Arrested on Charge of Assaulting His Mother

Warraw, Dec. 28—There was a lively fight at the home of Robert Hill, in Warraw, yesterday, as a result of which young Robert Hill is awaiting his trial on a charge of assaulting his mother.

The hills, it will be remembered, were principally figured in the famous shooting case in Warraw, some 20 years ago, in which their little daughter was killed and their son (Robert) had a finger shot off. Charles Hill, a three-months' term for manslaughter, in connection with the case.

Yesterday, it is said, Robert, the boy who figured so largely in the trial, and who was injured by the bullet, which killed his sister, was driving towards Warraw with his father and a younger brother. They were on a road which is a quarter of a mile, and will in a rage, got out of the cutter and started home, his younger brother followed him around and followed him on reaching the house the light was required, and the boys came to blows. Mrs. Hill went between them to stop the fight and was struck. It is said, by Robert, the youngest boy, and a pocket knife, her head striking a sofa, and it was thought that she was seriously injured. Hill, senior, took a hand in the quarrel, as well, but managed to slip out of the house and came to Warraw, where he procured a doctor for his mother, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his brother.

The warrant was executed, and young Hill appeared before Mr. Justice J. L. G. and was remanded until next Tuesday at 2 o'clock for trial.

Mrs. Hill was not so badly injured as was thought at first, but she carries a badly discolored eye as a souvenir of the family conference.

Facts About Milk Separation

Ald. M. J. Lewis, proprietor of the Victoria creamery, in writing on the above topic, says:

When visiting the City Dairy Company, Toronto, recently, I saw them running their cream through separators to purify it. The thought occurred to me that milk run through the average separator on the farm is apt to come out in worse condition than it goes in. The dirty separator is the cause of most of the creamery man's troubles. Particularly is this true in the case of the gathered-cream factory.

Patrons, who would not think of milking into the same pail in the evening that they used in the morning, without first washing it, will use the same separator when the bowl is simply clogged with the worst kind of filth. During the time between separations, bacteria, which cause bad flavors in butter, develop and come out in the cream, making it impossible to produce a first class product.

Turning the machine with uneven pressure, vibrations due to poor foundations, and turning too fast or too slow will cause variations in the test of the cream. When the test varies from month to month the patrons who are careless in operating their separators, cannot understand the variation in test, and report around among their neighbors, that the creamery man is either dishonest or incompetent, or both. If the gathered-cream factory is to be a success, patrons must endeavor to deliver a uniform cream of good flavor.—Farm and Dairy.

Railway Service to the North

(To the Editor of The Watchman-Warder.)
Dear Sir—Will you allow me space in your valuable and widely circulated paper to give to the reading public a few facts concerning the manager to which we are here in the north are handled by the G. T. Railway Co., with regard to the service we receive.

Before proceeding further, I wish to make it clear that we have no fault to find in any way with the trainmen on the contrary, I believe they cannot be surpassed on any division of the system, for their care, fairness and gentlemanly deportment toward the traveling public. What we do find fault with is the late arrival of the train. It is due to arrive at Halliburton at 6:40 p.m., it more frequently arrives any time between 7:45 and 8 o'clock p. m. No longer ago than last Saturday, the 24th, we left Toronto, and three hours later found ourselves in Lindsay, after a very pleasant and enjoyable trip.

After dinner in Lindsay we transferred considerable luggage, met with many old friends and finally arrived at the station in time for the 9:40 train for Halliburton, fifty-five miles away. At every station and stopping place along the line, the train was brought to a standstill, while all the brakemen, were busy adjusting, unloading, and loading boxes, barrels, kegs of nails, bars of iron and almost every conceivable article of commerce, while we—the weary passengers—sat in our seats yawning and watching through the windows until the "shades of night" obscured the landscape.

My companion in misery asked a fellow traveller, "Is this an express train?" Answer "No." "Is it a mixed train?" "No, it is a way freight pure and simple."

After spending five weary hours on the road we arrived at the station at Halliburton about 7:40, somewhat earlier than the train usually arrives. What we feel anxious to know is, who is responsible for this state of affairs? We pay the same rate per mile as those who receive first-class service, while we men of the north must put up with third-class accommodation. Will the officials whose duty it is, kindly take this matter in hand at once, and give us something like the FAIR PLAY? or must we be compelled to apply to the Railway Commission for redress?
(Sgd.) FAIR PLAY.
