His wife and family have the sympathy of the whole community. MRS. W. FLAVELLE

Lindsay citizens were shocked on Friday when the news reached town of the sudden death of Mrs. W. Flavelle, at Halifax, N.S. The deceas ed was well known in Lindsay, and was a daughter of Mrs. Charles Bartlett, Lindsay-st. The late Mrs. Flavelle, left Lindsay in August last to join her husband in Halifax. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, and three children. The remains will arrive on Monday, and the funeral will be held from her mother's residence, Lindsay-st., south. THOMAS WITTERICH.

The death occurred on Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Witterick, Caroline-st., of their olddest son, Thomas, aged 14 years, after a brief illness of a week. Death was due to rheumatic fever. The funeral was held on Monday from his late home to the Riverside cemetery. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to bereaved father and mother in the serious loss they have sustained.

A Delightful Christmas Tree Entertainment

On New Years Eve, Thursday night last, the Ops Methodist Sabbath school held their first entertainment and Christmas tree. The affair proved such a success that it will probably be continued annually.

The program was comprised of recitations and songs and the superintendent, Mr. W. H. Kennedy, made a capital chairman. Mr. Johnson and Dr. Thompson, of Omemee, addressed the gathering and their talks were much appreciated.

After the program had been rendered the school presented their superintendent, Mr. W. H. Kennehy, of Omemee, with a handsome sum o money. Mr. Kennedy replied feelingly, thanking the scholars for their expression of kinduess.

Mr. Kennedy has been untiring in his efforts to make the school successful. The Sunday school will be continued throughout the winter and will not be closed down as in form-

The meeting closed after those who had taken part had been thanked by vote. A vote of thanks was also given to the organist, Miss Priscilla

BOYS' RUSSIAN SUIT. Paris Pattern No. 2564.

Serge, broadcloth, Venetian cloth, cheviot, tweed or mohair are all suftable materials for the development of this jaunty little suit, which is shown here made up in brown-and-black striped cheviot. The wide collar, square at the back and extending in shaped ends to the lower edge of the tunic in the front, is of the material, cut on the bias. If desired the belt may be of the material, or a black patent-leather belt may be worn, giving the fashionable long-waisted effect. This belt is slipped through the small straps at the under-arm seams, and the lower edge of the tunic is finished with a simple hem. The knickerbockers are gathered into the knees by elastic, run through the wide hem casings, and the belt is worked with button-holes, so that they may be fastened to the underwaist. The shield is of white cloth, embroidered in black, with a touch of gold bullion, and the sleeves are plaited into cuff depth at the wrists. A pretty combination for this suit would be to make the tunic and knickerbockers in navy blue serge, with the collar and shield in red cloth, the belt being of similar cloth. The pattern is in 6 sizes-2 to 7 years. For a boy of 5 years the suit requires 4 yards of material 27 inches wide, 3% yards 36 inches wide, or 2 yards 54 inches wide; as illustrated, % yard of contrasting material 18 inches wide for the shield.

This simple little frock for the small girl, or the very young boy, may be developed in cashmere, wool batiste, serge, French flannel, albatross, mohair or The full body portion is gathered into the neckband at the front and back; the round-cornered turn-down collar and the straight cuffs, on the full-length sleeves, finished with a narrow edging of baby Irish lace. The lower edge is finished with a deep hem and the neck may be made with a high standing collar if preferred. The model is also adaptable for heavy linen, or Indian-head cotton, which some children wear all winter. Worn over a slip of light blue or sook, the edges of the collar and wristbands, hemstitched and finished with narrow Valenciennes lace edging, similar hemstitching ornamenting the skirt just above the hem. Feather-stitching is also used to a great extent for trimming the small child's clothes, and is always pretty and easily worked. If a very dressy effect is desired, the collar and wristbands may be developed in all-over lace. The pattern is in 4 sizes-1/2 to 5 years. For a child of 3 years the dress requires 2% yards of material 27 inches wide, 2 yards 36 inches wide, or 1% yards 42 inches wide; 21/4 yards of edging.
