One Lady Broke Down When Her Rent was Paid

The Watchman has received the official statement from Miss Weldon, co-ventor of the committee of five ladies who were behind in their rent for two months. The poor family did not know where the next cent was coming from. However, through the aid of the Santa Claus Stocking Fund the rent was paid for the two months and the lady of the house was profuse in her thanks.

One old lady said such had never been behind with her rent before and she broke down when she was handed a receipt for the full amount. She said that the Watchman was the only one to remember her and she wished the visitors to thank the Watchman for her.

In visiting a certain toy shop in town one of the committee noticed two small boys (whose names were on her list) looking longingly over the rows of toys. They were asked what they wanted most and needless to say Christmas morning the gifts they wanted were found in their stockings.

In some cases the committee learned the requests that the poor little tots had sent to Santa Claus and in every single wish they were not disappointed. One member of the committee stated that "the need seems to be greater this year on account of so many families having been visited by sickness."

Young Lad at Kinmount Had Cold Dip

Kinmount, Jan. 1.—What might have been a serious accident happened last Friday. A number of boys were playing hockey on the good ice near the bridge, and one of them, Harry, a son of Mr. Harry Austin, followed the puck out on the ice, which broke, letting him through. It was a sudden, cold bath, but after a time he was able by breaking the ice to reach the boom, and so reached the shore none the worse.

On Monday night Mr. Dan Curtin, flag man on the G.T.R. crossing at Lindsay-st., received painful injuries to his body and was severely cut about the head and face in attempting to stop a team which was about to pass over the tracks.

The men in the rig were to all appearance under the influence of liquor, and headed not the flagman's warning, but rushed onward, knocking Mr. Curtin down and driving over him.

The party drove off at a rapid pace not waiting to ascertain the extent of his injuries. He was driven to his home by Mr. John Meehan, and a physician summoned, who pronounced his case a critical one.
