Next Sunday is in some respects one of the gladdest of all the Christian festivals, Easter. It comes at a time when the resurrection of nature is in harmony with and seems to symbolize the doctrine of the resurrection of the body.

If the Legislature and the people of Ontario do not know that Mr. Allan Studholme, the member for East Hamilton, is a workingman by this time, it is not because he has not told it often enough in the House. With all due respect to manual labor, and the man who labors with his hands is entitled to much honor, there are a great many men in the Ontario Legislature and in the House of Commons who toil as vigorously perhaps not in the same line, as Mr. Studholme. It is questionable if he has done the cause of labor which he represents any good by his pushing himself forward on every possible occasion.

The Advance in the Price of Watchman-Warder

Some three months before the end of last year the publishers of the Watchman-Warder announced and kept the announcement constantly in the advertising columns till the end of the year,-attention being called to it a number of times editoriallythat the price of the paper would be raised to one dollar a year to everybody on the 1st of January, 1907. It had previously been 75 cents to points within twenty miles of Lindsay, but in order that the change might not be felt to have been made too quickly, the privilege of continuing at 75 cents for one or two years was offered provided all arrears, if any, were paid up, and the amount for the additional period paid before the 1st of January, 1907. New subscribers were also given the opportunity of obtaining the paper for the same period if paid before the date referred to. The offer was not made on condition of prepayment in advance for this year after the beginning af the year, some seem to have understood. A few have dropped the paper because they have not been able to secure it at 75 cents since the 1st of January, but a had to be set for raising th rate, which was an absolute necessity if the paper is not to be published at a loss, owing to the advance in the price of material and labor. The publishers would have been justified in making the rate one dollar in advance, and $1.25 if not so paid, but the latter condition has not been imposed, though most publishers do add the 25 cents, or even more, if advance payment is not made. The Watchman-Warder is the only weekly newspaper in the Province known to have been published at a regular rate of 75 cents. The ordinary country weekly, between which and this paper there is no comparison as to cost of production, is a dollar. The follow-
