JAS. LOW,

Forage Crops

Nearly every summer we hear the same old story of midsummer droughts and consequently scanty pastures. Many of our best farmers have learned to guard against loss by having a supply of succulent feed to fall back on in case the pasture fails. A small silo, filled especially for summer use, will go a long way to meet the difficulty and a partial system of soiling has also found favor among progressive stockmen. The live stock commissioner, Mr. F. W. Hodson has frequently drawn attention to the advisability of growing some green crops for summer feeding, and has recommended a number of such crops as suitable for general growth, but only personal experience will enable a farmer to select the varieties of fodder plants best suited to his requirements. It will be necessary to consider the most suitable crops to grow and the periods during which each will be available. Rye, clover, rape, peas and oats, vetches, millet, sorghum and corn will afford a satisfactory supply of green feed all through the summer if sowings are made at suitable intervals.

Rye and Alfalfa Rye sown in the fall will furnish the earliest feed in the spring, but as grass is usually abundant at that time, this crop is not likely to be needed unless a complete system of soiling be practised. The clovers, where they grow well, come next on the list and will provide an abundance of good feed during the latter half of June. Where it is possible to grow lucerne or alfalfa, it wi,1 be found the best of all spring crops. PRES. REESOR'S SPEECH

At the Convention of Electricians Mr. B. F. Reesor Talked of Municipal Ownership

In its report of the Canadian Electrical Association in Toronto last week the Globe says :

In his annual address the president Mr. F. B. Reesor, congratulated the members upon the favorable circumstances under which they were meeting. He pointed out that during the year the question of long-distance power transmission had engrossed the minds of capitalists to a greater degree perhaps than at any previous period in the history of the country. Rapid strides had been made in development in this direction and at the present time some very extensive plants were contemplated or under construction, notably around the Niagara peninsula and when completed Canada could boast of having some of the largest and best equipped electrical installations in the world.

Mr. Reesor asked the members not to lose sight of the fact that the tide of municipal ownership was in full flow, and they learned of individuals and municipal councils with whom it had become considerable of a craze, or in other words a case of "municipalities gone mad." During all this turmoil of unrest they must not forget that vested interests were at stake and must be looked after. Millions of money had been invested in this country by individuals and companies in lighting and power development, sanctioned, and in many instances induced, by the very municipal corporations that were now clamoring after or looking with longlive stock, but like other clovers it ing and covetous eyes at a business is likely to cause bloating if ware- that had been carried from an experimental stage until it had become tario is usually stands the winter to all appearances a factor of considerable importance in everyday
