legs, and with a small low comb. The English poultryman, remember, buys the head and legs of the chicken, and pays less per pound for chickens with long, heavy legs and large combs. Do not develop these useless qualities. White wyandottes fatted well at the Whitby, Ont. fattening station. They are superior to the barred rocks in that they have less offal, i. e., smaller combs and lighter bone; they do not however fatten to as heavy birds. The chickens mature quickly, and are plump broilers at almost any age. Subscribe for the Watchman-Warder.
