COMMENDS ACTION OF HON. COL. HUGHES

f'Here and There" in the Stratford Herald: It was with pleasure that I read the other day that Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia , had decided to banish the liquor canteens from the training camps of the volunteers. Perhaps there is nothing that has done more to degenerate our soldiers than whiskey, and it is seldom that we meet an old soldier and find that he is not addicted to drink. A soldier of the regular army is so removed from the restraining influences of home that it is perhaps not surprising that he indulges himself whenever the opportunity occurs, as the excitement of a spree of this kind breaks the monotony of an otherwise strict form of life controlled by an unbreakable set of rules. The tendency on the part of many of our volunteers to indulge in the same way is perhaps owing to the same reason. The excitement of breaking the restraint under which he lives at camp appeals to a certain class of boy who attends the camp in large numbers, and who thinks that he is out for a lark. If the whole temptation is removed, then I think the good sense of our Canadian volunteer will see resented there.
