PASTOR AND PEOPLE PRAISE PSYCHINE (PRONOUNCED SI-KIEN)

A Marvellous and Triumphant Record of Victory Over Disease. No medicine has ever effected as large a number of wonderful and almost marvellous cures as Psychine. It has had a continuous record of victories over diseases of the throat, chest, lungs and stomach. Where doctors have pronounced cases incurable from consumption and other wasting diseases Psychine steps in and rescues numberless people even from the very verge of the grave. Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Chills, Night Sweats, La Grippe, Pneumonia, and other like troubles, all of which are forerunners of Consumption, yield quickly to the curative powers of Psychine.

Dr. Root's Kidney Pills are a sure and permanent cure for Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Pain in the Back and all forms of Kidney Trouble. 25c per box, at all dealers.

Captain Kettle

(Continued from Page 2.) fellows, bring Carnforth into the skipper's room. Carnforth came into Kettle's room suddenly enough with his hands in his pockets. "Now I'll give you the whole case packed small," said the spokesman. "A crowd of us found this place and discovered the pearls and the shell. We were all badly in want of a pipe, and we took the risks and started in to get it. Most of us went away with the first cargo, and only two white men were left with a few Kanakas. Then you came. You were told you're not wanted, but you gently hinted at force majeure and we were allowed to stay. Finally a blooming fellow comes back, and it's your force majeure on the other side, and now you've got to go. If you've the sense of oysters you'll go peacefully. There isn't enough for all of us; at any rate we don't intend to share."

"What's that?" shouted the man with the eyeglasses. "You are a successful man." "And let me tell you this. You've got the upper hand for the present, that I admit. You may even force us out of the lagoon. But what then? I guess the account would not be closed, when a man chooses to make me his enemy, I always see that he gets payment in full sooner or later."

RIFLE SHOOTING. Develops the Arms, Lungs and Chest and Trains the Eye.

It is not only the muscles of the arm which are tested by properly organized rifle shooting. It supplies an excellent exercise for the chest and lungs. One of the first things the young rifle shot has to learn is how to take a deep breath, to fill the lungs with air, and then to hold the breath while the rifle is kept absolutely steady and the finger is gradually tightening on the trigger. A glance at any successful rifle shot will show you a man with a deep chest and full powers of breathing.

CHILDREN'S CRIMES. Arson, Theft and Train Wrecking Common, Forgery Rare. Children's crimes are recognized by criminologists as a large and important branch of criminology. The commonest of children's crimes are arson, stealing and train wrecking, and the rarest is forgery.

A Distant Belfry. The village church of East Bergholt, Suffolk, is the only one in England which possesses an entirely distinct building for its belfry. The bells of this church are hung in a shed many yards away from the church and are worked from above instead of from beneath.

THE "BONE AGE" IN KANSAS. In Early Days the Plains Was Strewn With Buffalo Skeletons. The pioneers of Kansas will never forget the "buffalo bone age." When central and southwestern Kansas were settled the prairies were strewn with buffalo bones. Those were hard times in Kansas, and the gathering of these bones enabled the early settlers to live while they were getting their claims "broken out" for the producing of crops.

Remodeled. After being injured by a bull of peculiarly savage temper John Wesson was under a doctor's care for a considerable time and thereby incurred a heavy bill for medical attendance. When he was almost well one of his old friends who had called upon him said he congratulated him on looking so well after such a long illness.

The Privilege of Peers. There is a curious case in Fortescue's "reports" relating to the privilege of peers, in which the baroness who many years ago arrested a lord was forced by the court to kneel down and ask his pardon, though he alleged that he had acted by mistake, for that his lordship had a dirty shirt, a wornout suit of clothes and only sixpence in his pocket, so that he could not believe that he was a peer and arrested him through inadvertence.—Green Bag.

Cats As Retrievers. "It is claimed," said an antiquary, "that cats may be trained as retrievers—trained to swim to your slain birds and bring them back to you in their mouths. This sounds incredible, but look here." He held up the photograph of an ancient Egyptian painting, graph of an ancient Egyptian painting, showing a cat on the Nile. In some of the boats large cats sat on their haunches in the stern, while toward others several cats swam with dead birds in their mouths.

He Died Anyhow. This was the way a native physician in India filled out a death certificate: "I am of a mind that he died (or lost his life) for want of foodings or on account of starvation. Maybe also for other things for comfortables, and most probably he died by drowning."

First to Great George Brown. An interesting visitor to Stratford, Ont. recently was Mr. Thomas Patterson of Bowmanville, who was the guest of Hon. Thos. Ballantyne. He is 92 years of age, and is as active as many a man of middle age. Besides having seen both Sir Walter Scott and the Duke of Wellington, he was one of the first to greet Hon. George Brown when he landed in Toronto in 1842.

A Room Apart That Should Be Known as the "Office." The most privately conducted home must communicate with increasing frequency with the world outside. The coal man, the ice man, the automobile repair shop must be upgraded or caajoled. Reports must be reviewed, accounts kept, bills examined and the sender occasionally treated with a check. From a room removed from the rest of the house one must speak with the expressman or deliberate with the chauffeur or coachman, for none of these things should disturb the tranquillity of the home or the equanimity of all the activities of a home it is high time that space be devoted to this mechanism of living. For want of a better term a room devoted to such a purpose may be called the "office" of the house. Here the telephone stands on a table that bears also the miscellaneous utensils and printed matter that are always wanted in a house when they cannot be found. Here are cookbooks, gardening books, dictionaries, time tables, while a few old plates, a cast or two, bits of Dresden, water colors and a few cherished photographs relieve an otherwise humdrum collection of necessities. Here arriving parcels are placed and the daily mail opened. Mysterious cupboards there are and drawers with locks that work—Indoors and Out.

A CONTRAST. French and English Women as They Cross a Muddy Street. See a Parisienne tiptoe a muddy street. She advances daintly to the edge of the pavement, poises like a bird ready for a flight, deftly raises her dress more than enough to show her embroidered skirt, the dainty hose and elegant bottines, and without more delay she trips across, toe and heel barely touching and the mud refusing to cling to the fairy feet that hardly leave an impression on it. Landed on the other side, she gives her fine feathers a little shake into place and passes on with shoes that look as if just put on at that moment.

Men's Hats and Women's Veils. "I see here that a woman writer wonders why a man always looks in his hat before he puts it on," said the reflective man as he looked up from his paper. "Here is what she says: 'When a man puts on his hat he most always looks inside it first. What he expects to see remains a mystery, but he looks for it, all the same.' That's easy. He looks in his hat to see if the knot holding the inside band together will be at the back of his head when he puts it on. Now, if she'll tell me why a woman always pulls down her veil and purses up her mouth before she steps out of doors we'll call it square."—New York Press.

Side Whiskers. In her last novel, "The Dream and the Business," Mrs. Craigie, I regret to note, used the expression "side whiskers." The redundant "side" is to be found also in Meredith, Dickens, the greater Richardson, Bronte, Caina, Corelli, Sims and Shorter. As a matter of fact, unless otherwise stated, the least intelligent reader would take it for granted that the whiskers were worn on the side of the face, as indeed is the usual practice. The terms "lip whisker" (moustache) and "chin whisker" (beardette) are Americanisms.—Fall Mail Gazette.

A Good Wife. "Thank you, doctor, for prescribing a trip to the Spa for me. Now, will you please ask my husband to give up smoking and drinking beer, and then my trip will be easily paid for?"—Meggendorfer Blätter.

It's the unexpected that happens, but we generally bring it on ourselves.—Republic Monitor.
