

All Run Down

ITHIS is a common expression we hear on every side. Unless there is some organic trouble, the condition can doubtless be remedied. Your doctor is the best adviser. Do not dose yourself with all kinds of advertised remedies—get his opinion. More than likely you need a concentrated fat food to enrich your blood and tone up the system.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

Is just such a food in its best form. It will build up the weakened and wasted body when all other foods fail to nourish. If you are run down or emaciated, give it a trial; it cannot hurt you. It is essentially the best possible nourishment for delicate children and pale, anaemic girls. We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

VARIOUS BRANCHES OF THE POULTRY BUSINESS—HOW TO HANDLE A SMALL FLOCK.

In the realm of poultrydom there is provision made for the tastes and requirements of all classes from the free-hearted sport to the thoughtful money-maker. And it is the privilege of all who are interested in the feathered beauties to enter the culture of fowl at the point most attractive to them.

There is, as it were, a great edifice with various open doors, each one written upon to indicate the character of the compartment into which it leads so that none need enter without some idea of the nature of the interior. Thus the door marked "Sport" would naturally attract the pleasure-seeker. The entrance on which was written "Profit" would appeal to the pursuer of gain. "Women's department" would be a popular one. And with other entrances to this poultry structure there is sufficient diversity to supply the whole demand. The more enterprising need not confine himself to one door, but by entering others he may combine pleasure and profit.

Now there are a great many who know nothing of the business of interest and competition which exists among poultry men, even failing to see in chickens any ground for interest. They know only doubtless fail to believe there was any idea of pleasure to be derived from the great realm of poultrydom. Poultry, however, in its different branches afford a pleasant hobby to thousands in all walks of life. There are sports who revel in the game at the "cock-pit," and though we do not approve of the cruelties of the pit, which are intensified by the use of the steel spur, yet it proves the capacity of chickendom to cater to different tastes, even to the extreme of a cruel and vitalizing sport. To him of more refined and nobler taste, there is abundant pleasure in attending and rearing the scores of fancy breeds, ranging in variety from the great muffed Cochon to the ornamental bantams.

And what is more attractive to the lover of birds than the well-attended yard of pure-breeds, be they what color or breed you may. In the hands of the skilled in their care and breeding, they are at once beautiful and valuable, affording a hobby not to be despised by anyone.

Notwithstanding the possibilities of the hen as a source of sport and pleasure, and though thousands are her devotees in these respects, the profit to be obtained is one of the greatest and most general objects in the keeping of fowl. While so many are convinced of the profitableness of fowl we are continually hearing of the difficulties and discouragements which are in the way. However, we are glad to note that these waves of "cold water" merge from such sources as the following instances: "A" decides to try hen business. He thinks he is wise enough to "run hens" without knowing any more about them. He constructs the house so tight that he is sure it will be warm and snug. Even the window is on the most convenient side, regardless of sunshine. It is for light only, and certainly fills the bill. Along the same line of "guessing" he purchases fowl. Anything will do. He wants eggs, and says he, "culls" will lay more eggs than pure-breeds, and cost less to start on." And he starts, and goes easy, too, for his course is downward. He has not even thought of "poultry journal," which would surprise him with ideas of ventilation, proper feeding and the hundred and one things that go to make the business pleasant and profitable. His first "hen fever" takes a chill by the appearance of a damp hen house, followed by rumpy and dying hens with "no eggs left in their will."

He has no thought of lice. However, they did not forget to come, and being added liberally to the chill condition is deplorable. Having no journal to instruct he knows nothing of feeding for eggs. Knows nothing of setters and non-setters. He wants eggs, but has not the egg-producing breeds. At times he is pestered with a great surplus of broodies and only needs to reach the point of comparing receipts and expenditures to cause him to kill off and drop out. And be sure that he is another source of that "cold wave" "no money in 'em." But there are men who have ignorantly dabbled in the great cattle industry of our country and are also interested in the "A" that is no good. Whereas others have fished on the revenue therefrom.

Where, then, is the secret of success? Let us look at poultryman "B." In the first place "B" is a thinker and an industrious fellow. Two of the strong points in the secrets of success in the hen business. He loves his birds and is keenly interested in them. And if the reader can not create in himself an interest in the welfare of his birds, we say sell out and waste no further effort.

"B" being interested in his stock is alive to any literature that comes his way. His poultry journal is the mail that is eagerly looked for, and its pointers are read and thought over and acted upon. When difficulties arise he is full of the knowledge and vim which soon removes them. No effort for the constant well-being of his birds is too great for him. And if one desires to learn what thinking and energy will do in the hen business, it will pay him to pay good attention to some of "Bee's" methods.

He has concluded that 50 hens is the number which he can attend properly. And he also has accommodation to rear for market 200 chicks annually. He is after eggs and market fowl. Until he wishes to raise a larger number than 200, he is positive that by his method he is ahead by using hens to do his incubating and brooding.

His thinking, reading and experience have taught him that the "meat breeds," such as "Rocks," "Wyandottes" and "Orpingtons" are the breeds for market fowl. The yellow legs and flesh of Rocks and Dottes always getting the preference in the Canadian market, while the egg breeds and non-setters, such as Minorcas, Leghorns and Andalusians are pre-eminent the breeds for eggs.

In order to produce 200 chicks he keeps over each year twenty females of the "meat breed," pure bred, that he may sell some settings at good prices in hatching season and also produce good stock for his own 200.

These twenty hens are also his incubators and brooders, and it is needless to say that they receive proper care and accommodation, during the performance of their domestic duties, a description of which would be too lengthy for this essay.

After brooding is over each hen is returned to laying quarters, where a good supply of summer eggs is looked for, and also some winter eggs. And thus these incubator, brooder and layer combinations are quite profitable. For the egg branch of this little business he keeps 20 non-setters, pure bred, from which he does a fair share in the "eggs for hatching line," at paying prices.

These birds are urged to lay to their full capacity, especially when eggs are high in price. And by this careful selection of breeders and the general care bestowed upon them it is surprising how prolific they are. His methods of housing, yarding, feeding and so on would form a useful essay in themselves.

Every second year he replaces his twenty "meat" producers by pullets from the 200 chickens, and hatches also each second year enough pullets to replace his layers. Offering his cockerels and surplus pullets from said hatches as breeders, and also his saleable breeders of both sexes from his meat stock.

This plan of "B's" may be modified or enlarged to suit circumstances and if a corresponding amount of attention is applied by anyone else, he will be unaffected by the cold waves which are ever and anon poured upon the hen.

Mr. B. Towley went north on a business trip on Monday afternoon.

Miss Fitzgerald of Parry Sound is visiting friends at the Falls.

Mr. John McArthur last Monday day on a visit to friends in eastern points.

The London Bioscope Co. gave a couple of entertainments of moving pictures, which were well attended.

Mr. T. D. Bell, of Wycliffe College, conducted services at St. James' and St. Peter's last Sunday most ably. He has received the call of the congregation and is likely to accept and the prevalent opinion is that he will fill the position splendidly.

The sale of newspapers and magazines of the past library took place on Monday evening. It was well attended and good prices were realized, which is encouraging to those interested in this great benefit to the people of Fenelon Falls.

The Women's Institute drew a large number of ladies out last Saturday to a most interesting meeting.

Rev. Arthur Lea, M.A., returned missionary from Japan delivered a most interesting lecture in St. James' church last Thursday evening. The lecture was illustrated and the views shown were decidedly good. Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., of Bobcaygeon conducted a short service at the opening and close of the lecture. The attendance was not what it should have been, which was a matter of regret, as the lecture was a treat and one frequently to be enjoyed in Fenelon Falls.

Some idea of the mild weather can be gained from the fact that upon Saturday last, January 27th, Mr. Jos. Ouillet and some other local sports enjoyed a good game of lacrosse.

Mr. Wm. McCarthy was confined to the house for a few days last week with an attack of pleurisy, but we are pleased to state, is now able to be at work again.

At the close of the prayer meeting in St. Andrew's church last Thursday evening, Mr. A. Sutherland was surprised by the members of his Bible class and the teachers of the Sunday school waiting upon him and presenting him with a handsome suit case. Mr. Sutherland in his capacity of Bible class leader and S. S. superintendent is much esteemed, as he is in every walk of life, and those under his instruction felt it a very great pleasure to make him even a very small gift as a slight expression of their esteem for him. His Bible class is large, and each member feels that to him they owe many good impulses. A short address was read by Miss F. C. Brandon, and the case presented by Mr. F. Robson. Though completely taken by surprise, Mr. Sutherland replied in a most feeling manner.

Another pleasant little event took place at the home of Mr. Wm. McKendry on Friday evening. Over a dozen of the congregation of St. Andrew's acting as a delegation, met and presented Mr. Arch. McKendry with a handsome trunk and suit case prior to his departure for Toronto.

For many years this most highly esteemed young man has been secretary of the Sunday school, and a most valuable assistant in the choir. His departure will be a distinct loss to the congregation and they all wish him prosperity and happiness in his new home. He left on Saturday afternoon and his many friends hope to hear good accounts of him in the future.

(Too late for insertion last week.)

Miss Violetta McKendry has been visiting her brother Mr. W. J. McKendry, Lindsay, for the past week. Mr. Wm. McArthur went up to Toronto on Monday for a few days.

Mr. John McArthur returned home on Monday at noon.

The carnival of the season was held in the skating rink here on last Wednesday evening. It was well attended with about thirty in costume. The costumes were decidedly good and it is to be regretted there were not more of them. The ice was splendid and those who spent time enjoyed themselves immensely, as well as the spectators. The hockey match was also most interesting and the evening taken all in all, could certainly be termed a success.

Mr. Chambers is a most obliging and kind man, and he got up another carnival this season, but there should be more than three score in fancy costume instead of less than three dozen.

The news of the serious accident to Miss M. Koyl, of Lindsay, a student at the O.L.C., Whitby, was received at the Falls with deep regret. Miss Koyl has visited at Mrs. H. McHougall's here several times, and during her visits made many friends who hope soon to hear that she is recovering.

The Sabbath Day Saints are securing an organ for their church, which no doubt, will add very greatly to the interest of their services.

Death has once again paid a visit to our community. This time it visited the home of Mrs. John Mark. Her son, W. H. Mark, had been a sufferer for long time. On the 29th day of January he died. He was born in the township of Fenelon some twenty-seven years ago. He lived for a number of years in the township and at quite an early age learned the business of cheesemaker. AGONIZING NEURALGIA.
DUE TO POOR, WEAK BLOOD—DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS WILL INSURE A CURE.

Neuralgia is the surest sign that your whole system is weak and unstrung. Those sharp, stabbing pains are caused by your jangled nerves. But your nerves would not be jangled if your blood was pure and strong. You can't cure neuralgia by liniments or hot applications. They may relieve for a moment—but they can't possibly cure. You can never cure neuralgia until you enrich your blood and brace your starved nerves with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make new blood. They soothe the nerves and strengthen the whole system. They strike right at the cause of agonizing neuralgia. Mr. John McDermott, Bond Hea, Ont., says: "As the result of a wetting, I was seized with pains in all parts of my body. I consulted a doctor, who told me the trouble was neuralgia. He treated me for some time but did not help me. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. By the time I had taken three boxes, there was a good improvement in my case, and after I pain had disappeared, I had gained ten pounds in weight, every ache and pain in my body had gone, and I felt better in every way. I shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Somerville Council Proceedings.
Somerville council met on January 29th with all members present, and the reve in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The following communications were laid before the council: Moved by Mr. Kennedy, seconded by Mr. Smith that D. Eaghson be appointed auditor.

The treasurer was instructed to see after the sinking fund security.

The clerk was ordered to subscribe for the Municipal World as usual. A number of accounts were passed. Mr. George Train was appointed treasurer, after which council adjourned to meet on February 24th.

People who tell you that there is no money in raising chicks may have tried to make money in the business by using setting hens as hatchers, and they might as well have tried to locate a gold mine in the cabbage patch. The business of a hen is—to lay eggs. As a hatcher and brooder she is out-classed. That's the business of the Chatham Incubator and Brooder, and they do it perfectly and successfully.

The poultry business, properly conducted, pays far better than any other business for the amount of time and money invested.
