B. J. GOUGH

"Where the Good Clothes Come From." Lindsay

KIRKFIELD.

Kirkfield, June 17.—H. D. McInnis was in Lindsay on Monday. The stork visited our neighborhood on Wednesday last and left a baby boy with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rusland. Mr. Bert McGirr, of Treherne, Man., who is visiting his home in Bolsover, called on friends in town last week. Miss Winnifred and Kathleen Mitchell, who have been attending a convent in London, England, also Mr. Alfred Mitchell, who has been attending Loyala College, Montreal, returned home on Friday evening. The annual meeting of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held on Friday evening in the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Woodger, a student of Victoria University, Toronto, gave an illustrated lecture on the life among the miners, lumbermen, farmers, fishermen and Indians of the Northwest, and also of New Ontario. The following officers were elected: Mr. H. J. Hoidge, President; Mr. Sam Truman, Vice-President, and Mr. Oliver McInnis, Sec.-Treas. The meeting was largely attended and enjoyed by all. Mr. Birchard, of Cobocok, spent Saturday in town. Mrs. MacLean and son, of Cannington, visited Dr. and Mrs. MacLean last week. Miss Mona Ross, of Orillia College, is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mr. J. Lang, of Sterling Bank staff, left on Monday for his vacation. Mr. S. Jackson returned after a two weeks' vacation on Saturday.

A Large Collection of Animals With Barnum and Bailey's Circus

The menageries department of the Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth, which comes here next Saturday, enjoys, in addition to its entertaining features, a wealth of fun and humor. The monkey cage holds a fascination for many. There is a Siamese monkey in a cage with several others, who, for some reason, will have nothing to do with him. This ostracism exasperated the Siamese, and whenever he got a chance he would grab one of the others by the tail, drag him all over the high perches and drop his victim with a dull thud. Mr. John Patterson, who has charge of the Zoological department, is the owner of a fine watch dog, which is on friendly terms with many of the animals. Mr. Patterson has another pet, a large "Spider" monkey, so tame that he is allowed the freedom of the menagerie, except at exhibition hours. "Zulu," the monkey, takes a delight in teasing the dog. As soon as the dog settles himself for a doze the monkey will steal up and give the canine's tail a vicious tug. Of course the dog will go for her, but she will simply wait till he gets close enough, then leap over his head and from behind give his tail another pull. The elephants have a decided sense of humor, or signs of one any way, and many are the amusing capers they indulge in between exhibition hours. There are forty of these mammoth pachyderms with the Barnum & Bailey collection, two of which are said to be the rarest and most costly in the world. They have huge, umbrella-shaped ears, which cover nearly half of their bodies. One of them is deeply attached to "Boston," the baby elephant of the group, and is never quiet when "Boston" is out of her sight. The explosion also blew down a portion of the house. Miss Bilodeau, in the course of an interview at the hospital, said the infernal machine was about six inches in length. When Mrs. Bilodeau began to open the parcel there was a blue flame, followed instantly by the explosion. Mrs. Bilodeau was the wife of Theo. Bilodeau, a contractor. A search of the room revealed pieces of a letter which had evidently been inside the parcel containing the bomb. The writing upon these pieces is in French, and the police think that though they will not be able to join the fragments together to form the whole letter the writing will give them a clue.

Infernal Machine Sent Through Mail

Sherbrooke, Que., June 17.—An infernal machine sent through the mails when opened this morning killed Mrs. Bilodeau and mortally wounded Miss Bilodeau, her sister-in-law. The infernal machine came through the post and was delivered in the ordinary way at noon. Mrs. Bilodeau was proceeding to open it when the parcel exploded and Mrs. Bilodeau fell to the floor terribly injured, death coming to her instantaneously. Miss Bilodeau, who was with her sister-in-law at the time the parcel arrived, was hurled across the room by the explosion, and in addition to bad injuries to the body had one arm blown completely off. No motive has so far been ascertained by the police to explain the sending of the bomb, which was itself completely destroyed. The explosion also blew down a

OBITUARY

ELIZABETH ANN WAKELY.
The unexpected death of Elizabeth Ann Wakely, beloved wife of Mr. John Ayers, of Fenelon township, took place shortly after midnight on Monday, June 16. For a month past the deceased had been in poor health, and early Monday took a weak spell from which she failed to recover. The deceased lady was born in England, but during her life-time lived with her husband in Oshawa, Beaverton, near Downeyville and in Fenelon township, and in all places was highly respected. In religion she was a Methodist, a strict follower of the faith, and also a worker. Much sympathy is felt for the husband and members of the family, who are left to mourn her demise. They are: William John Ayers, and Effie, son and daughter at home; Mrs. J. Smith, of Emily, and Mrs. Alex. Zealand, of Ops, daughters of the deceased. The brothers are: Messrs. John Wakely, of Hampton, and Fred, Louis and Wesley Allen, all of Hampton, Ont., while one sister, Mrs. Prouse, of Brooklin, Ont., also survives.

LATE ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
Far away in India, in the city made famous in history, Calcutta, are interred the remains of Arthur Sullivan, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Sullivan, Regent-st., who passed into the world of the great majority on May 17th, 1913, word of his death reaching here just one month later, Tuesday, June 17. Sad, indeed, was the message, although it was couched in the kindest of sympathetic terms, but despite the fact that it is seven years since Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan last saw their son, and that his death comes as a great shock to them, they are bearing up well, glorying in the fact that Arthur has gone to join his heavenly Master, and knowing full well that while on earth the deceased lived an exemplary life.

Just about a month ago the parents in Lindsay received word that their son was in the hospital suffering from appendicitis, that on Sunday he was apparently in the very best of health, having played the organ in the Baptist chapel, but that on the following Monday he was removed to the Presidency General Hospital for proper attention. Then in the letter received yesterday (Tuesday) is announced the sad, sad news that he was dead, just one week after being taken to the hospital. The operation for appendicitis and accompanying complications was performed successfully, but death had resulted from a weak heart.

Arthur was in his 28th year and a very industrious boy, and since learning his trade of iron worker, which much resembles that of tinsmithing in this country, he had been blessed with rapid promotion, and was a trusted and skillful employe of one of the largest English firms. When three years ago the firm wanted 20 young men to go to Calcutta to take their places in a large factory where some 300 natives were employed, the late Mr. Sullivan was one of those who decided to go, and there he had resided ever since.

In India, according to beautiful letters received from Miss E. M. Dyson, principal of the United Mission and Training College, and others, the deceased put into every day practice the command of the Master to spread the gospel to all people, and he was one of the hardest laborers in the work of christianization and education. He taught the children of the natives of Calcutta how to sing and was himself organist in the Baptist chapel. His was a clean life and a good life, and in this their hour of bereavement Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and family have the sincere sympathy of the citizens of Lindsay.

The brothers of the deceased are: Messrs. Walter, Robert and James, while Miss Madge Sullivan, organist of the Baptist church, Lindsay, is a sister of the departed one.

CAUGHT FISH WRONG WAY.
Thomas Shipman, who lives near Kingston paid heavily for illegal netting and interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. On charges laid by Game and Fisheries Overseer Toner, Shipman was fined $101 and costs by Police Magistrate Carroll of Cananogue on Saturday.

A six-year-old boy was drowned at the Island, Toronto, while playing with a toy boat. Singers are like loan sharks--always taking notes.

RENEWING THE FORESTS

REFORESTATION OF ONTARIO IS A GIGANTIC WORK.

The Average Man Little Realizes How Large an Area of the Province Has Been Denuded of Its Timber Supply and How Much of the Land is Only Valuable For the Growing of Timber.

Not much more than a century ago Ontario was an almost unbroken forest. Now the southern portion which we call "Older Ontario" is all but denuded of its woodlands. The settler's axe made the clearings which were necessary before agricultural industry could flourish; the lumberman cut off the valuable timber; and now, where the log heaps blazed merrily in the "clearings" within memory even of many of us, the farr-er burns coal, not for convenience, but of necessity, and manufacturers are beginning to tell him that it will be cheaper to build his barns of corrugated iron than of lumber, says D. G. French in Toronto Sunday World.

But scarcity of wood, either as lumber or as fuel, is not the only reason why reforesting should be considered a matter of provincial or national economics. In the clearing and timbering operations vast areas of soil were laid bare which were ready to be producing little else but forests. It is one of nature's apparent mysteries that the mighty trees will grow where the much smaller plants, grains, and even grasses can scarce find sustenance. Some of this land was cropped for a time but the accumulated humus made by the dead leaves and decayed plants was soon used up and the soil became "blow sand" ready to drift like snow with every blast of wind.

Reforesting operations in Ontario had their beginning in the establishment of a forestry department at the Ontario Agricultural College in 1904. Here the agricultural student was trained in tree-planting and care of woodlands, and nurseries were established to produce young forest trees suitable for replanting. From these planting material was distributed throughout the province to the farmers' woodlands and to set out land unsuited for agriculture.

The opening of the Norfolk Forest Station in 1909 enlarged the scope of the work, because it took up the actual reclamation of waste land by replanting. The province now owns about 1,200 acres at this point. Very extensive nursery work is carried on here in addition to the actual planting. The rearing of the young trees from the seed is a somewhat delicate process. The seedlings are first grown in carefully screened seed-beds where the conditions of the forest as to light and sunshine are reproduced as nearly as possible. From the seed-beds the young trees are transplanted to the nursery lines where they remain until they are ready to set out. At present the forest nursery contains about 500,000 seedlings in seed-beds and 950,000 plants in the nursery lines.

Waste land to the extent of 100 acres has now been replanted at the Forestry Station chiefly with white pine, red pine, Scotch pine, black spruce, larch, chestnut, soft maple, black locust, walnut and butternut. When the young plants are first set out they are usually covered over with brush to keep the wind from blowing all the soil away from the roots. As a hint to woodland growers, I might mention that it was pointed out to me when on a visit to the Forestry Station that the young pines set in the bare sand usually thrived, but those planted in portions where grass was growing were done to death by the thirsty grass--evidence enough that sod is not the proper surrounding for a young orchard or any young trees.

At present the varieties in the seed beds at the station are chiefly white Norway and yellow pine; white cedar, larch and white spruce, while the nursery lines contain the additional varieties of black locust, black walnut, butternut, chestnut, soft maple, elm and white ash. During the last season 375,000 plants were sent out to 35 different counties, and since the organization of the forestry department about one and a half million plants have been sent out so that there are now experimental plantings in 45 counties or districts of Ontario. These plantings are made to fill vacant spots in existing wood lots to protect springs and sources of water supply, and to reclaim or put into use waste portions of farms, sand ridges, hillsides and the like.

Because one can cut down a tree in half an hour that it may take fifty years to replace, there are few persons who have the broad vision and enthusiasm of Mr. E. J. Zavitz, the director of forestry for the province. In an address before the Dominion Forestry Convention he pointed out that Southern Ontario with 20,000 square miles has only 9 per cent. of inferior woodland, while Saxony with 5,789 square miles has 27 per cent. of forest land which yields an annual revenue of $2,299,000. Prussia with 10,420 square miles, one-half the size of Southern Ontario, has 23.5 per cent. of forest land which yields an annual revenue of 17 million dollars. In addition to the value as a financial investment, reforesting will protect the headwaters of streams, provide breeding ground for wild game, provide object lessons in forestry and prevent citizens from developing under conditions which can end only in failure, argues Mr. Zavitz.

Considering Southern Ontario as a whole it is a region of remarkable fertility and yet the examination of a "map of waste lands" which professes an early report on reforesting shows a number of blotchy patches which are described as "sandy areas unfit for agriculture." It is on one of such areas that the young pines and trees of other varieties are growing so healthily at the Norfolk Station. The other areas of considerable extent are found in South Bruce, Lambton, Simcoe, Northumberland and Durham.

KINMOUNT.
Kinmount, June 16.—The annual summer meeting and picnic of the Kinmount branch of the Women's Institute, will be held on Monday, June 23rd, at 3 o'clock, when Miss Chapman, Guelph, will address the meeting on "What we owe to the children." The meeting will be held in Hopkins' grove. All are heartily invited to come and bring their baskets and enjoy an informal time.

SUNDERLAND.

Sunderland, June 17.—Geo. Carter and brother Richard, of Manilla, have purchased a piece of property between the 2nd and 3rd con. of Brock for a game reserve. This property is situated on the Parrish pond, and is known as the Nick Dure property. Shooting or trapping on these premises are now strictly prohibited. A. F. Brethour's new store across the street is being fitted up for an up-to-date tailoring and barber shop. He will occupy the new premises about the middle of July with a fine up-to-date line of gents' furnishings, etc.

The following Sunderland boys left this week for camp at Niagara:—Alex. McLean, Donald McLean, Frank Beall, J. Williams, H. Lapp, Lorne Taylor, Edgar Doble, Reford Miller. They will be attached to Cannington company.

A Cannington ball team came down last Saturday and defeated the locals in a fair ball game. Harry Kesick did the twirling for the visitors, and was well matched by Stan Young of the locals. With a little practice our boys expect to turn the tables in the near future. Farmers and citizens alike hailed with delight the reopening of the Brock House on Wednesday of last week. There is now the best of accommodation in Sunderland, as Mr. Gunn, the genial proprietor, is in charge. On the day the hotel opened the company was formed to take over the property. It will be known as the Brock House Limited, with a capital of $10,000. A charter has since been granted, and a provisional board of directors appointed. Considerably over $5,000 was subscribed, and the shares will be $25 each. Further meetings of the company will be held to complete arrangements for running the hotel, etc.

J. Brown, of Lindsay, spent Monday in Blackwater. Mrs. J. Brabazon is spending a few days with her mother in Lindsay. Oscar Hart, of Wilfrid, was in town recently. Wise men do as they please their wives.
