Strathroy Collegiate Has Housed Many Notable Men.

An antiquated, moss-covered ruin of ancient hisorical associations always induces a sad and reverent mood, but a visit to the old schoolhouse of one's youth, ugly and dilapidated though it may be, and bare and unadorned, will excite emotions even more intense, as the thought of ambitious struggles, of contests lost and won, and of friends long since forgotten, awakens in the

There are many such old school buildings in Ontario to-day, but, one by one, they are falling into disuse, and yielding place to new and finer structures. Among the oldest of these is the Strathroy Collegiate Institute building, which has been in existence for about forty years, and from which during that period have gone forth into all parts of the world many men and women who are playing leading roles in life's great drama.

Aid For Farmers. More than $2,500,000 is expended ment of Agriculture in carrying ou work in the interest of the farming community. This large amount of money is divided among several branches to carry on the special duties with which they are entrusted. The experimental farms seek to solve problems in all phases of agriculture, etc.; the seed branch works to encourage the use of only good seed; the live stock branch endeavors to increase the profits of the swek-raise:; the health of animals branch aims to protect our herds and flocks from disease; the dairy and cold storage branch does much to help the dairymen and fruit growers, while the tobacco division endeavors to find out the crop in Canada. While all, unconsciously, perhaps, reap benefits from this work, much of it, more especially that of an investigational nature, is useful only to those who learn for themselves the lessons from investigations that are carried on. By the use of reports and bulletins the several branches of the Department give out the results of their work, so that all who wish to do so may profit by it. The publications are sent out to all persons who apply for them, or to be put on the mailing list. Pamphlet copies are available to those who apply for them to the publication branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.
