Fineness is a necessary quality of a talcum that is to be used as a toilet powder. If too coarse, it is apt to be irritating rather than soothing and healing.

RED ROSE TALCUM is of impalpable fineness. It is ground to the finest possible degree, boiled and then air-floated. It is combined with healing antiseptics and daintily perfumed. Packages are larger than other powders at same price.

Mr. Chas. Britton Passes Away

As to the honesty of the people at this time a word may be said. There was little or no trouble collecting accounts, as people lived within their means, and many of the emigrants had sufficient money to keep them for years. They were not mendicants or paupers, as some would endeavor to establish. Many of the merchants later did a large business in trading goods for wheat, oats, skins, and other farm produce.

THE FIRE OF '61.
The fire in 1861 was a memorable event in the history of Lindsay, and one in which the deceased took no little part. The fire started about 12 o'clock noon in a frame house next to where the residence of Dr. Blanchard now stands. The wind raised as the fire gained headway, and played its pranks eastward, until nothing inflammable remained; down by the mill the fire swept the bridge and Mr. Britton's then westward on Kent-st. to William-st., where some buildings were completed and more in course of erection, licking them all up. One little log house remained in Peel-st., on the property where the Presbyterian Church now stands. This was owned by a widow named Murphy.

A NEW LINDSAY.
Before long the citizens set to work with renewed vigor and rebuilt, and once more the town forged ahead. The population at this time might have been 400 persons. No lives were lost, but many narrow escapes were chronicled. Mr. Britton was badly burned around the hands and face that day.

In those days a boy did not have to serve much time learning business. The deceased served about one year with Mr. Keenan, and then started for himself in the store which he occupied until his demise, handling goods in a general way; drugs, hardware, cutlery, jewelry, etc.

Spraying to Destroy The Dandelions

Probably no weed attracts more attention at this time of the year than the homely dandelion. Everywhere laws are to be seen yellow with this pest. Later, when the seeds are ripe, they are still more unsightly. Spudding dandelions from the lawn is a laborious and unprofitable task. Some easier and more effective method has long been looked for. In last year's trials a twenty per cent solution of iron sulphate was used. This was prepared by dissolving two pounds of iron sulphate in each gallon of water. This solution was applied with a knapsack sprayer in the form of a fine spray just after the first few dandelions in the plots came into flower. Forty-eight hours after the application of the solution, the leaves of the dandelions were found to be blackened and burned. The burned and withered leaves were raked off and the plots left for about two weeks, when the dandelions were seen to be sending up new leaves. Another spraying was then given with the same results. A careful watch was kept on the plots, and it was found necessary to spray them six times during the season in order to prevent the leaves getting a start. This spring the plots were closely observed and the results of last year's sprayings noted. Each plot contained one hundred and sixty-eight square feet. The dandelions in these sprayed plots and in the unsprayed check plot were counted. In plot number one there were one hundred and thirty dandelions; in plot number two, one hundred and forty-one dandelions; and in plot number three, ninety-one. In the check plot (unsprayed) there were approximately eight thousand four hundred dandelions. These figures show that over ninety-eight per cent of the dandelions in the plots were destroyed by spraying six times with a twenty per cent solution of iron sulphate. Some of our correspondents who sprayed their lawns last year with iron sulphate, also report success. In our experiments here no permanent harm was done to the grass. It looked blackened and discolored just after the spraying, but in a few days was as green as ever. This spring the grass is greener and more luxuriant on the sprayed plots than on the unsprayed plot.

The results warrant giving spraying with iron sulphate a trial on lawns that are badly infested with dandelions. Prepare a twenty per cent solution of iron sulphate by dissolving two pounds of iron sulphate in each gallon of water. Apply this solution with a hand sprayer or a watering can with a very fine nozzle. See that all the dandelions are thoroughly drenched with the solution. Rake off the blackened leaves two or three days after spraying and in dry weather, if possible, thoroughly water the lawn. Six applications at least will be necessary.

Spraying with iron sulphate is not very expensive. The iron sulphate may be obtained retail at from two to three cents a pound, or wholesale at a cent a pound. Forty pounds of iron sulphate, costing wholesale one cent a pound, will make twenty gallons of the solution, which is enough to spray at least one-eighth of an acre, so that if a lawn this size is sprayed six times during the season the cost for material will be only two dollars and forty cents if the iron sulphate is purchased wholesale.—The Canadian Horticulturist.

HERE IS MORE PROOF OF QUICK CURE FOR ALL FOLKS THAT ARE WEAK, AILING, NERVOUS.

MORE PRAISE FOR DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge, of Bloomsbury. "The heat had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctors told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

GLITTER OF AUTOS.

In reference to the passing of a by-law to reduce the glitter of automobiles brought in by Coun. Morrison, Coun. Tompkins thought no man should be compelled to darken up his machine to please any person. "If he wishes to have a glitter let him have it."

A DANGEROUS STRUCTURE

Coun. Hill spoke of the Head River bridge in his locality, which they had to build a fence across the road to prevent the people from being drowned. "The water runs over this bridge for 400 feet. The structure is on Head River and many children were incapacitated from attending school on account of the high water in spring."

Coun. Varcoe—"I have every sympathy for people with bridges as Mr. Hill speaks of, but we have no money to repair bridges."

Moved by Coun. Robertson, seconded by Coun. Varcoe, that no action be taken in this matter.—Carried.

A BAD ROAD.

A grant for the boundary line between Bexley and Laxton was asked for by Coun. Chirpaw. "I would like to get $200 from the county."

Coun. Southern said the road was as it was thirty years ago and only room for a wagon track. "It is impossible to get a threshing machine through and we cannot keep up three townships without aid from the county or government."

Coun. McKee—"I know the situation and we do not business at the wrong end and we are now increasing our expenditures. I know the wants of the north country. At the beginning of the year we make grants too readily to poultry shows, regiments and every other thing that comes along. It would be more in keeping with this council to assist those men than giving it to parties who are not so well entitled."

Moved by Coun. Chirpaw, seconded by Coun. Southern, that we get a grant of $200 towards the road. The motion was lost by a majority of four.

SPEED OF HORSES.

Coun. Tiers brought in a motion to regulate the speed of single horses passing over the Fenelon Falls bridge. The revee said it was a was swung. "A light horse and rig hold up for rigs when the bridge should be permitted to drive as rapidly as an automobile."

Some members of the council thought that the caretaker of the Fenelon Falls bridge should be dismissed if he was not doing his duty. The revee stated that some parties could trot over the bridge, while others were fined for such infraction of the law.

The following out of the plan of painting bridges every five years should be carried out, and on motion the Hobeageon bridge will receive a coat of paint.

Brown's bridge in Emily was inspected by the engineer and no action was taken.

Coun. Southern will look after Victoria bridge, while an engineer will report on the Eldon bridge.

A COLD However Slight MAY TURN INTO BRONCHITIS.

You should never neglect a cold, however slight. If you do not treat it in time it will, in all possibility, develop into bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, or some other serious throat or lung trouble.

On the first sign of a cold or cough it is advisable to cure it at once, and not let it run on for an indefinite period.

For this purpose there is nothing so equal Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, a remedy that has been universally used for the past twenty-five years.

You do not experiment when you get it. Mrs. Louis Lalonde, Penetanguishene, Ont., writes:—"When my little boy was two years old he caught a cold which turned into bronchitis. I tried everything to cure him, even to doctor's medicine, but it did him no good. One day I was advised to give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a trial, and before he had half a bottle used, he was cured. I would advise all mothers to try it, as good results will follow. My home is never without it."

See that you get "Dr. Wood's," as there are numerous imitations. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, 3 pine trees the trade mark; the price, 25 and 50 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

IMMODEST APPAREL

DEPLORES MANNER IN WHICH WOMEN VIE WITH EACH OTHER.

Hamilton, Ont., June 4.—"We appreciate heartily the attitude of the women of our land who refuse to bow to the mandate of Parisian and London fashions, and we know they exert an influence for good. We just as distinctly deplore the manner in which many women seem to vie with each other in wearing immodest apparel, and believe that the wave of crime passing over the land is in no small degree due to the disregard of becoming appearance in this respect."

The above resolution was passed at the meeting of the Hamilton District Methodist Conference to-day. The word "scantily" clad was in the original resolution, but was removed. There was a lively discussion on the question.

Prince Albert Paid Quiet Visit to Toronto

Toronto, June 7.—Almost before Mr. and Mrs. Toronto were out of bed Friday morning a blue-blooded Prince from the motherland had slipped into the city and out again, departing as quietly as he came. He was His Royal Highness Prince Albert Frederick George, second eldest son of the world's greatest monarch.

It was without frills or fads, flags waving, hand-clapping or cheering, that is usually associated with the visit of a member of the Royal family, that the youthful Prince came and went. He is traveling quietly, and his visit to the city is not supposed to concern the public. Officially, the city knows nothing about the Prince. He just came. He saw, and went without a civic dignitary to welcome him. A special C.P.R. train bearing His Royal Highness and a party of sixty-nine royal naval cadets from the training ship Cumberland arrived in the city at six this morning. It was shunted over on the siding at the foot of Yonge-st. till 7.15 when they all climbed out, and went aboard the steamer Chippewa for Lewiston to take in the sights.

There were very few of the curious on hand to get a glimpse at the Prince. He was the last to leave his Pullman "Dynoch." He stepped down, and walked away with some of his pals, being recognized by very few. He was dressed in a neat blue suit of Royal naval uniform, and carried a marine glass. As all the cadets were dressed in the ship's uniform, the Prince managed to elude identification. Even the newspaper men and the photographers missed him in the crowd. He sauntered down the dock, and passed through the gates up the gang plank of the Chippewa, and it was all over. He walked around the decks for a few minutes, and that is where the photographers caught him.

SWINDLERS WORE GARB OF ROMAN CATHOLIC PRIEST

Toronto, June 5.—Two pretended Catholic priests succeeded in robbing Stefano Stasoff, a Greek, of $700 by means of the old valise trick. Only $100 of the amount taken was Stasoff's own money, the balance of $700 he had borrowed from a friend, Christo Grogzier, to give to the two crooks.

There were no new flourishes on the old trick, and the same old properties and line of talk were used by the crooks, who relied on Stefano's greenness to gather him in. It did.

One of them, respectfully dressed, accosted their victim in front of the Labor Bureau on Front-st. Arm and arm with his victim he walked along Front-st., and in accents low and mysterious, told him of the $14,000 in real money that he had with him in the valise; money that had been entrusted to him by pious souls to distribute among the Catholic immigrants in Toronto.

There was a fine fat share coming to Stasoff out of this money if he wanted it, and when the second of the pretended priests had joined the party and confirmed his partner's statements, poor Stefano was hooked. He was even to be given a good job as well as a share of the $14,000.

Taking him to the grounds of the Metropolitan Church, the valise was opened and big fat bundles of money done up in packages of $1,000, displayed. Each bundle had a $100 bill on the top of it; well made, good looking stage money.

Of course Stefano had to show that he wanted a share and was willing to accept the fine position that was coming to him. Stefano even was will-
