Richeson Said He Was Ready To Pay Penalty

Boston, May 21.—Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson was electrocuted at 12.17 this morning. The current was turned on at 12.10.01 and the and the prisoner was declared dead at 12.17.08.
The former Baptist clergyman confessed poisoner of Avis Linnell, of Hyannis, his one-time sweetheart, was outwardly calm when he entered the death chamber and he maintained his composure while the straps and electrodes were being adjusted as he sat in the electric chair. A genuine desire that the last hour of his earthly existence might come speedily was apparently the dominating thought in the mind of Richeson. The young Virginian completely reconciled to his fate and courageously faced the future.
"I will be ready when you want me warden," he said to Warden Bridges when that official paid him a brief visit. And he added: "Do not worry, I shall not break down."
Faithful to his promise, Richeson in his general bearing and in his conversation with his two spiritual advisers who never left him alone for a moment during the last few days, bore up well through his last day on earth. He even was cheerful as he sang some favorite hymns. Then he would read from the Psalms and his expositions of the lessons were referred to by the chaplain as wonderfully eloquent and learned.
No relative of the former minister consoled with him in his last hours. His aged father in Virginia was too feeble to stand the journey and the strain. His sister in New York State did not wish to have her last thought of her brother associated with a death cell.

Boston, Mass., May 21.—"I have made my peace with God; I am resigned to my fate. I wish now to go to my death as soon as possible, the quicker the better."
These words spoken by Clarence V. T. Richeson, former Baptist minister and the confessed slayer of Avis Linnell, to Rev. Herbert H. Johnson, his spiritual adviser, expressed the mental condition of the condemned man, who has paid for his crime in the electric chair.
Part of the conversation was of meditative and religious nature, and part was reminiscent. The prisoner reviewed countless incidents of his boyhood in Virginia; his college days at Liberty, Mo., furnished further topics as did also his experience at Newton Theological Institution and in his various pastorates.
When the hour of execution arrived, Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, as his spiritual adviser proceeded him in the short walk from the death cell to the electric chair. Three physicians, the prison doctor, the medical examiner of the county and the surgeon-general of the commonwealth attended as legal witnesses. The prison chaplain, as an officer of the prison and a friend of the condemned man was also entitled to attend.
Besides these there were three witnesses, designated by the warden, and three other witnesses, representatives of the three press organizations. Late on Saturday it was learned that Richeson had requested that his counsel, Wm. A. Morse, be present at the execution but the warden was compelled to deny the request owing to the fact that the number of witnesses permitted by law had all been arranged for.
Surgeons and medical societies eager to gain some knowledge from the post-mortem examination of the unusual subject have applied for the brain and spinal cord of the victim of the death chair, but these will all be refused.
Richeson was deeply pleased when told yesterday that his father had promised that his body should lie beside that of his mother in the family lot on Richeson Mountain in Amherst Courthouse, Virginia.

Others said to be Mixed up in Shooting of "Lew" Porter—A Man From the North Interviewed—Porter Had Many Enemies

A north country man was in town on Monday and in conversation with a Warder reporter gave out some information bearing on the recent shooting fatality, when "Lew" Porter was shot by A. Ellis in Lutterworth township. He said in part:
"I knew both Porter and Ellis well, having attended school with the murdered man. I also met him in the winter time in lumber camps and on the drive in the spring. He was a well-formed man of athletic build and would weigh about 180 pounds."
Our informant claimed that Porter was not an aggressive person or one who would impose upon a neighbor or any person else, but would not submit to being trampled upon. The stories of his having been guilty of acts of violence such as burning buildings and killing cattle were all trumped up charges.
The shooting of a horse was another deal that he was mixed up in which was accounted for in this building. The new curtain and several sets of scenery are to be used for the first time before an Omeme audience.

Remember the garden party the first week in June at Mount Horeb, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Omeme Presbyterian church.
There's a noticeable stir and increase of street population this last week, due, no doubt, to the movements of a bunch of telephone men who are building a new line to the north and to the power line-men, who are working northeast of the town.

Mr. Joseph Lowe, of Mount Pleasant, made a business call on Saturday.
Mr. Wm. Magee has improved his residential property by the construction of an addition.

Concentrating the interview one would conclude that Porter was more sinned against than sinner, and that on the day when he received the message of death he was going to render assistance to his aged father by way of helping to cut up a supply of wood for the summer and was returning to his traps. That the assassin was in ambush is said to be conclusive and that Porter never fired a shot, is the general opinion back north as he had only two cartridges in his possession when he left the home of his parents, and those, it is claimed, were found in his pocket when discovered in the seclusion of the forest behind a turned up tree. Suspicion rests upon others who will in all probability receive the measure of the law.
The party interviewed said many of the country people through the northern district never attend church and are sorely in need of Christianity. He said they forget everything which has a tendency to elevate man, and hence the depravity of their conduct and the vile and unforseen methods they employ to seek redress.

Bachelors To Give a Concert at Omeme

Omeme, May 20.—Everybody is welcome to the evening meeting of the Bachelors' congress on Victoria Day. The variety of delegates, their quaint dress and their interesting parts before the footlights should produce abundant entertainment for a space of about three hours. The suffragettes (militant) of Omeme, have resolved to attend in a body and occupy the front seats of the lower floor, where they will so annoy and disturb the convention that they believe the bachelors will be forced to allow them a part in the proceedings. A lively scene is anticipated and the bachelors promise not to decamp. Doors open at 7 o'clock, the convention begins at 8 p.m., after which no one will be permitted to enter the hall except by passport from constable Zeb West, who will be on special duty in the
