as the procession entered the church, the dead march in "Saul" played by the organist, Miss Leary. Referring to the deceased Mr. Marsh said that life passes quickly were held. The funeral was conwhether it is threescore or fourscore case. Mr. Bryans saw Lindsay when it was only a small village, and he had known every incumbent of the Church of England, here. The prayerbook from which Mr. Marsh read the service was purchased by Mr. Bryans from Rev. John Hickey, the first incumbent of the Lindsay church. The book is well preserved and is a relic which will be highly esteemed. The service was impressive, the hymn "Thy Will be Done," being touchingly sung by the choir at the close. The procession then went to Riverside, where the last rites were performed and the interment took

Mr. John Bryans was born in the county of Fermanagh, Ireland, Oct. 11, 1803. He came to this country with his family in 1847, their destination being in the county of Cavan. There he left his wife and children at Mr. Robert Bryans, and went to look for land to settle upon. He went up through to the Owen Souns section, there being no roads in those days. He came back, however, and picked out a lot in the McLEAN-GROSS .- On Wednesday, township of Ops on Hill Head. His first wife was Prudence Downey, and when they came to Canada there were four children, Margaret who became Mrs. James McGahey, now residing on the 14th concession, Emily township; Jane, who married Mr. Wm. McGahey but now deceased; Prudence, who on arrival at Quebec had smallpox, had to go to quarantine, and died there. This was a very sad experience in a strange land, after a voyage such as immigrants experienced in those days. Besides these three daughters there was a son, Mr. James Bryans, now of Morden, Man. Another daughter was born to them soon after they arrived here, and she was called prudence; she is dead. Some time after coming to this country Mrs. Bryans died.

Mr. Bryans second wife was Mrs. May, of Belleville, a cousin of his first wife, who only lived about three years after their marriage.

About 28 years ago he married the widow of the late Samuel Budd, of Fenelon, who survives him. She then had a young child, whom they gave the Bryans name. Her Christian name is Lottie, and about a year ago she was married to Mr. B. J. Finley. They reside in Pet-/ erborough.

Mrs. Bryans will reside in Lindsay. She keenly mourns the death of her husband. The surviving members of the two
