THE DIVISION COURT LIMITS WILL LIKELY NOT BE CHANGED

Mr. A. C. Graham Thinks the Proposition Ought Not to be Adopted.

"I do not think this talk about changing the number of division courts is being taken seriously by the people," said Mr. A. C. Graham, of Victoria Road the other day. "They have no idea that the change will be made. I do not think it will myself. It does not look reasonable to put two courts 8 miles apart at Oakwood and Lindsay, and ask Woodville people to travel 15 miles and the northern people as far as 27 miles to Kirkfield with all the extra mileage costs. The people of Emily will not care about coming to Lindsay, nor those of Verulam going to Fenelon Falls. I have found the township councils strongly opposed to the proposed change, and in that respect, they are like the county council. Mr. Cummings said to the Watchman-Warder that the change would make the office of clerk and bailiff worthy of a capable man. I don't think it would. Suppose the fees of the clerk now getting $100, were doubled. He would then be getting only $200 and that is not pay for any man. The work of the division court is diminishing anyway. Formerly farmers sold grain almost wholly. They sold it in the winter, and had very little money at other seasons. As a result they got credit until winter, and the credit system resulted in division court suits. Now, farmers sell stock and other stuff all the year round, and pay cash. Now, few accounts are sued unless some dispute arises. The offices are worth less all the time and the officials are poorly paid. The fee system is wrong. Clerks should be paid a salary worth while. The Patrons of Industry were right in that theory. If the convenience of the people were considered the territory of the courts would be changed, but not as now proposed. County boundaries would not be considered, but rather the population to be served. Then the southeast part of Mariposa would be attached to Lindsay, the southwest to Port Perry, the northwest to Cannington. Other courts at Beaverton and Uphill. There would be no court at Oakwood. Omemee is not too far away to come to Lindsay. But I am satisfied no such change will be made as is now being proposed by the authorities."

CANADA'S CORONATION SOLDIERS WERE WELL TREATED IN ENGLAND

Sergt. Charlie Graham Talks of His Trip as One of the Contingent.

On Monday night Sergt. Charlie Graham, son of Mr. John D. Graham, reached home after a month's absence as a member of the Coronation Contingent from Canada. Speaking of his trip Sergt. Graham said: "We had a good time; the sights were wonderful, and the English people did all they could to make us feel at home. The theatres and public places of interest were thrown open to us. We met a good many fellows from the other colonies, whom we had known in South Africa. I don't think much of the way our own government used us. We were sent over steamer and they brought us back the same. The other colonies paid their soldiers $1.20 a day; we got only 50 cents. It was not enough money to enable us to go around much. You could not go anywhere hardly on the omnibus for less than 4 pence return—and we got half fare—and by the time you bought supper perhaps down street, your day's pay was so near gone, that there was small chance of having much fun.

ROUGH ON OFFICERS.
We understand that passes on the omnibuses were issued for us, and believe that the officers kept them from us. We were made tramp 8 or 9 miles every morning and were tired out by the afternoon when we wanted to go down into the city. On the way home on board ship we were given two drills a day. We were ordered up in line and left standing on deck for a while and then disbanded again.

A DISAPPOINTMENT
It was a great disappointment when the coronation could not take place, but everybody made the best of it. The procession was to have been 13 miles long. Some people say there were only 15 Canadians in it, but the rest of the infantry were to have lined the route of the procession. That was a position of honor and would have given a fine chance to see the parade.

OTHER COLONIALS
The Australians are fine fellows. They gave us Canadians each a copy of an Australian patriotic song entitled "Sons of the Southern Sea," as a memento. There was a great variety of troops from all over the world. The representatives of a tribe in Central Africa were great big blacks 6 1/2 feet tall. They gave an exhibition of their method of moving cannon in their hilly country. They took the gun to pieces and had carried these pieces on their heads. One of them would put a gun wheel on his head and walk away with no trouble. The barrel was put on a sort of stretcher, which was mounted on the heads of carriers who took it away easily.

On the first of July we were presented with our South African medals. Cape Colony will give us a star, and if the coronation comes off we shall get a medal commemorating that too.

THE BOER PEACE
The English people do not look on the settlement of the Boer war as we do. They think it was an unconditional surrender. They say the war was costing 1 1/2 millions a week and if it could be settled for 15 millions, the price was not worth talking about."

the Coronation Contingent Home.
Toronto, July 14.—Looking splendidly and feeling the same, the Toronto and Western Ontario members of the Coronation contingent arrived here at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. There was an animated scene at the station when the train straggled in. The soldiers had their heads out of the car windows and shouted greetings to the friends who were awaiting them. At least two score of ladies were among the waiting ones on the platform, and when the train stopped there was a rush and a crush culminating in kisses galore, no matter who was looking. They all report that there was no cause for the reports of alleged dissatisfaction of the corps with the British authorities.

STAND AT EASE.

(By "Paul Porter.")

It was Dominion Day and as usual with most Dominion weather. The streets of our quiet little town were filled with eager, jolly visitors, who laughingly jostled one another about, shook hands with their cousins from other townships, hallooed to acquaintances driving up the street in carriage loads, or kept an anxious look-out for the appearance of some special friend.

The procession was the great thing of the forenoon's entertainment; and many were the jokes and hearty were the laughs that greeted the appearance of every odd or comical feature of its make-up. But the part most eagerly looked for was a regiment of little boys of about ten years of age, who were to join in at the end of the procession for the last quarter of a mile of its march up the main street to the park, where was a large platform on which they were to drill for a few minutes.

I had early secured a place in front booth, and beside me stood two old Scotchmen who were nearly white with age. One was much taller than the other, but with each there was a certain erectness of form, an ease of carriage and an alertness of eye that seemed to proclaim them old soldiers.

When a good deal of the procession had passed the taller man, who had been watching away down the driveway, turned to the other and said: "They're coming Duncan."

"Can ye see them Sandy?" "I can," said Sandy, and he peered away over the crowd again while Duncan had to be content with watching Sandy's face.

Presently Sandy became more eager, and shading his eyes with his hand he looked very earnestly for a few moments. Then he quickly turned to Duncan and looked full in his face, and though his canny Scotch nature forbade him to show excitement, yet there was excitement and delight beaming in his eyes as he said:

"Duncan, they're in kilts." And he watched the magic effect of his words. "Whist, whist Duncan! De ye hear that?"

Both listened and soon caught the gentle distant strains of the bagpipes. Then they forgot themselves, they showed real excitement, Sandy raised on his toes eagerly trying to get a better view, while Duncan caught Sandy's sleeve and vainly tried to raise himself high enough to see. But when they came in front where both could get a good view—then their eyes seemed to light up with the old fire of youth and their whole appearance and movements betrayed the keenest interest.

Marching ahead were four boys, the two outer ones playing small bagpipes and the inner ones beating drums. The regiment followed in fours. All were in kilts, with forms very erect, and eyes straight to the front; and keeping step to the music with a regularity that could not have been excelled by well-trained regulars. All carried imitation rifles or toy guns, except the commanding

Long Hair

"About a year ago my hair was coming out very fast, so I bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. It stopped the falling and made my hair grow very rapidly, until now it is 4 1/2 inches in length."—Mrs. A. Boydston, Atchison, Kans.

There's another hunger than that of the stomach. Hungry hair needs food, needs hair vigor—Ayer's. This is why we say that Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color, and makes the hair grow long and heavy. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office. Address, J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self that stands no show
In my daily life that rushes so,

Was stumbling still toward the shining goal;
I might be merved by the thought sublime;
If I had the time!
