Wheat and Flour

In connection with the wheat and flour industry of Canada it is interesting to note the growth of the country's transportation facilities. During a period of sixty years Montreal harbor has been so improved that it can now accommodate 15,000-ton steamships, whereas, in the early forties of last century it could only accommodate 500-ton vessels. Twenty-five years ago the Soo canal had neither telegraph nor railway, and if a vessel happened to freeze in there for the winter the crew dared not attempt to get out to civilization. Now there are 50,000,000 tons of freight passing through the canal yearly. The first steamer to load grain at Port Arthur was the Erin in 1882; to-day 75 Canadian steel ships convey 50,000,000 bushels of grain yearly to exporting ocean ports. Within a period of about 30 years Canada has provided herself with a magnificent railway system, and Mr. Rutter observes, "it may with justice be said that Canada's wheat future, so far as it depends on transportation facilities, promises to be bright."

Speaking of transportation facilities, the construction of the Panama Canal is bound to have a very beneficial effect, so far as Canadian business is concerned. The nearest lake port for Alberta shipments is now Fort William, which is 1,400 miles on an average from the wheat district of the province, while the wheat fields of Manitoba and Saskatchewan are located something like 800 miles nearer to that port. From the districts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan the freight rates are 8 or 9 cents per bushel, while those from Alberta are 14 or 15 cents per bushel. Freight rates, however, from points in Alberta to Liverpool via Vancouver are just the same as via Fort William, but there is this advantage—that when the former port is open to traffic the distance to Europe will be cut in half and the freight rates will be greatly reduced. Again, it will be possible to ship grain to Europe all the year round. The recent increase of wheat exports from Vancouver is noteworthy. In 1907, 31,245 bushels of wheat was exported; in 1908, 196,983 bushels, and in 1910, 554,237 bushels.

A True Estimation of a Clever Lindsay Actor by a Well Known Queen's Student

The Warder takes great pleasure in publishing the following letter from a Lindsay young man, Mr. Albert E. O'Neill, who is at present attending Queen's University, Kingston. The letter is an appreciation of the ability of Mr. John Meehan, a well-known Lindsay man who has gained no little renown in the historical art, and who will be seen in Lindsay next Friday night, portraying the difficult part of Father Kelly in "The Rosary." Coming as it does, unsolicited and unexpected, from a young man quite capable of judging as to Mr. Meehan's ability, the letter carries weight. Mr. O'Neill, himself is a young actor of no mean ability, having figured prominently as a member of the Queen's Dramatic Club, an organization which has gained considerable reputation. The letter is as follows:

"I have just had the pleasure of seeing Mr. John Meehan in the role of the Rev. Father Kelly in 'The Rosary,' and cannot forbear expressing the pride which I took in the clever and highly finished interpretation of a difficult character by one of our own Lindsay boys.

which received him on the same plane with other actors, and note the appeal he made to them. He made good and proved himself an actor in the full sense of the word. His dramatic talents were recognized, appreciated and applauded by an audience which is favored by the performances of the best.

"Mr. Meehan, I understand, appears in Lindsay shortly, and I believe The Warder likes to boost a good thing. Here is its opportunity. It will be taking no chances in recommending to the citizens 'The Rosary' as a strong, clean, interesting play, presented by a highly capable company—the best, from the accounts of those who ought to know, that ever produced it, headed by an actor of whom Lindsay has reason to be proud.

"It is my sincere hope that Mr. Meehan will be greeted with a packed house, and that his performance this year will be received with the appreciation and enthusiasm which was accorded him last spring, and which he deserves.

Yours sincerely,
ALBERT E. O'NEILL

Are Large Combines Getting Around Farmers?

A great deal of dissatisfaction prevails among the cattle buyers of this immediate district and the certain methods employed by stock breeders, which, according to the buyers' statements, if continued will result in the inevitable stoppage of shipping to outside markets.

The farmer who has for 25 years been shouting "down with monopolists," is now hand in hand with the great combine, and rendering the requisite assistance to nourish the monster which will bring forth ruin to the stock breeding industry and a careless spirit amongst the young farmers of to-day.

der for the winter, keeps his boys interested in the farm, and teaches one great lesson that every one should possess the knowledge of how to feed at a profit. This feeling is, we are sorry to state, fast disappearing.

"MADE IN LINDSAY" EXHIBITION

The four committees who have taken up the furthering of plans to make the Lindsay mid-winter exhibition a howling success, met last Friday at eight o'clock p.m. in the council chambers. The conclusion arrived at was that many attractions will be furnished the visitors of the fair. These will consist of games and varied sports, which will be carried out on Kent-st., thereby holding the crowd where merchants will receive full benefit of a view of what is going on, and look after the interest of their customers as well. One great feature will be the "Made in Lindsay" exhibits, which will be displayed in the council chamber. Mr. Wm. McComb, in an interview with the Seymour Power Co. was informed that all necessary lights required for decorating purposes, and all work in connection with wiring and installing for the great event, would be of a gratuitous nature from the said company.

Hockey matches will be in progress on the Lindsay-st. rink during the three days, when some of the crack puck-chasers will be on hand to demonstrate the great game to the gathering. The Academy of Music will keep its end of the sports up so that the days and evenings will be one continuous round of revelry and joy. Wonderland will have special pictures to please both young and old, and a feeling will pervade all that during the 14th, 15th and 16th of Feb. life in Lindsay was one continued dream.

The city council of Peterboro, refused to grant the curling club $100 to help defray the expense of entertaining the Scotch curlers.

"All Men Are Liars"—Says Atherly Preacher

Victoria Road, Dec. 21, will long be remembered by the members and friends of Long Point Methodist church. It was the date of their annual pie social and entertainment. With the exception of an opening chorus by the choir, the musical part of the program was rendered by Mr. C. E. Weeks and Mrs. Weeks, of Woodville, and Miss Mosgrove, Miss McKay, and Miss Smith, of Kirkfield. Their singing was much enjoyed and heartily encored by all present.

The event of the evening, however, was the lecture entitled, "All men are Liars," delivered by Rev. C. J. Gall, of Atherly. Mr. Gall introduced his subject by relating how it was first brought to his attention, and then proceeded by saying that all men were in some way leading false lives without realizing the fact. He continued to present his points in good logical order, impressing them upon the minds of his hearers by the use of numerous witty illustrations.

The lecture throughout was to everyone exceedingly instructive, as well as entertaining, and should Mr. Gall ever have occasion to re-visit this community he will find a very warm welcome awaiting him.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather a large crowd was in attendance. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $37. The very interesting program was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem.

Predictions of the Goose Quill Artist

The thermometer dropped to 35 below the zero point at Minden, Cobocook, and different towns in the northern parallels of latitude last Friday. Lindsay kept mercury busy getting a 90 mark, and most citizens were satisfied with the pace set, and asked for no trial heats to prove the record.

Hay Bill, the goose bone authority, asserts positively that before many days a sweeping storm of sleet will come, followed by heavy rains. "Look out," he says, "then for one of the most serene winters imaginable."

The weather conditions, he claims, will be satisfactory to many, until the middle of March.

FRIENDS HUNT STORE GIRLS

Workers' War on White Slave Traffic

The redemption work among shop girls of Toronto carried on by an organized band of workers operating under the direction of the Canadian churches is bringing out the real facts as to the extent of the white slave traffic in Toronto and elsewhere. Convincing evidence of the activity of men and women in procuring young and attractive sales girls has been given to the workers by prominent Toronto women who have been in city stores and watched the agents of the traffic landing victims.

It seems comparatively easy for those engaged in the white slave traffic to get into conversation with the sales girls, according to the statement of a thoroughly trustworthy woman, who gave the facts bearing on one particular case which came under her notice at a store counter. As the circumstances are similar to those in other cases reported, it would appear that the methods adopted are about the same in each case.

Ambition to dress well and appear as attractive as some of their customers is responsible for many a girl's downfall. Such a girl is usually unwary and easily influenced by any man who engages her in conversation, first about a purchase here makes, following it up with an invitation to spend an evening at one of the places of amusement.

How a man and woman rescued a girl in a store was related by the wife of a high official of a church and a deaconess who were present, and overheard a conversation at a store counter and afterwards performed rescue work outside the hall to which the salesgirl was invited. This victim of the traffic had been given candies, which caused her to become unconscious, while being taken to a place of refuge by the deaconess who had saved her.

During the Christmas season there was brought to the attention of the workers the operations of a man who was active in the large stores, getting in touch with a possible victim. This is only the preliminary stage in the practice of procuring. One of Toronto's lady doctors heard a conversation with a sales girl and then tracked the man from counter to counter and then to another store. A full description of the man has been obtained from the doctor, who is assisting the authorities to help stamp out the evil.

The most recent case which has come to light also names a store girl as the victim. It is said the girl was taken away in a cab Saturday night after the shopping-hour by an agent of the white slave traffic, who engaged her in conversation and got her to enter the cab on some pretence. The girl, it is claimed, was not at the store yesterday, and her absence, coupled with the manner of her departure Saturday night, made the other clerks suspect kidnapping. Staff Inspector George Kennedy and Detective-Sergeant A. G. Mackie stated last night that they had no official knowledge of the disappearance of this particular girl. They had not been asked to investigate the case or find such a girl as spoken of.

"THE COURT OF KING COLE."

Another splendid rehearsal of the above amateur production was held last night and everything augurs well for two excellent performances on Jan. 30 and 31, and it is expected and hoped that there will be packed houses. The production, which is along the lines of a musical extravaganza, will be worth seeing. It is tuneful and pretty, while the musical numbers are of the very best. It is not exaggeration to state that "The Court of King Cole" from a purely "show" viewpoint has not been surpassed in the history of amateur productions as a delightful dramatic comedy in this country. It's quips, it's jokes, it's humorous lines, it's catchy melodies and novelty of its character drawing combine to make it an entertainment distinctive from any other submitted for the approval of the theatre patrons. It is genuinely humorous, it is thoroughly refined, it is gorgeously costumed. The characters are taken from their nooks in Mother Goose lore and transplanted into a modern extravaganza. They are enacted by adults. The lines and parodies upon Mother Goose verses and characters with an up-to-date application.

Missionary From China Gave Address

An excellent and interesting address was given the members of St. Andrew's church Thursday by the talented and clever speaker, Miss Agnes Dickson, B.A., of Fenelon Falls, who for the past seven years has been engaged in China missionary fields.

Miss Dixon, whose missionary work is in the interests of the Presbyterian doctrine, has headquarters at Koiung Mun, which is situated seventy miles from Hong Kong.

The speaker was listened to with marked attention by her hearers, whom she mystified with her many experiences in the land of the celestial. The points embraced and spoken of by the clever young lady were concerning the educational, evangelistical and medical work done by the missionaries among the Chinese.

The attendance was large, and the subjects of such a nature that the assembly left the church, speaking in the highest terms of the excellence of the subjects, and the beautiful delivery of the orator.

Miss Dickson is home on furlough, and will not return to China before next summer.

Bethany Young Man Leaves for Thorold

SHEPHERD-NEEDLER CONTEST.

Orillia curlers won the Shepherd-Needler cup last year, but this year the Lindsay curlers retain the trophy by a majority of nine points. The four Lindsay rinks at Orillia finished 13 down, while the four rinks at home saved the day and won the cup by being 27 points to the good.

Joe. Gallipeau, a prisoner from Sudbury, slipped from the handcuffs attaching him to another prisoner, and made a break on the depot platform at Kingston. He was caught.

Former Lindsay Man Makes Money on Real Estate Deal

The following clipping taken from a Vancouver daily may interest some of Lindsay's citizens, as the party mentioned in the real estate deal was a resident of this town about 30 years ago. Mr. Reynolds was a clever musician and profited by his ability in the art after settling in the west. He is related to Mr. Daniel O'Connell, of Lindsay.

Mr. Joseph Reynolds, Vancouver's pioneer musician and leader of the city band away back in 1887-8, has just disposed of his residence on Homer-st. The growth of the city's business district has crowded him out, and a Winnipeg syndicate required the property for a large apartment house, that is to be erected on the site in the spring. There was just one cypher difference between the purchase price paid for the lot over 15 years ago and the figure at which he disposed of it yesterday—but that cypher made a big difference, for it was on the right end. The lot was bought for just $2,500. The Winnipeg syndicate paid Mr. Reynolds $25,000 for the property—and they were getting it cheap at that."

BLEED TO DEATH. CUT HIS LEG WHILE SETTING OUT SOME TRAPS.

Bancroft Times: Charley Droche, an eccentric character, well known to nearly everyone in Bancroft and vicinity, cut his leg, near the ankle, while setting out some traps in the township of Cardiff, where he had been living lately, and bled to death. After the accident occurred he tried to get to the residence of Sidney Woodcock, where he had been stopping, and when found by a couple of men, who happened to hear his cries, he was so weak from the loss of blood, that he has hardly able to crawl. He was carried to the house where he died shortly afterwards.

There is a more hopeful outlook in the British cotton strike, but the outlook in regard to the proposed strike of miners is gloomy.
